Beck, Fernandez Are Resigned to Electrocution Acts

Lawyers Plan Final Pleas to Court and Dewey; Jailed Since 1949

Ossining, N. Y., March 8 (AP)—Two lustful lovers were reported calmly resigned to die in the electric chair tonight as the final payoff in their murder-for-profit partnership.

But lawyers continued last-minute efforts to save the condemned "Lonely Hearts" slayers—200-pound Mrs. Martha Beck and Raymond Fernandez, the balding Romeo.

Mrs. Beck, 31, and Fernandez, 36, have been in the death house at Sing Sing prison since 1949, but they never have met while in prison.

After another unsuccessful appeal in New York state courts, their lawyers planned to make a final plea to a Federal Court today—either in New York city or the Supreme Court in Washington.

Another appeal to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey to commute the death sentences also was likely.

Pair Is Sentenced

The pair was sentenced for the bludgeon-strangulation murder of a 66-year-old Albany, N. Y., widow, Mrs. Janet Fay.

Mrs. Fay was slain in Valley Stream, N. Y., Jan. 4, 1949, as she pleaded for Fernandez' love. He had met the widow through a lonely hearts club, won her with his honeyed words and got hold of her money.

Other lonely hearts murders were chalked up against Fernandez and Mrs. Beck—who posed as brother and sister as they traveled from state to state—but they were tried only for the murder of Mrs. Fay.

Quadruple Electrocutions

They are scheduled to die in the first quadruple electrocution at Sing Sing in almost four years. John J. King, 22, and Richard J. Power, 22, are to be executed for the murder of William Hupe in a robbery in New York city March 15, 1950.

New York's highest tribunal, the State Court of Appeals, last night unanimously rejected a plea for Fernandez and Mrs. Beck which was made on a constitutional ground. A stay of execution was sought.

Defense attorneys attacked the constitutionality of a new law amendment which allows the Court of Appeals to set a new date for execution without the presence of a defendant, after an appeal of

Petty Thefts Are Investigated

Local police today investigated petty thefts at Kingston High School and at the Kingston Public Library.

Miscellaneous candy was reported taken from the high school cafeteria and only an orange was missing at the library. This had been eaten and its peelings thrown out of a window. It was indicated, however, that there had been a hunt for money in the library.

Police headquarters was notified at 6:56 a. m., by Janitor Edward Bennett that "someone broke into the library during the night." Officers Gerald Every and Carl Janasiewicz investigated and reported that entrance was made by breaking a rear window.

The high school theft was reported later in the morning. It was undetermined how entrance had been gained there but it is believed that a youngster or youngsters might have hidden in the building until others left and then committed the theft and made their way out of a lower floor window.

Detective Clarence Brophy was assigned to investigate.

Jury Is Chosen To Hear $70,000 Tarrock Trial

Port Ewen Woman Seeks to Recover for Death of Husband in 1949

A jury was selected this morning to hear the evidence in a $70,000 action brought by Mrs. Lillian Tarrock of Port Ewen against the city of Kingston to recover for the death of her husband, Ernest Tarrock, who was drowned when his car went off the dock on Dock street on February 4, 1949.

Arthur A. Davis, Jr., and John E. Egan appear for the plaintiff and Corporation Counsel James G. Connelly appears for the defendant.

Mr. Tarrock was operating his car over Ravine street and into Dock street when it is alleged the car skidded on icy pavements and went into the Rondout creek. Plaintiff alleges the City of Kingston was negligent in maintenance of the street and that there was no proper guard rail protection at the point of the accident.

Jurors not engaged on the case were excused until Monday next at 10 o'clock.

Would Re-Name Everest

Hong Kong, March 8 (AP)—Red China wants to re-name Mount Everest, highest peak in the world. The Peiping magazine, "Open Minded Youth," contends the 29,002-foot mountain should be called Chu Mu Long Ma—Tibetan for "Mountain of the Waters of the Sacred Mother." The magazine said the peak was discovered by Tibetan explorers in 1717—"135 years before it was seen by Everest." It was named for Sir George Everest, British military engineer and surveyor general for India, 1830-43.

New System Is Used

Boston, March 8 (AP)—Unofficial sources reported today that a new system of handling time cards was being put into effect at the south postal annex to prevent a recurrence of a pay roll-padding scheme estimated to have cost the government $4,000,000 since 1945. Other reports said several supervisors have been demoted in a shakeup involving scores of postal clerks in the sprawling mail-sorting center.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, March 8 (AP)—The position of the treasury March 6: Net budget receipts $196,388,961.17 Budget expenditures $163,423,351.62. Cash balance $4,929,157,712.38. Customs receipts for month $11,823,628. Budget receipts fiscal year July 1 $27,657,759,374.37. Budget expenditures fiscal year $26,694,088,688.29. Budget surplus $963,670,686.08. Total debt $255,733,981,247.82. Decrease under previous day $168,250,728.65. Gold assets $21,950,692,818.02.

Burns Is Reported Missing in Action

Private First Class Peter J. Burns, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Burns, 148 Murray street has been reported missing in action in Korea since February 12, according to a telegram received Monday night by his parents from the War Department.

Pfc. Burns, who served a year of occupation duty in Germany during World War 2, was recalled to service October 12, 1950. He arrived in Korea early in November 1950 and had served four months to the day he was reported missing.

He had been serving with an infantry regiment.

The local army veteran graduated from the Immaculate Conception School and later attended Kingston High School. He formerly was employed by the Hercules Powder Co., Port Ewen.

Dewey Has Message on Trucks' Bill

Governor's Act Speeds Amended Bill Along in Senate; May Pass Late Today

Oleo Up Again

Senate Finance Group Endorses Measure to Permit Sales

Albany, N. Y., March 8 (AP)—Dewey pressure brought quick Senate approval today of a bill to impose an annual $20,000,000 tax on big trucks, and sent Assembly Republicans into a special mid-day conference.

Indications were that the Assembly, controlled like the Senate by Republicans, would approve the new tax overwhelmingly late today.

The Senate vote was 49 to 3 two Republicans, William F. Condon, Yonkers, and Fred J. Rath, Utica, joined one Democrat, Peter J. Dalessandro, of Albany, in casting negative votes. There was no Senate debate.

Action Made Possible

Albany, N. Y., March 8 (AP)—Governor Dewey sent the Legislature an emergency message today urging immediate approval of a $20,000,000 weight-distance tax on big trucks.

The governor's message to the Republican-controlled Senate and Assembly was a parliamentary device to permit passage, possibly late today, of the new tax program, which has been denounced bitterly by trucking interests.

Receipts from the new levy will help the administration pay for a multi-million-dollar civil defense program, and salary boosts to public school teachers and state workers.

The Senate Finance Committee approved a slightly amended version of the weight-distance bill yesterday, and sent it to the floor for a vote. However, without Dewey's emergency message, the amended bill could not be acted upon until early next week.

Would Operate in October

The amended measure would put the complicated tax program into effect Oct. 1, and would compute the levy on either the loaded or unloaded weight of the truck, depending upon how it was traveling.

The original version would have made the tax effective July 1, and would have charged trucks on the basis of loaded weight only.

Another change would make a jail sentence up to 10 days permissive, instead of mandatory for persons convicted for a second time of operating a truck weighing more than its registered gross weight."

In other legislative developments:

1—The Senate Finance Committee, in a surprise move, endorsed a bill to permit the manufacture and sale of pre-colored, yellow oleo. The measure, introduced by Republican Senator MacNeil Mitchell of Manhattan, would levy a $10-a-year tax on restaurants using the butter substitute, but permit domestic sales without a state tax.

One Senator G.O.P. leader predicted the bill would be approved by his house. Assembly leaders were not optimistic about its chances.

Would Force Bill

2—A last-ditch move by Democrats in both houses to force from committee a bill to freeze residential rents until mid-1953 was smashed by the Republican majorities. The futile effort gave the Democrats another chance to

Russians Boost Arms Spendings

Moscow, March 8 (AP)—The Soviet Union's biggest budget in history, presented to Parliament last night, calls for 21.3 per cent of the government's expected income in 1951 to be spent on arms. Last year's defense outlay was 18.5 per cent of the total budget.

Finance Minister Arseny G. Zverev budgeted defense items at 96,376,000,000 rubles. Russia values her ruble at 25 cents. At that rate, the defense expenditure is being stepped up to $24,094,000,000, or $4,244,000,000 more than last year.

(Dollar-ruble comparisons are difficult because of Russia's vastly different economic standards. They must take into account, also, the wide use of forced labor, lower living standards, cheaper materials and the lack of actual exchange between the ruble and the dollar.

Approval Asked

(President Truman has asked the U. S. Congress to approve a budget of $71,594,000,000, of which $41,421,000,000 is for defense and $7,461,000,000 is earmarked for arms aid to friendly nations.)

Prime Minister Stalin and other top Politburo members attended the supreme Soviet (Parliament) session at which the budget was presented.

In addition to the plans for defense, the minister said 178,500,000,000 rubles (up 20,500,000,000) would be spent on economic projects and 120,800,000,000 rubles (up 3,000,000,000) on social and cultural items, including education, public health and social security.

To Economic Growth

Zverev in his budget address said, in contrast to capitalistic nations, the majority of the expenditures are going to economic development and social and cultural measures.

Zverev said that savings accounts of Soviet citizens are now 18,500,000,000 rubles or more than twice their prewar level. He estimated 43,100,000,000 rubles in revenue would come from direct taxes on the population including income taxes. Among other taxable sources he mentioned 48,000,000,000 rubles were from taxes on profits of 33,200,000,000 rubles from state loans and increased savings of the people.

Bootlegging Gain Feared

Albany, N. Y., March 8 (AP)—Bootlegging might increase if federal taxes on liquor are boosted, the State Liquor Authority says. In its annual report to Governor Dewey and the Legislature, the authority said yesterday that bootleggers had a great price advantage over manufacturers of taxed liquor. "The imposition of additional taxes will immeasurably enhance this advantage of price at the consumer level, which is the chief incentive for the purchase of bootleg liquor," the report said.

Another Parley Held

Washington, March 8 (AP)—Labor leaders went back for another conference today with Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston on their terms for patching up the dispute over mobilization planning. High on the list of their proposals was the re-shaping of wage stabilization board as an 18-man agency with authority to settle disputes as well as to fix wage policy.

Witness Says Rosenberg Asked Secrets for Russia

Hears Verdict

The death verdict was returned at Washington against Oscar Collazo (above), 37, survivor of two Puerto Ricans who failed in attempted assassination of President Truman last November.

Max Elitcher Declares Trial Defendant Said Many Were Assisting

New York, March 8 (AP)—A former navy ordance employe testified in the nation's first atom spy trial today that one of the three defendants asked him to supply government secrets for Russia.

Max Elitcher said Julius Rosenberg, 34, an electrical engineer, told him that "many people" were aiding the Russians by providing classified information.

Rosenberg, his wife, Ethel, 34, and radar expert Morton Sobell, 33, are accused of wartime espionage in behalf of Russia. They face a possible death penalty.

Elitcher said Rosenberg talked about "the job the Soviet Union was doing in the war effort and that some interests in the United States were denying them information and impeding their effort."

Sought Blueprints

He told a federal court jury that Rosenberg asked him to obtain plans, blueprints and other information for evaluation and possible transmission to Russia.

Rosenberg also inquired, Elitcher said, whether he knew "any engineering students or graduates who were progressive and who would be safe to approach on the question of espionage."

Elitcher, the government's first witness, said Rosenberg asked him for the information in Washington in 1944. Elitcher then was living at 247 Delaware avenue, he said.

Concerning a second defendant, Elitcher said Sobell in 1948 recruited him into the Young Communist League. This occurred while he and Sobel were rooming together at 2925 Seventh street, Northwest, in Washington, he said.

Finally Did Join

"He asked me about joining the Young Communist League," Elitcher said, "At the time, I said 'No,' and for some period he continued to ask me about it and I finally did make such a move."

The witness, a short, slender man now living in Queens, was asked by the prosecution to point out Sobell. He rose, and pointed, saying: "The man sitting at the end of the table."

Defense Counsel Harold M. Phillips objected strongly to the testimony, claiming it preceded the wartime period covered by the indictment.

"Are we going to the beginning of the world?" he demanded.

Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman overruled him.

Elitcher said he and Sobell went to school together in New York.

U. S. Attorney Irving H. Saypol told the Federal Court jury yesterday that the alleged conspiracy to feed secrets to Russia dealt in "sketches of the very atomic bomb itself."

Saypol's Opening

In his opening address to the Federal Court jury of 11 men and one woman, Saypol said:

"The evidence will show you how, at the behest of the Rosenbergs, Greenglass stole and turned over to them and to their co-conspirator Harry Gold at secret rendezvous, sketches and descriptions of secrets concerning atomic energy and sketches of the very atomic bomb itself.

Saypol was linking the defendants with Philadelphia Chemist Harry Gold, confessed chief American Soviet agent for Klaus Fuchs, British atomic scientist, and David Greenglass, who also has pleaded guilty to spy charges.

Fuchs is in a British prison. Gold, now serving a 30-year prison term, and Greenglass, await-

Collazo Case Might Go to High Court With His Appeal

Federal Jury Declares Puerto Rican Guilty of Murder; Takes Little Time

Washington, March 8 (AP)—The little Puerto Rican Oscar Collazo has been doomed to death in the electric chair following conviction for murder during an attempt to assassinate President Truman.

It took a federal court jury only an hour and 42 minutes yesterday to convict the 37-year-old Collazo on two first-degree murder counts. Each carries a mandatoy sentence of death, although the formal sentencing was delayed.

Collazo's companion in an attempt to storm Blair House last Nov. 1 paid with his life on the spot.

Based on Coffelt

Both the first-degree murder counts against Collazo, 37, were based on Coffelt's death. He also was convicted of assault with intent to kill in the wounding of two other White House guards, Joseph H. Downs and Donald T. Birdzell.

By its verdict the jury rejected Collazo's story that he and Torresola merely wanted to stage a demonstration in behalf of Puerto Rican independence and did not intend to kill anyone.

Collazo's case went to the jury at 3:40 p. m. yesterday, the sev-

Razmara's Brother Blames Communists

Boston, March 8 (AP)—The assassination of Iranian Premier Ali Razmara has been blamed by the slain man's brother as "the work of Communists."

Reza Razmara, 35, associated with the engineering firm of Jackson and Moorland here, said:

"I expected it. My brother was known to be strongly opposed to communism before he came to power.

"There has been a movement for some time for the nationalization of Iranian oil and I believe that the Communist underground took advantage of prevailing conditions—using it as a springboard to stimulate national unrest."

The slain premier's brother, an electrical engineer, is on leave from his post as director of training of the Iranian railways.

Senate Committees Vote Two-House Okay on Soldiers

Coalition Takes Control of Voting; Lodge Proposal Is Approved

Washington, March 8 (AP)—With a coalition in control, two Senate committees voted 14-10 today for requiring both Senate and House approval of any assignment of American troops to the North Atlantic defense force.

By the same vote, the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees approved a proposal by Senator Lodge (R.-Mass.) to put the Senate on record as saying European nations must make the "major contribution" to ground forces under the command of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

This reversed a 12-12 tie vote by which a similar proposal by Lodge was defeated yesterday.

Chairman Connally (D.-Tex.) and nine other Democrats were outvoted in the two moves by a

RFC Probe Turns To Records Search

Justice Department Is Asked to Go Over Hearings Data

Washington, March 8 (AP)—Senators investigating charges of influence on RFC lending asked the Justice Department today to search its record of hearings for evidence of perjury, tax evasion or other violations of law.

Chairman Fulbright (D.-Ark.) announced his Senate Banking Subcommittee had voted unanimously to ask for the inquiry. It has been supplying the Justice Department a daily copy of witnesses' sworn testimony.

The decision came after a private huddle of the senators.

Earlier, they had held a short closed door cross-examination of RFC Director Walter L. Dunham and had quoted him as saying a fellow board member urged him to resign and "become the fall guy" in the subcommittee's investigation.

Fulbright said Dunham named Director C. Edward Rowe as the man who made the proposal.

Fourteen U.S. Jets Scare Off Russian-Built Planes Over Northwest Korea

Peaks Are Seized

U.S. Seventh Soldiers Seize Three Hills on East Front

Tokyo, March 8 (AP) — Allied troops stabbed ahead one to two miles today against spotty resistance in the second day of their 70-mile wide drive in Korea.

Field dispatches said the Red resistance was "more of a rear-guard nature, indicating the Communists were withdrawing their main body of troops in front of the advancing allies."

A U. S. Eighth Army briefing officer said 11,039 Chinese and North Korean Reds were killed or wounded Wednesday on the opening day of the assault—one of the biggest allied attacks of the war.

The weather was springlike, sunny but nippy enough to require an overcoat.

While ground troops crunched ahead, 14 U. S. F-86 sabre jets intercepted 17 MIG-type fighters over northwest Korea. The Russian-built jets fled. Neither side sustained damage.

"We didn't have time to get in any good shots at them," said Lt. Col. Glenn T. Eagleston, flight leader. "As soon as they saw us coming they turned tail and ran."

U. S. 25th Fans Out

The U. S. 25th Division fanned out an additional mile Thursday from the three-mile-deep bridgehead it carved Wednesday on the north bank of the Han river east of Seoul. The 25th made three assault crossings over bridges built under Red mortar fire. Its advance Thursday was against little or no resistance.

On the right of the 25th, the U. S. 24th Division drove ahead almost two miles against scattered resistance.

And farther along the battleline, from west to east:

U. S. First Cavalry Division troops advanced almost two miles unopposed northeast of Chipyong toward Hongchon.

500 Reds Are Entrenched

Air reports from the center of the front, north of Hoengsong, said 500 Reds were dug in eight miles ahead of U. S. marine line and 300 were entrenched 10 miles ahead of the leathernecks.

U. S. Second Division elements advanced more than a mile Thursday morning but later ran into heavy fire six and nine miles east of Hoengsong.

U. S. Seventh Division troops captured three peaks on the east-central front. The newly-won high points command territory over which Reds would have to cross to attack. Seventh Division patrols reported an estimated 300 Reds dug in on high positions north of Taemi, a town in the Korean No-Man's-Land.

Air reports indicated South Korean troops on the extreme right of the assault line, thrown back two to three miles by North Korean Reds Wednesday, had regained some of the lost ground or were holding firm.

Buildup Continues

Although the allied attack surprised and stunned the Reds, they continued to build up for an expected countersmash. Air observers Wednesday night spotted more than 900 Red vehicles moving through North Korea toward battle lines throughout North Korea. U. S. Fifth Air Force pilots claimed they destroyed 42.

Day and night fighter planes teamed up to destroy an ammunition train 60 miles northwest of Seoul.

Night planes wrecked the locomotive and ripped up tracks each side of the train. Day-time fliers then worked on the stalled train and left it aflame.

B-29 Superforts rained 220 tons of high explosives on the vital Red supply center of Chunchon in central Korea, 20 miles north of the battleline.

A U. S. Navy spokesman said fleet dive bombers were knocking out bridge spans faster than Red repair crews could rebuild them.

A North Korean communique broadcast by Moscow Radio said North Korean troops surrounded two allied battalions Wednesday and killed and wounded 683 officers and men.

The communique did not mention the allied attacks along the western and central fronts. It said only that North Korean troops and "Chinese volunteers" were "firmly holding the positions previously occupied."

Five Little Sisters Lose Their Tonsils

Reactions ranging from the verge of tears to unconcern are registered according to age by the five little Brennan sisters as they await tonsil operations by Dr. William Wood (right) at Carney Hospital in Boston. Daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Brennan of Quincy, Mass., they are (left to right) Geraldine, 8; Regina, 7; Dolores, 5; Mary, 4, being caressed by Dr. Wood to stave off tears and Dianne, 3, eyeing surgeon apprehensively. The operations were successful and everyone is scheduled to go home within a few days. (AP Wirephoto).

Local Labor Unions Fight New Unemployment Measure

Local labor groups have gone into full-scale action in opposition to the Hughes-Brees bill which they call a "plot to kill unemployment insurance."

They claim it means "less work, fewer jobs and no protection," also that "the unemployment insurance reserve fund—a $900 million bulwark against depression now guaranteed by law—would be hacked to pieces and divided up for the benefit of giant industries, utilities, banking houses, and insurance companies."

Leaders in AFL and CIO unions are urging their members to write or wire their representatives in Albany to vote against the legislation, and to do it immediately.

Labor committees of the Assembly and Senate are still studying the measure, but it is expected to go to a vote this week.

Those who have made contact with Senator Arthur H. Wicks of this city and Assemblyman John F. Wadlin of Highland said they were non-committal on the bill.

President Samuel Doyle of the Ulster County Trades and Labor Council said, "Behind the drive in Albany are the biggest employers in the state. Their target is the workers and employers in small scale industries, particularly the construction, apparel trades and other industries with fluctuating employment."

Doyle added, "The heaviest burdens will be placed on the worker and the small business man, the

The Senate vote was 49 to 3 two Republicans, William F. Condon, Yonkers, and Fred J. Rath, Utica, joined one Democrat, Peter J. Dalessandro, of Albany, in casting negative votes. There was no Senate debate.

Action Made Possible

Albany, N. Y., March 8 (AP)—Governor Dewey sent the Legislature an emergency message today urging immediate approval of a $20,000,000 weight-distance tax on big trucks.

The governor's message to the Republican-controlled Senate and Assembly was a parliamentary device to permit passage, possibly late today, of the new tax program, which has been denounced bitterly by trucking interests.

Receipts from the new levy will help the administration pay for a multi-million-dollar civil defense program, and salary boosts to public school teachers and state workers.

The Senate Finance Committee approved a slightly amended version of the weight-distance bill yesterday, and sent it to the floor for a vote. However, without Dewey's emergency message, the amended bill could not be acted upon until early next week.

Would Operate in October

The amended measure would put the complicated tax program into effect Oct. 1, and would compute the levy on either the loaded or unloaded weight of the truck, depending upon how it was traveling.

The original version would have made the tax effective July 1, and would have charged trucks on the basis of loaded weight only.

Another change would make a jail sentence up to 10 days permissive, instead of mandatory for persons convicted for a second time of operating a truck weighing more than its registered gross weight."

In other legislative developments:

1—The Senate Finance Committee, in a surprise move, endorsed a bill to permit the manufacture and sale of pre-colored, yellow oleo. The measure, introduced by Republican Senator MacNeil Mitchell of Manhattan, would levy a $10-a-year tax on restaurants using the butter substitute, but permit domestic sales without a state tax.

One Senator G.O.P. leader predicted the bill would be approved by his house. Assembly leaders were not optimistic about its chances.

Russians Boost Arms Spendings

Moscow, March 8 (AP)—The Soviet Union's biggest budget in history, presented to Parliament last night, calls for 21.3 per cent of the government's expected income in 1951 to be spent on arms. Last year's defense outlay was 18.5 per cent of the total budget.

Finance Minister Arseny G. Zverev budgeted defense items at 96,376,000,000 rubles. Russia values her ruble at 25 cents. At that rate, the defense expenditure is being stepped up to $24,094,000,000, or $4,244,000,000 more than last year.

(Dollar-ruble comparisons are difficult because of Russia's vastly different economic standards. They must take into account, also, the wide use of forced labor, lower living standards, cheaper materials and the lack of actual exchange between the ruble and the dollar.

Approval Asked

(President Truman has asked the U. S. Congress to approve a budget of $71,594,000,000, of which $41,421,000,000 is for defense and $7,461,000,000 is earmarked for arms aid to friendly nations.)

Prime Minister Stalin and other top Politburo members attended the supreme Soviet (Parliament) session at which the budget was presented.

In addition to the plans for defense, the minister said 178,500,000,000 rubles (up 20,500,000,000) would be spent on economic projects and 120,800,000,000 rubles (up 3,000,000,000) on social and cultural items, including education, public health and social security.

To Economic Growth

Zverev in his budget address said, in contrast to capitalistic nations, the majority of the expenditures are going to economic development and social and cultural measures.

Zverev said that savings accounts of Soviet citizens are now 18,500,000,000 rubles or more than twice their prewar level. He estimated 43,100,000,000 rubles in revenue would come from direct taxes on the population including income taxes. Among other taxable sources he mentioned 48,000,000,000 rubles were from taxes on profits of 33,200,000,000 rubles from state loans and increased savings of the people.

Bootlegging Gain Feared

Albany, N. Y., March 8 (AP)—Bootlegging might increase if federal taxes on liquor are boosted, the State Liquor Authority says. In its annual report to Governor Dewey and the Legislature, the authority said yesterday that bootleggers had a great price advantage over manufacturers of taxed liquor. "The imposition of additional taxes will immeasurably enhance this advantage of price at the consumer level, which is the chief incentive for the purchase of bootleg liquor," the report said.

Another Parley Held

Washington, March 8 (AP)—Labor leaders went back for another conference today with Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston on their terms for patching up the dispute over mobilization planning. High on the list of their proposals was the re-shaping of wage stabilization board as an 18-man agency with authority to settle disputes as well as to fix wage policy.

Witness Says Rosenberg Asked Secrets for Russia

Hears Verdict

The death verdict was returned at Washington against Oscar Collazo (above), 37, survivor of two Puerto Ricans who failed in attempted assassination of President Truman last November.

Max Elitcher Declares Trial Defendant Said Many Were Assisting

New York, March 8 (AP)—A former navy ordance employe testified in the nation's first atom spy trial today that one of the three defendants asked him to supply government secrets for Russia.

Max Elitcher said Julius Rosenberg, 34, an electrical engineer, told him that "many people" were aiding the Russians by providing classified information.

Rosenberg, his wife, Ethel, 34, and radar expert Morton Sobell, 33, are accused of wartime espionage in behalf of Russia. They face a possible death penalty.

Elitcher said Rosenberg talked about "the job the Soviet Union was doing in the war effort and that some interests in the United States were denying them information and impeding their effort."

Sought Blueprints

He told a federal court jury that Rosenberg asked him to obtain plans, blueprints and other information for evaluation and possible transmission to Russia.

Rosenberg also inquired, Elitcher said, whether he knew "any engineering students or graduates who were progressive and who would be safe to approach on the question of espionage."

Elitcher, the government's first witness, said Rosenberg asked him for the information in Washington in 1944. Elitcher then was living at 247 Delaware avenue, he said.

Concerning a second defendant, Elitcher said Sobell in 1948 recruited him into the Young Communist League. This occurred while he and Sobel were rooming together at 2925 Seventh street, Northwest, in Washington, he said.

Finally Did Join

"He asked me about joining the Young Communist League," Elitcher said, "At the time, I said 'No,' and for some period he continued to ask me about it and I finally did make such a move."

The witness, a short, slender man now living in Queens, was asked by the prosecution to point out Sobell. He rose, and pointed, saying: "The man sitting at the end of the table."

Defense Counsel Harold M. Phillips objected strongly to the testimony, claiming it preceded the wartime period covered by the indictment.

"Are we going to the beginning of the world?" he demanded.

Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman overruled him.

Elitcher said he and Sobell went to school together in New York.

U. S. Attorney Irving H. Saypol told the Federal Court jury yesterday that the alleged conspiracy to feed secrets to Russia dealt in "sketches of the very atomic bomb itself."

Saypol's Opening

In his opening address to the Federal Court jury of 11 men and one woman, Saypol said:

"The evidence will show you how, at the behest of the Rosenbergs, Greenglass stole and turned over to them and to their co-conspirator Harry Gold at secret rendezvous, sketches and descriptions of secrets concerning atomic energy and sketches of the very atomic bomb itself.

Saypol was linking the defendants with Philadelphia Chemist Harry Gold, confessed chief American Soviet agent for Klaus Fuchs, British atomic scientist, and David Greenglass, who also has pleaded guilty to spy charges.

Fuchs is in a British prison. Gold, now serving a 30-year prison term, and Greenglass, await-

Federal Jury Declares Puerto Rican Guilty of Murder; Takes Little Time

Washington, March 8 (AP)—The little Puerto Rican Oscar Collazo has been doomed to death in the electric chair following conviction for murder during an attempt to assassinate President Truman.

It took a federal court jury only an hour and 42 minutes yesterday to convict the 37-year-old Collazo on two first-degree murder counts. Each carries a mandatoy sentence of death, although the formal sentencing was delayed.

Collazo's companion in an attempt to storm Blair House last Nov. 1 paid with his life on the spot.

Based on Coffelt

Both the first-degree murder counts against Collazo, 37, were based on Coffelt's death. He also was convicted of assault with intent to kill in the wounding of two other White House guards, Joseph H. Downs and Donald T. Birdzell.

By its verdict the jury rejected Collazo's story that he and Torresola merely wanted to stage a demonstration in behalf of Puerto Rican independence and did not intend to kill anyone.

Collazo's case went to the jury at 3:40 p. m. yesterday, the sev-

Razmara's Brother Blames Communists

Boston, March 8 (AP)—The assassination of Iranian Premier Ali Razmara has been blamed by the slain man's brother as "the work of Communists."

Reza Razmara, 35, associated with the engineering firm of Jackson and Moorland here, said:

"I expected it. My brother was known to be strongly opposed to communism before he came to power.

"There has been a movement for some time for the nationalization of Iranian oil and I believe that the Communist underground took advantage of prevailing conditions—using it as a springboard to stimulate national unrest."

The slain premier's brother, an electrical engineer, is on leave from his post as director of training of the Iranian railways.

Coalition Takes Control of Voting; Lodge Proposal Is Approved

Washington, March 8 (AP)—With a coalition in control, two Senate committees voted 14-10 today for requiring both Senate and House approval of any assignment of American troops to the North Atlantic defense force.

By the same vote, the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees approved a proposal by Senator Lodge (R.-Mass.) to put the Senate on record as saying European nations must make the "major contribution" to ground forces under the command of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

This reversed a 12-12 tie vote by which a similar proposal by Lodge was defeated yesterday.

Chairman Connally (D.-Tex.) and nine other Democrats were outvoted in the two moves by a

Justice Department Is Asked to Go Over Hearings Data

Washington, March 8 (AP)—Senators investigating charges of influence on RFC lending asked the Justice Department today to search its record of hearings for evidence of perjury, tax evasion or other violations of law.

Chairman Fulbright (D.-Ark.) announced his Senate Banking Subcommittee had voted unanimously to ask for the inquiry. It has been supplying the Justice Department a daily copy of witnesses' sworn testimony.

The decision came after a private huddle of the senators.

Earlier, they had held a short closed door cross-examination of RFC Director Walter L. Dunham and had quoted him as saying a fellow board member urged him to resign and "become the fall guy" in the subcommittee's investigation.

Fulbright said Dunham named Director C. Edward Rowe as the man who made the proposal.

Local Labor Unions Fight New Unemployment Measure

Local labor groups have gone into full-scale action in opposition to the Hughes-Brees bill which they call a "plot to kill unemployment insurance."

They claim it means "less work, fewer jobs and no protection," also that "the unemployment insurance reserve fund—a $900 million bulwark against depression now guaranteed by law—would be hacked to pieces and divided up for the benefit of giant industries, utilities, banking houses, and insurance companies."

Leaders in AFL and CIO unions are urging their members to write or wire their representatives in Albany to vote against the legislation, and to do it immediately.

Labor committees of the Assembly and Senate are still studying the measure, but it is expected to go to a vote this week.

Those who have made contact with Senator Arthur H. Wicks of this city and Assemblyman John F. Wadlin of Highland said they were non-committal on the bill.

President Samuel Doyle of the Ulster County Trades and Labor Council said, "Behind the drive in Albany are the biggest employers in the state. Their target is the workers and employers in small scale industries, particularly the construction, apparel trades and other industries with fluctuating employment."

Doyle added, "The heaviest burdens will be placed on the worker and the small business man, the

Fourteen U.S. Jets Scare Off Russian-Built Planes Over Northwest Korea

U.S. Seventh Soldiers Seize Three Hills on East Front

Tokyo, March 8 (AP) — Allied troops stabbed ahead one to two miles today against spotty resistance in the second day of their 70-mile wide drive in Korea.

Field dispatches said the Red resistance was "more of a rear-guard nature, indicating the Communists were withdrawing their main body of troops in front of the advancing allies."

A U. S. Eighth Army briefing officer said 11,039 Chinese and North Korean Reds were killed or wounded Wednesday on the opening day of the assault—one of the biggest allied attacks of the war.

The weather was springlike, sunny but nippy enough to require an overcoat.

While ground troops crunched ahead, 14 U. S. F-86 sabre jets intercepted 17 MIG-type fighters over northwest Korea. The Russian-built jets fled. Neither side sustained damage.

"We didn't have time to get in any good shots at them," said Lt. Col. Glenn T. Eagleston, flight leader. "As soon as they saw us coming they turned tail and ran."

U. S. 25th Fans Out

The U. S. 25th Division fanned out an additional mile Thursday from the three-mile-deep bridgehead it carved Wednesday on the north bank of the Han river east of Seoul. The 25th made three assault crossings over bridges built under Red mortar fire. Its advance Thursday was against little or no resistance.

On the right of the 25th, the U. S. 24th Division drove ahead almost two miles against scattered resistance.

And farther along the battleline, from west to east:

U. S. First Cavalry Division troops advanced almost two miles unopposed northeast of Chipyong toward Hongchon.

500 Reds Are Entrenched

Air reports from the center of the front, north of Hoengsong, said 500 Reds were dug in eight miles ahead of U. S. marine line and 300 were entrenched 10 miles ahead of the leathernecks.

U. S. Second Division elements advanced more than a mile Thursday morning but later ran into heavy fire six and nine miles east of Hoengsong.

U. S. Seventh Division troops captured three peaks on the east-central front. The newly-won high points command territory over which Reds would have to cross to attack. Seventh Division patrols reported an estimated 300 Reds dug in on high positions north of Taemi, a town in the Korean No-Man's-Land.

Air reports indicated South Korean troops on the extreme right of the assault line, thrown back two to three miles by North Korean Reds Wednesday, had regained some of the lost ground or were holding firm.

Buildup Continues

Although the allied attack surprised and stunned the Reds, they continued to build up for an expected countersmash. Air observers Wednesday night spotted more than 900 Red vehicles moving through North Korea toward battle lines throughout North Korea. U. S. Fifth Air Force pilots claimed they destroyed 42.

Day and night fighter planes teamed up to destroy an ammunition train 60 miles northwest of Seoul.

Night planes wrecked the locomotive and ripped up tracks each side of the train. Day-time fliers then worked on the stalled train and left it aflame.

B-29 Superforts rained 220 tons of high explosives on the vital Red supply center of Chunchon in central Korea, 20 miles north of the battleline.

A U. S. Navy spokesman said fleet dive bombers were knocking out bridge spans faster than Red repair crews could rebuild them.

A North Korean communique broadcast by Moscow Radio said North Korean troops surrounded two allied battalions Wednesday and killed and wounded 683 officers and men.

The communique did not mention the allied attacks along the western and central fronts. It said only that North Korean troops and "Chinese volunteers" were "firmly holding the positions previously occupied."

Electrocution Awaited

"Lonely Hearts" slayers Martha Beck (left) and Raymond Fernandez (right) are scheduled to be executed in New York's Sing Sing prison the night of Thursday, March 8, for the murder of an Albany, N Y., widow, Mrs. Janet Fay.

Beck, Fernandez Are Resigned to Electrocution Acts

Lawyers Plan Final Pleas to Court and Dewey; Jailed Since 1949

Ossining, N. Y., March 8 (AP)—Two lustful lovers were reported calmly resigned to die in the electric chair tonight as the final payoff in their murder-for-profit partnership.

But lawyers continued last-minute efforts to save the condemned "Lonely Hearts" slayers—200-pound Mrs. Martha Beck and Raymond Fernandez, the balding Romeo.

Mrs. Beck, 31, and Fernandez, 36, have been in the death house at Sing Sing prison since 1949, but they never have met while in prison.

After another unsuccessful appeal in New York state courts, their lawyers planned to make a final plea to a Federal Court today—either in New York city or the Supreme Court in Washington.

Another appeal to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey to commute the death sentences also was likely.

Pair Is Sentenced

The pair was sentenced for the bludgeon-strangulation murder of a 66-year-old Albany, N. Y., widow, Mrs. Janet Fay.

Mrs. Fay was slain in Valley Stream, N. Y., Jan. 4, 1949, as she pleaded for Fernandez' love. He had met the widow through a lonely hearts club, won her with his honeyed words and got hold of her money.

Other lonely hearts murders were chalked up against Fernandez and Mrs. Beck—who posed as brother and sister as they traveled from state to state—but they were tried only for the murder of Mrs. Fay.

Quadruple Electrocutions

They are scheduled to die in the first quadruple electrocution at Sing Sing in almost four years. John J. King, 22, and Richard J. Power, 22, are to be executed for the murder of William Hupe in a robbery in New York city March 15, 1950.

New York's highest tribunal, the State Court of Appeals, last night unanimously rejected a plea for Fernandez and Mrs. Beck which was made on a constitutional ground. A stay of execution was sought.

Defense attorneys attacked the constitutionality of a new law amendment which allows the Court of Appeals to set a new date for execution without the presence of a defendant, after an appeal of

Jury Is Chosen To Hear $70,000 Tarrock Trial

Port Ewen Woman Seeks to Recover for Death of Husband in 1949

A jury was selected this morning to hear the evidence in a $70,000 action brought by Mrs. Lillian Tarrock of Port Ewen against the city of Kingston to recover for the death of her husband, Ernest Tarrock, who was drowned when his car went off the dock on Dock street on February 4, 1949.

Arthur A. Davis, Jr., and John E. Egan appear for the plaintiff and Corporation Counsel James G. Connelly appears for the defendant.

Mr. Tarrock was operating his car over Ravine street and into Dock street when it is alleged the car skidded on icy pavements and went into the Rondout creek. Plaintiff alleges the City of Kingston was negligent in maintenance of the street and that there was no proper guard rail protection at the point of the accident.

Jurors not engaged on the case were excused until Monday next at 10 o'clock.

Would Re-Name Everest

Hong Kong, March 8 (AP)—Red China wants to re-name Mount Everest, highest peak in the world. The Peiping magazine, "Open Minded Youth," contends the 29,002-foot mountain should be called Chu Mu Long Ma—Tibetan for "Mountain of the Waters of the Sacred Mother." The magazine said the peak was discovered by Tibetan explorers in 1717—"135 years before it was seen by Everest." It was named for Sir George Everest, British military engineer and surveyor general for India, 1830-43.

New System Is Used

Boston, March 8 (AP)—Unofficial sources reported today that a new system of handling time cards was being put into effect at the south postal annex to prevent a recurrence of a pay roll-padding scheme estimated to have cost the government $4,000,000 since 1945. Other reports said several supervisors have been demoted in a shakeup involving scores of postal clerks in the sprawling mail-sorting center.

Petty Thefts Are Investigated

Local police today investigated petty thefts at Kingston High School and at the Kingston Public Library.

Miscellaneous candy was reported taken from the high school cafeteria and only an orange was missing at the library. This had been eaten and its peelings thrown out of a window. It was indicated, however, that there had been a hunt for money in the library.

Police headquarters was notified at 6:56 a. m., by Janitor Edward Bennett that "someone broke into the library during the night." Officers Gerald Every and Carl Janasiewicz investigated and reported that entrance was made by breaking a rear window.

The high school theft was reported later in the morning. It was undetermined how entrance had been gained there but it is believed that a youngster or youngsters might have hidden in the building until others left and then committed the theft and made their way out of a lower floor window.

Detective Clarence Brophy was assigned to investigate.

Burns Is Reported Missing in Action

Private First Class Peter J. Burns, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Burns, 148 Murray street has been reported missing in action in Korea since February 12, according to a telegram received Monday night by his parents from the War Department.

Pfc. Burns, who served a year of occupation duty in Germany during World War 2, was recalled to service October 12, 1950. He arrived in Korea early in November 1950 and had served four months to the day he was reported missing.

He had been serving with an infantry regiment.

The local army veteran graduated from the Immaculate Conception School and later attended Kingston High School. He formerly was employed by the Hercules Powder Co., Port Ewen.

Senate Finance Group Endorses Measure to Permit Sales

Albany, N. Y., March 8 (AP)—Dewey pressure brought quick Senate approval today of a bill to impose an annual $20,000,000 tax on big trucks, and sent Assembly Republicans into a special mid-day conference.

Indications were that the Assembly, controlled like the Senate by Republicans, would approve the new tax overwhelmingly late today.

Saypol's Opening

In his opening address to the Federal Court jury of 11 men and one woman, Saypol said:

"The evidence will show you how, at the behest of the Rosenbergs, Greenglass stole and turned over to them and to their co-conspirator Harry Gold at secret rendezvous, sketches and descriptions of secrets concerning atomic energy and sketches of the very atomic bomb itself.

Saypol was linking the defendants with Philadelphia Chemist Harry Gold, confessed chief American Soviet agent for Klaus Fuchs, British atomic scientist, and David Greenglass, who also has pleaded guilty to spy charges.

Fuchs is in a British prison. Gold, now serving a 30-year prison term, and Greenglass, await-

Collazo Case Might Go to High Court With His Appeal

Federal Jury Declares Puerto Rican Guilty of Murder; Takes Little Time

Washington, March 8 (AP)—The little Puerto Rican Oscar Collazo has been doomed to death in the electric chair following conviction for murder during an attempt to assassinate President Truman.

It took a federal court jury only an hour and 42 minutes yesterday to convict the 37-year-old Collazo on two first-degree murder counts. Each carries a mandatoy sentence of death, although the formal sentencing was delayed.

Collazo's companion in an attempt to storm Blair House last Nov. 1 paid with his life on the spot.

Based on Coffelt

Both the first-degree murder counts against Collazo, 37, were based on Coffelt's death. He also was convicted of assault with intent to kill in the wounding of two other White House guards, Joseph H. Downs and Donald T. Birdzell.

By its verdict the jury rejected Collazo's story that he and Torresola merely wanted to stage a demonstration in behalf of Puerto Rican independence and did not intend to kill anyone.

Collazo's case went to the jury at 3:40 p. m. yesterday, the sev-

Razmara's Brother Blames Communists

Boston, March 8 (AP)—The assassination of Iranian Premier Ali Razmara has been blamed by the slain man's brother as "the work of Communists."

Reza Razmara, 35, associated with the engineering firm of Jackson and Moorland here, said:

"I expected it. My brother was known to be strongly opposed to communism before he came to power.

"There has been a movement for some time for the nationalization of Iranian oil and I believe that the Communist underground took advantage of prevailing conditions—using it as a springboard to stimulate national unrest."

The slain premier's brother, an electrical engineer, is on leave from his post as director of training of the Iranian railways.

Coalition Takes Control of Voting; Lodge Proposal Is Approved

Washington, March 8 (AP)—With a coalition in control, two Senate committees voted 14-10 today for requiring both Senate and House approval of any assignment of American troops to the North Atlantic defense force.

By the same vote, the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees approved a proposal by Senator Lodge (R.-Mass.) to put the Senate on record as saying European nations must make the "major contribution" to ground forces under the command of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

This reversed a 12-12 tie vote by which a similar proposal by Lodge was defeated yesterday.

Chairman Connally (D.-Tex.) and nine other Democrats were outvoted in the two moves by a

Justice Department Is Asked to Go Over Hearings Data

Washington, March 8 (AP)—Senators investigating charges of influence on RFC lending asked the Justice Department today to search its record of hearings for evidence of perjury, tax evasion or other violations of law.

Chairman Fulbright (D.-Ark.) announced his Senate Banking Subcommittee had voted unanimously to ask for the inquiry. It has been supplying the Justice Department a daily copy of witnesses' sworn testimony.

The decision came after a private huddle of the senators.

Earlier, they had held a short closed door cross-examination of RFC Director Walter L. Dunham and had quoted him as saying a fellow board member urged him to resign and "become the fall guy" in the subcommittee's investigation.

Fulbright said Dunham named Director C. Edward Rowe as the man who made the proposal.

Five Little Sisters Lose Their Tonsils

Reactions ranging from the verge of tears to unconcern are registered according to age by the five little Brennan sisters as they await tonsil operations by Dr. William Wood (right) at Carney Hospital in Boston. Daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Brennan of Quincy, Mass., they are (left to right) Geraldine, 8; Regina, 7; Dolores, 5; Mary, 4, being car essed by Dr. Wood to stave off tears and Dianne, 3, eyeing surgeon apprehensively. The operations were successful and everyone is scheduled to go home within a few days. (AP Wirephoto).

Local Labor Unions Fight New Unemployment Measure

Local labor groups have gone into full-scale action in opposition to the Hughes-Brees bill which they call a "plot to kill unemployment insurance."

They claim it means "less work, fewer jobs and no protection," also that "the unemployment insurance reserve fund—a $900 million bulwark against depression now guaranteed by law—would be hacked to pieces and divided up for the benefit of giant industries, utilities, banking houses, and insurance companies."

Leaders in AFL and CIO unions are urging their members to write or wire their representatives in Albany to vote against the legislation, and to do it immediately.

Labor committees of the Assembly and Senate are still studying the measure, but it is expected to go to a vote this week.

Those who have made contact with Senator Arthur H. Wicks of this city and Assemblyman John F. Wadlin of Highland said they were non-committal on the bill.

President Samuel Doyle of the Ulster County Trades and Labor Council said, "Behind the drive in Albany are the biggest employers in the state. Their target is the workers and employers in small scale industries, particularly the construction, apparel trades and other industries with fluctuating employment."

Doyle added, "The heaviest burdens will be placed on the worker and the small business man, the

Fourteen U.S. Jets Scare Off Russian-Built Planes Over Northwest Korea

Peaks Are Seized

U.S. Seventh Soldiers Seize Three Hills on East Front

Tokyo, March 8 (AP) — Allied troops stabbed ahead one to two miles today against spotty resistance in the second day of their 70-mile wide drive in Korea.

Field dispatches said the Red resistance was "more of a rear-guard nature, indicating the Communists were withdrawing their main body of troops in front of the advancing allies."

A U. S. Eighth Army briefing officer said 11,039 Chinese and North Korean Reds were killed or wounded Wednesday on the opening day of the assault—one of the biggest allied attacks of the war.

The weather was springlike, sunny but nippy enough to require an overcoat.

While ground troops crunched ahead, 14 U. S. F-86 sabre jets intercepted 17 MIG-type fighters over northwest Korea. The Russian-built jets fled. Neither side sustained damage.

"We didn't have time to get in any good shots at them," said Lt. Col. Glenn T. Eagleston, flight leader. "As soon as they saw us coming they turned tail and ran."

U. S. 25th Fans Out

The U. S. 25th Division fanned out an additional mile Thursday from the three-mile-deep bridgehead it carved Wednesday on the north bank of the Han river east of Seoul. The 25th made three assault crossings over bridges built under Red mortar fire. Its advance Thursday was against little or no resistance.

On the right of the 25th, the U. S. 24th Division drove ahead almost two miles against scattered resistance.

And farther along the battleline, from west to east:

U. S. First Cavalry Division troops advanced almost two miles unopposed northeast of Chipyong toward Hongchon.

500 Reds Are Entrenched

Air reports from the center of the front, north of Hoengsong, said 500 Reds were dug in eight miles ahead of U. S. marine line and 300 were entrenched 10 miles ahead of the leathernecks.

U. S. Second Division elements advanced more than a mile Thursday morning but later ran into heavy fire six and nine miles east of Hoengsong.

U. S. Seventh Division troops captured three peaks on the east-central front. The newly-won high points command territory over which Reds would have to cross to attack. Seventh Division patrols reported an estimated 300 Reds dug in on high positions north of Taemi, a town in the Korean No-Man's-Land.

Air reports indicated South Korean troops on the extreme right of the assault line, thrown back two to three miles by North Korean Reds Wednesday, had regained some of the lost ground or were holding firm.

Buildup Continues

Although the allied attack surprised and stunned the Reds, they continued to build up for an expected countersmash. Air observers Wednesday night spotted more than 900 Red vehicles moving through North Korea toward battle lines throughout North Korea. U. S. Fifth Air Force pilots claimed they destroyed 42.

Day and night fighter planes teamed up to destroy an ammunition train 60 miles northwest of Seoul.

Night planes wrecked the locomotive and ripped up tracks each side of the train. Day-time fliers then worked on the stalled train and left it aflame.

B-29 Superforts rained 220 tons of high explosives on the vital Red supply center of Chunchon in central Korea, 20 miles north of the battleline.

A U. S. Navy spokesman said fleet dive bombers were knocking out bridge spans faster than Red repair crews could rebuild them.

A North Korean communique broadcast by Moscow Radio said North Korean troops surrounded two allied battalions Wednesday and killed and wounded 683 officers and men.

The communique did not mention the allied attacks along the western and central fronts. It said only that North Korean troops and "Chinese volunteers" were "firmly holding the positions previously occupied."

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

In a little book by the late Frank Parker Stockbridge (now out of print) the author refers to the "first" inflation he encountered in his research as having been recorded 25 centuries ago. Countless inflations have occurred since. It would be amusing, if results had not usually been tragic, to note that each time the government or the dictator (and there have been more dictators than free governments in history, as you doubtless are aware) attacked the inflation from the manipulative or easy-money angle rather than from the sound course of curing the cause.

In the first inflation, Solon, who assumed supreme powers in Athens in 594 B. C., "promulgated a plan for the relief of debtors and the redistribution of national wealth which set the pattern other governments have followed, more or less closely, for over 2,500 years."

As Mr. Stockbridge further wrote, the Greeks had a name for the cure of inflation. Solon called his plan "Seisachtheia," literally "shaking off of burdens," which sounds curiously like some much more recent political slogans. "And the means he adopted for putting Seisachtheia into effect have likewise a familiar sound. He reduced the value of the currency and cancelled agrarian debts."

Tracing various inflations down through history it is interesting to note how the "time elements" have varied. That is, how inflations have differed because of the time it has taken for the inflation to take hold—to catch fire.

It seems evident that the "psychology" of inflation is fully as important to study as the economic factors.

In the early 1930's, when former President Roosevelt took us off the free gold standard and commenced to experiment with a different price for gold each morning, printing presses commenced to hum with books and pamphlets pertaining to inflation. Any modern bibliography on inflation contains numerous articles and pamphlets dated in the 1930's. We were all warned time and again that inflation would soon overtake us and ruin us. Yet, a "contrary" psychology prevailed.

The public went serenely on its way, paying little heed to the dreaded fears and maintaining confidence in the dollar. The fact the dollar had been clipped in gold value meant nothing to the average person. The paper dollar in his pocket was still good. That is all he cared about. Result: No ruinous inflation. Indeed, dollars remained dormant. Turnover of money remained quiet. Inflation did not "take."

Now, however, years later, signs of uneasiness and "doubt of the dollar" are developing in the public mind. At the same time, the source of the inflation—monetary policy — is grudgingly being attacked. In consequence, the race between economic forces and psychology is on. A contrary view suggests economics may win and a run-away inflation again may be averted.

Church Declares Troops Must Learn To Use Their Legs

Fort Benning, Ga., March 8 (AP) —Maj. Gen. John H. Church, fresh from Korea, said the doughboy is going to lose his wheels and go back to footslogging.

The general, former 24th Division commander, took over the infantry training center here this week as commandant to apply the bitter lessons learned in Korea.

"I've told them here," said Church in an interview yesterday, "that we must turn out soldiers able to stand on their own two feet and go anywhere.

"I've also told them," he continued, "that we are going to have to re-emphasize realistic night training."

Both these lessons the 24th Division learned the hard way on Heart Break Highway that runs from Seoul through Taejon the Nahktong river line of the old Pusan defense perimeter.

Church took over the 24th shortly after the disappearance of Maj. Gen. William F. Dean at Taejon last July.

He saw his troops, softened by occupation duty in Japan and outnumbered, struggle to check an enemy who moved with ease through the mountains and one that hammered and broke defense lines in night fighting.

"It's perfectly natural for an American not to walk when he can ride," Church commented, "but we have got to develop men capable of fighting through the mountains.

"Now don't think," he cautioned, "that I think we have too many vehicles—which I don't—but we've got to learn to use them differently."

DOMESTIC UNREST IN KREMLIN

In recent weeks we've heard from the editors of Fortune magazine that the Russian Communist government is not really a revolution at all but a counter-revolution, since it leads men away from freedom toward tyranny.

Now David Dallin, a distinguished analyst of Soviet affairs, comes along with another interesting notion about the Russians. In a book just published, entitled "The New Soviet Empire," he makes this statement:

"There can be one sound approach to what is called the Russian question, or the Russian menace, or Soviet aggression: to recognize it for what it is—the thunder of a storm that has long ago rumbled its way to oblivion, a belated heritage of a revolution which has lost all semblance of greatness and almost all its popularity."

What does he mean by this?

Basically, that the people are not with their Soviet masters, that in spite of propaganda drummed into them almost from birth they are not satisfied that they are living in the most perfect of all human societies.

Because they are not, the Kremlin resorts to force on an ever increasing scale to maintain its hold over Russian humanity. In its desperate effort to keep itself surrounded by what Dallin calls an "aura of invincibility," the Kremlin inevitably reaches out to create a world empire that will reinforce its power.

That is what Dallin has in mind when he says the menace of Soviet aggression is really the thunder of a storm that has rumbled to oblivion. Moscow's aggressive moves he sees as the strivings of men to protect themselves not against outsiders but against a crumbling of their strength at home.

He is far from being the first to talk of communism's internal weaknesses in the Soviet Union. Edmund Stevens, able correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor, wrote after leaving Russia that nearly all citizens are thoroughly disillusioned about communism by the time they're thirty-five.

Stevens said that Russians beyond that age are either cynical, resigned, or quietly rebellious. Few seem to be fooled by the Kremlin's extravagant claims and promises.

The people of course have no present means of real rebellion. All the instruments of force are in Kremlin hands. The people are not allowed even to organize for the simplest purpose, in fear such organization might form the nucleus of revolt. Socially speaking, they are a shapeless mass.

Hence it would be a mistake for us to conclude that this condition of dissatisfaction wipes out the Russian menace on the world scene. No matter what the internal weakness, there is always the danger that the Russian leaders, seeing their power and prestige on the wane, will lash out like cornered beasts and touch off a violent struggle.

But what Dallin has said is a helpful antidote to the idea that Russia is an impregnable fortress whose guardians are a great horde of men deeply devoted to communism and determined to die rather than see that regime go down. They are indeed loyal to their masters, but their loyalty is bought by fear and the use of force. Should world and internal events some day give them a real chance to act, they may cast off their oppressors.

Doctors report there is no connection between the stomach and vocal chords. We don't mean to doubt their word, but we're sure the husky one-year-olds pay little attention to it.

LEARN FIRST, THEN TALK

"Lack of information and understanding seldom prevent congressmen from forming definite views on foreign affairs and asserting them with vigor." This acid criticism by Richard P. Stebbins in his book, "The United States in World Affairs, 1949," prepared for the Council of Foreign Relations, exposes a shortcoming which unfortunately is not limited to congressmen.

Foreign affairs is not too specialized a field for average citizens to express their views. The citizen should, however, feel an obligation to try to find out something about the field. The State Department might profitably do more to educate Americans in the essentials of world problems.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE STATE OF MISSOURI

The Kefauver Committee reports:

"It was no secret in the state of Missouri . . . that the state government and its administration had narrowly escaped falling under the control of gangsters with criminal affiliations in the election of 1948."

This does not make pleasant reading about any state or city, but this is what that same report says about St. Louis:

". . . In St. Louis, Morris Shenker appeared to have a substantial portion of the legal trade involving bookmakers who had fallen into the clutches of the law. It is noteworthy that Shenker appeared before the committee as counsel for William Molasky, one of the owners of Pioneer News Service, the racing wire news distributor in that city. He also appeared as counsel for Joe Uvanni, race-track 'comeback money' agent for John Mooney, of St. Louis. According to testimony before the committee, Molasky contributed $2,000 to the gubernatorial campaign fund of Forrest Smith on condition that Smith would name Shenker to the police board (of control) of St. Louis if elected."

Again, the report states:

"There is considerable evidence in the minutes of the testimony concerning contributions to political campaigns by gamblers and gangsters. . . ."

In the new book by Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, "Washington Confidential," appears the following paragraph:

"At the first open hearing of the (Kefauver) committee, subpoenaed gamblers were represented by Morris Shenker, St. Louis lawyer, formerly on the Missouri Democratic committee. As a result of his good work in obtaining campaign donations, Shenker was named by Bill Boyle to the Democratic finance committee. He hastily resigned after the deal was exposed. . . ."

So, we come to the curious election which is to take place in St. Louis next Friday. Congressman John Sullivan, Democrat, representing the 11th District, having died, March 9 was set for a special election. His widow, who had been the congressman's secretary, expected to be the candidate. She was rejected by the aforesaid Morris Shenker, who controls what is roughly called the democracy. Shenker thereupon nominated Harry Schendel, sales manager of an automobile agency, as his candidate. The Republicans nominated Claude I. Bakewell, a former congressman.

The real issue in this contest is the power and authority of Morris Shenke, the mouthpiece. He is said to be unusually able. His own view is that he can separate his law practice from his political activities, which would be an interesting feat, if accomplishable. In a telegram to Senator Wiley of Wisconsin, he wrote:

"I have never permitted my political activities to interfere with my practice of law, nor have I attempted to associate the two. I have never solicited or accepted a political contribution from any of my clients."

Shenker is the lawyer who raised the question of the use of television in public hearings. One of the most valid purposes of congressional hearings is that they give the people an opportunity to know of corruptions, distortions and treasonable conduct of individuals. The newspapers, radio and now television bring these hearings close to the people. In the case of James J. Carroll, who calls himself a betting commissioner, Shenker said:

"Forcing a man to give testimony before television is an invasion of his privacy. A person cannot be put in such a position that he is exposed to public ridicule. While the hearing was public, it was not contemplated that the person of the witness should be televised for everyone to see within a 75-mile radius of St. Louis."

The Kefauver report on St. Louis makes very ugly reading, particularly the tie-up between gambling, crime and politics. And it is obvious that even in this special election for a member of Congress the power of the gamblers and the criminal elements is an important consideration.

What goes on in St. Louis, it is true, goes on in many American cities where the mafia has gained an unbelievable power due to the apathy of Americans who have permitted these specialists to take over the political machinery.

The real trouble is that our people are not ashamed of the degeneration of public morals. In other periods of our history, such exposures as those of the Kefauver and Fulbright committees aroused public opinion to action. Today, we witness an appalling apathy. The word "Missouri" has become in Washington a synonym for corruption.

It is for this reason that this special election is of national importance. Will Missouri use it to protest against the libel on that state?

MOUTH AND TONGUE ULCERS

In the great majority of cases, ulcers of the tongue and mouth are caused by digestive disturbances, and will pass away in a short time if the patient cuts down on irritating foods and on strongly acid foods such as meat and eggs, and uses an alkaline purgative such as Epsom salts. However, when these ulcers of the mouth and tongue persist after ordinary home treatment, the family physician should be consulted.

In The British Dental Journal, Dr. A. G. Kirby describes dyspeptic ulcers on the tongue, gums or inside the cheeks as small rounded erosions (breaks in the tissue) with a white base. They are best treated by touching them with tincture of iodine and changing the diet.

Sometimes these ulcers are due to poor dental hygiene habits and in early stages penicillin lozenges, each containing 500 Oxford units of penicillin which, of course, should be prescribed by dentist or physician, are helpful. Dental ulcers occur on the side of the tongue and are due to the irritation of a jagged tooth or badly fitting denture.

Tuberculosis ulcers, usually a number, are situated at the edges and tip of the tongue and are very painful.

Cancer of the tongue has hard raised edges. If there is any doubt about the possibility of the ulcer being cancerous, a biopsy should be performed. Biopsy is cutting out a small piece of the tissue and examining it under the microscope.

Gummatous ulcer (syphilis) occurs usually in the mid-line of the upper surface of the tongue, nearer the back than the tip of the tongue. Fortunately, syphilitic ulcers are rarely seen today.

In The Journal of Pediatrics it is stated that thrush (white spots in mouth), trench mouth (Vincent's angina), grayish white membrane on tonsils, gums, back of throat, can be successfully treated by the old remedies—borax and honey, peroxide (half strength), sodium perborate and boroglycerin; severe or stubborn cases of these mild ulcers should be treated with penicillin as relief is obtained so much more rapidly. In children penicillin may be applied direct to the ulcer in dilution of 250 units per cc., but injection into the muscles is advisable in most cases.

There are some tablets used in the treatment of simple mouth irritations that are believed to cause the little sores or ulcers commonly called fever blisters and this should be remembered by patient and physician.

'Oh, Him? He's the Prize I Won in Korea'

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Pec, Yugoslavia—For most of one day I have driven along what is sometimes called "The Little Iron Curtain"—the border where Yugoslavia and Albania meet, for Yugoslavia enjoys the unenviable distinction of being squeezed between two sections of the iron curtain with Bulgaria and Hungary on one side and Albania on the other.

How tiny, primitive Albania—chiefly a Mohammedan country—happened to fall for Russian communism has always been a mystery to me. I lived on the Albanian border for two years after the First World War, once crossed it on horseback, and its people at that time were rugged individualists who hated all governments, including their own, with the passion of Pennsylvania's high-tariff Joe Grundy. Perhaps the explanation is that Albania is a nation of extreme poverty where the people have nothing to lose by trying new experiments plus the fact that any nation torn by a never-ending series of wars is an easy mark for communism.

At any rate, the border between Russianized Albania and anti-Russian Yugoslavia now is studded with armed guards, and strangers are not permitted within 20 kilometers (about 12½ miles).

I managed to remember enough of the local language to talk my way past the first guard in the restricted zone and thereafter managed to talk my way past guards who stopped our jeep every half hour until we had passed through the old Turkish Albanian city of Prizerend, the border town of Jakovitza, and Deceny Monastery—one of the oldest in Serbia, but it now bristles with armament. The iron curtain here is not of barbed wire as it is around most satellite countries but consists of a steep mountain range, its base studded with troops.

Denounce Double-Crossing Russians

My purpose in visiting this isolated, desolate part of the Balkans was partly sentimental, partly to see whether the United States is getting credit for its good program; partly to gauge Yugoslav sentiment toward Russia and the United States in an area far from the official blarney handed out by the diplomats in Belgrade.

Regarding the food program, the United States has given the Yugoslav government $60,000,000 worth of flour with the understanding that they sell it through their regular ration system but making it clear that the flour comes from us. Its distribution was organized under Richard Allen of Carmel, Calif., a former Hoover food man who has also arranged for American inspectors to travel through the country. I traveled part of the time with one of these inspectors — efficient George Trett—as he interviewed local officials and local farmers and it appears the United States is getting credit.

Regarding Yugoslav feeling toward Russia, it seems similar to that of the bride who has been jilted at the church and then watched her fiance marry another woman. Yugoslav papers are filled with bitter denunciations of Russia, reminding the people that anyone who deals with Russia always gets double-crossed and even playing up the Russian double-cross history back to 1700 as if it were hot first-page news today.

Later, I heard Marshal Pijade, considered the father of Yugoslav communism, address 50,000 people in one of the bitterest attacks I have ever heard against Russia. Pijade was jailed for 14 years by King Alexander, at which time he taught Marxism to other Yugoslav leaders but now Moscow calls him "the Hideous Hunchback of Belgrade." When I heard him he quoted Thomas Dewey, Walter Lippmann and Ernest Bevin as proof that Russia is a brutal nation and that the United States and England are vigorously supporting Yugoslavia.

Lesson for U. S.

Thirty years ago I had charge of 100 Bulgar prisoners in a diminutive Serbian village called Dobro Do, which means good valley—but the valley wasn't good, because it had been burned out by the Bulgarian army and my job was to rebuild the homes of Serbian widows, using Bulgarian prisoners for labor. We also had a transport company of 100 mules and 100 conscripted Albanian mule drivers who every night sat around campfires—the Albanians, the Bulgar prisoners and their Serbian guards discussing war and what caused war.

That was in 1919 and they recalled that in 1912 Serbia and Greece had fought Turkey, then in 1913 Bulgaria had fought Serbia and Greece, and in 1914 the World War started. Thus for six long years the Balkans were plunged in war—war which neither the Serbian guards nor their Bulgarian prisoners nor the Albanian conscripts wanted. Their hope, they said, was Woodrow Wilson—he was going to proclaim a new world in which there would be eternal peace.

Well, the years have come and gone since then. Woodrow Wilson tried and failed, and Dobro Do since then once again was ravished—this time by the Germans, later by the Italians—and then liberated by the Russians who, at times, acting more like conquerors than liberators.

This is the history of a typical Balkan village and when you look around at the poverty which always follows in the wake of war you understand why there is communism in the Balkans, for people who are poor, who are bled white, who have nothing to lose, turn in their desperation to desperate remedies.

This also may be a lesson for the United States for, if we get involved in war, its aftermath may find us nearer the communism which we are fighting so hard to avoid.

Truman's Attitude Supports Feeling He Will Not Seek Renomination for Presidency

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 8—Maybe the labor-union leaders who have been threatening President Truman with a loss of their support in the 1952 election unless he bows to their will are wasting their threat. The general feeling here is that President Truman decided some time earlier this year that he would not be a candidate for renomination.

What a difference it does make in a president's attitude if he can tell the makers of a political threat of any kind that they can go jump in the lake!

Mr. Truman has been showing signs of independence lately which reveal him as wholly indifferent to any promises of or refusal of political support. He certainly attacked rather sweepingly the railroad-union leaders for failing to back up sincerely their signatures on the memorandum agreement they made at the White House. He has written letters to whomever he pleased and said what he wanted to say despite criticism.

Maybe the spectacle of a man in the White House who really doesn't care about political influence will be novel. There are about 20 months left in which Mr. Truman may give to the country a demonstration of what real independence can mean.

The knowledge that Mr. Truman will not be a candidate again developed several weeks ago among senators on Capitol Hill, some of whom indicated that presidential conversations of recent occurrence tended definitely that way. Then came the adoption of the 22nd amendment to the Federal Constitution, which, while technically not disqualifying Mr. Truman from another term, nevertheless does record the sentiment of the American people unmistakably in favor of a limited presidential tenure. A constitutional amendment is much more than an act of Congress. It represents not only the views of two-thirds of both houses of Congress—a substantial number from both parties—but also the will of the people as reflected in the ratification resolutions which passed both Houses of each of 36 states. This is the requisite number—three-fourths of the states of the Union.

Under such circumstances it can be said that the American people really do not want anybody to occupy the office longer than ten years—two years as a vice president who succeeds to the presidency and two terms of four years each thereafter. Mr. Truman will have served seven years and nine months when his present term expires on January 20, 1953. To add an elected term of four years to this would mean that he would be President 11 years and nine months or almost 12 years. The late President Roosevelt was elected for 16 years but served only 12 years and three months. If Mr. Truman became a candidate again and was re-elected, he would be serving within six months of the length of time that Mr. Roosevelt actually served.

In the face of the new amendment to the Constitution, Mr. Truman is too good a politician to fail to perceive what an opposition argument could be built up against him on the stump. In peacetime there would be no justification in the minds of many people for granting to Mr. Truman what the American people had given to Mr. Roosevelt in the midst of a world war.

All in all, Mr. Truman has many reasons for wanting to retire from the presidency, anyway. For one thing, he would prefer a seat in the Senate. This would keep him in Washington but give him the freedom that a senator enjoys. It would enable him to speak at length on public questions and to fight for the principles he has laid down in his administration.

Two presidents—John Quincy Adams and Andrew Johnson — served in Congress after they left the White House. At times there have been proposals made to adopt an amendment to the Constitution giving an ex-president a seat-at-large in the Senate. Certainly Mr. Truman, who already has served in the Senate from Missouri, would feel at home in such a post if he were elected by the people of his state once more.

As for a successor to Mr. Truman, at the moment it is probable that the Democrats will center on General Eisenhower or Chief Justice Vinson. Mr. Truman, of course, would feel vindicated if a Democrat were elected again. So undoubtedly his influence will be exerted in due time to assist in getting the nomination for some prominent Democrat who in his opinion would be most certain to win the election.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The decision of the veteran professional parasites on the body of American Labor to get out of the so-called defense administration is carelessly taken to mean that the people who work for wages now have nobody to speak for them. That is not true. The government represents all of us. The Messrs. Green, Murray, Lewis and all their predatory, dictatorial kind never have had the slightest authority from the working people of the United States. They have been called "labor leaders," but not one of them ever deserved this title. In the press, this was an error of carelessness and convenience in the long ago. There is now no excuse for the misrepresentation in the light of our modern knowledge of the union movement. There are no leaders of labor in the United States. These men are bosses, not leaders. Not one of them has a valid mandate from any group of workers.

Green is elected by a gang of fellow racketeers aloof from the workers. He is nvariably found on the side of the professional goon in any conflict with a rank-and-filer. The same can be said of Murray, followed by a reminder that he never has confessed his disgraceful collaboration with notorious Communists, such as Lee Pressman, who was the chief counsel of the C.I.O. Murray has indicated, but has not openly declared, that he regrets his guilty associations in the past. The rascality of Lewis's electoral system is worse, if possible, than the Kansas City process to which we are indebted for the President who touched off the war that now calls for the mobilization of national resources and the construction of underground warrens to protect a few of us from the atom bomb. Mr. Truman's own abri in back of the White House was built even before the wreckers took over that majestic heap.

It would be a boon to labor if the current sulk of the boss unioneers should become permanent and Mr. Truman should close the door on the whole gang for all time. The official conduct of these audacious predators in World War 2 was so bad that Congress should not have faltered at the 38th Parallel drawn by Taft and Hartley but should have repealed the Wagner Act absolutely and liberated bondage. These old bums had taken a pretentious public vow to prevent strikes in war industries. That promise was violated to the extent of about 5,000 strikes a year.

Thieving, organized loafing, whistle-jumping and overtime ran up the public's bill for the war by a figure that can be reckoned only in billions. Far from exerting themselves to hold down costs and stand off inflation, which would have been a real service to labor, they constantly demanded high wages in the war "projects" and finally ran these wages up so high that even Roosevelt, irresponsible and extravagant as he was, had to resort to the old-time union check-off, under the euphemism of "withholding," to grab some of it back. It would be absurd to deny that this wild looting endeared the union bosses to the ignorant majority of their subjects.

In the present situation, Truman is revealing again that strange trait of spunky defiance so seldom exercised in the public interest and so often in the interest of rascals in his personal circle. In this rare instance, he is ignoring the rogues of the union racket in a manner which amounts to a public repudiation of the evil of unionism by a President who invoked it to get elected. Roosevelt inflated Dan Tobin's ego until that pompous old fathead became unbearable even to his own paid sycophants. He permitted Murray, Hillman, Dubinsky and Reuther to strut importantly as second-

DOMESTIC UNREST IN KREMLIN

In recent weeks we've heard from the editors of Fortune magazine that the Russian Communist government is not really a revolution at all but a counter-revolution, since it leads men away from freedom toward tyranny.

Now David Dallin, a distinguished analyst of Soviet affairs, comes along with another interesting notion about the Russians. In a book just published, entitled "The New Soviet Empire," he makes this statement:

"There can be one sound approach to what is called the Russian question, or the Russian menace, or Soviet aggression: to recognize it for what it is—the thunder of a storm that has long ago rumbled its way to oblivion, a belated heritage of a revolution which has lost all semblance of greatness and almost all its popularity."

What does he mean by this?

Basically, that the people are not with their Soviet masters, that in spite of propaganda drummed into them almost from birth they are not satisfied that they are living in the most perfect of all human societies.

Because they are not, the Kremlin resorts to force on an ever increasing scale to maintain its hold over Russian humanity. In its desperate effort to keep itself surrounded by what Dallin calls an "aura of invincibility," the Kremlin inevitably reaches out to create a world empire that will reinforce its power.

That is what Dallin has in mind when he says the menace of Soviet aggression is really the thunder of a storm that has rumbled to oblivion. Moscow's aggressive moves he sees as the strivings of men to protect themselves not against outsiders but against a crumbling of their strength at home.

He is far from being the first to talk of communism's internal weaknesses in the Soviet Union. Edmund Stevens, able correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor, wrote after leaving Russia that nearly all citizens are thoroughly disillusioned about communism by the time they're thirty-five.

Stevens said that Russians beyond that age are either cynical, resigned, or quietly rebellious. Few seem to be fooled by the Kremlin's extravagant claims and promises.

The people of course have no present means of real rebellion. All the instruments of force are in Kremlin hands. The people are not allowed even to organize for the simplest purpose, in fear such organization might form the nucleus of revolt. Socially speaking, they are a shapeless mass.

Hence it would be a mistake for us to conclude that this condition of dissatisfaction wipes out the Russian menace on the world scene. No matter what the internal weakness, there is always the danger that the Russian leaders, seeing their power and prestige on the wane, will lash out like cornered beasts and touch off a violent struggle.

But what Dallin has said is a helpful antidote to the idea that Russia is an impregnable fortress whose guardians are a great horde of men deeply devoted to communism and determined to die rather than see that regime go down. They are indeed loyal to their masters, but their loyalty is bought by fear and the use of force. Should world and internal events some day give them a real chance to act, they may cast off their oppressors.

THE STATE OF MISSOURI

The Kefauver Committee reports:

"It was no secret in the state of Missouri . . . that the state government and its administration had narrowly escaped falling under the control of gangsters with criminal affiliations in the election of 1948."

This does not make pleasant reading about any state or city, but this is what that same report says about St. Louis:

It is noteworthy that Shenker appeared before the committee as counsel for William Molasky, one of the owners of Pioneer News Service, the racing wire news distributor in that city. He also appeared as counsel for Joe Uvanni, race-track 'comeback money' agent for John Mooney, of St. Louis. According to testimony before the committee, Molasky contributed $2,000 to the gubernatorial campaign fund of Forrest Smith on condition that Smith would name Shenker to the police board (of control) of St. Louis if elected."

Again, the report states:

"There is considerable evidence in the minutes of the testimony concerning contributions to political campaigns by gamblers and gangsters. . . ."

In the new book by Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, "Washington Confidential," appears the following paragraph:

"At the first open hearing of the (Kefauver) committee, subpoenaed gamblers were represented by Morris Shenker, St. Louis lawyer, formerly on the Missouri Democratic committee. As a result of his good work in obtaining campaign donations, Shenker was named by Bill Boyle to the Democratic finance committee. He hastily resigned after the deal was exposed. . . ."

So, we come to the curious election which is to take place in St. Louis next Friday. Congressman John Sullivan, Democrat, representing the 11th District, having died, March 9 was set for a special election. His widow, who had been the congressman's secretary, expected to be the candidate. She was rejected by the aforesaid Morris Shenker, who controls what is roughly called the democracy. Shenker thereupon nominated Harry Schendel, sales manager of an automobile agency, as his candidate. The Republicans nominated Claude I. Bakewell, a former congressman.

The real issue in this contest is the power and authority of Morris Shenke, the mouthpiece. He is said to be unusually able. His own view is that he can separate his law practice from his political activities, which would be an interesting feat, if accomplishable. In a telegram to Senator Wiley of Wisconsin, he wrote:

"I have never permitted my political activities to interfere with my practice of law, nor have I attempted to associate the two. I have never solicited or accepted a political contribution from any of my clients."

Shenker is the lawyer who raised the question of the use of television in public hearings. One of the most valid purposes of congressional hearings is that they give the people an opportunity to know of corruptions, distortions and treasonable conduct of individuals. The newspapers, radio and now television bring these hearings close to the people. In the case of James J. Carroll, who calls himself a betting commissioner, Shenker said:

"Forcing a man to give testimony before television is an invasion of his privacy. A person cannot be put in such a position that he is exposed to public ridicule. While the hearing was public, it was not contemplated that the person of the witness should be televised for everyone to see within a 75-mile radius of St. Louis."

The Kefauver report on St. Louis makes very ugly reading, particularly the tie-up between gambling, crime and politics. And it is obvious that even in this special election for a member of Congress the power of the gamblers and the criminal elements is an important consideration.

What goes on in St. Louis, it is true, goes on in many American cities where the mafia has gained an unbelievable power due to the apathy of Americans who have permitted these specialists to take over the political machinery.

The real trouble is that our people are not ashamed of the degeneration of public morals. In other periods of our history, such exposures as those of the Kefauver and Fulbright committees aroused public opinion to action. Today, we witness an appalling apathy. The word "Missouri" has become in Washington a synonym for corruption.

It is for this reason that this special election is of national importance. Will Missouri use it to protest against the libel on that state?

In the great majority of cases, ulcers of the tongue and mouth are caused by digestive disturbances, and will pass away in a short time if the patient cuts down on irritating foods and on strongly acid foods such as meat and eggs, and uses an alkaline purgative such as Epsom salts. However, when these ulcers of the mouth and tongue persist after ordinary home treatment, the family physician should be consulted.

In The British Dental Journal, Dr. A. G. Kirby describes dyspeptic ulcers on the tongue, gums or inside the cheeks as small rounded erosions (breaks in the tissue) with a white base. They are best treated by touching them with tincture of iodine and changing the diet.

Sometimes these ulcers are due to poor dental hygiene habits and in early stages penicillin lozenges, each containing 500 Oxford units of penicillin which, of course, should be prescribed by dentist or physician, are helpful. Dental ulcers occur on the side of the tongue and are due to the irritation of a jagged tooth or badly fitting denture.

Tuberculosis ulcers, usually a number, are situated at the edges and tip of the tongue and are very painful.

Cancer of the tongue has hard raised edges. If there is any doubt about the possibility of the ulcer being cancerous, a biopsy should be performed. Biopsy is cutting out a small piece of the tissue and examining it under the microscope.

Gummatous ulcer (syphilis) occurs usually in the mid-line of the upper surface of the tongue, nearer the back than the tip of the tongue. Fortunately, syphilitic ulcers are rarely seen today.

In The Journal of Pediatrics it is stated that thrush (white spots in mouth), trench mouth (Vincent's angina), grayish white membrane on tonsils, gums, back of throat, can be successfully treated by the old remedies—borax and honey, peroxide (half strength), sodium perborate and boroglycerin; severe or stubborn cases of these mild ulcers should be treated with penicillin as relief is obtained so much more rapidly. In children penicillin may be applied direct to the ulcer in dilution of 250 units per cc., but injection into the muscles is advisable in most cases.

There are some tablets used in the treatment of simple mouth irritations that are believed to cause the little sores or ulcers commonly called fever blisters and this should be remembered by patient and physician.

'Oh, Him? He's the Prize I Won in Korea'

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Pec, Yugoslavia—For most of one day I have driven along what is sometimes called "The Little Iron Curtain"—the border where Yugoslavia and Albania meet, for Yugoslavia enjoys the unenviable distinction of being squeezed between two sections of the iron curtain with Bulgaria and Hungary on one side and Albania on the other.

How tiny, primitive Albania—chiefly a Mohammedan country—happened to fall for Russian communism has always been a mystery to me. I lived on the Albanian border for two years after the First World War, once crossed it on horseback, and its people at that time were rugged individualists who hated all governments, including their own, with the passion of Pennsylvania's high-tariff Joe Grundy. Perhaps the explanation is that Albania is a nation of extreme poverty where the people have nothing to lose by trying new experiments plus the fact that any nation torn by a never-ending series of wars is an easy mark for communism.

At any rate, the border between Russianized Albania and anti-Russian Yugoslavia now is studded with armed guards, and strangers are not permitted within 20 kilometers (about 12½ miles).

I managed to remember enough of the local language to talk my way past the first guard in the restricted zone and thereafter managed to talk my way past guards who stopped our jeep every half hour until we had passed through the old Turkish Albanian city of Prizerend, the border town of Jakovitza, and Deceny Monastery—one of the oldest in Serbia, but it now bristles with armament. The iron curtain here is not of barbed wire as it is around most satellite countries but consists of a steep mountain range, its base studded with troops.

Denounce Double-Crossing Russians

My purpose in visiting this isolated, desolate part of the Balkans was partly sentimental, partly to see whether the United States is getting credit for its good program; partly to gauge Yugoslav sentiment toward Russia and the United States in an area far from the official blarney handed out by the diplomats in Belgrade.

Regarding the food program, the United States has given the Yugoslav government $60,000,000 worth of flour with the understanding that they sell it through their regular ration system but making it clear that the flour comes from us. Its distribution was organized under Richard Allen of Carmel, Calif., a former Hoover food man who has also arranged for American inspectors to travel through the country. I traveled part of the time with one of these inspectors — efficient George Trett—as he interviewed local officials and local farmers and it appears the United States is getting credit.

Regarding Yugoslav feeling toward Russia, it seems similar to that of the bride who has been jilted at the church and then watched her fiance marry another woman. Yugoslav papers are filled with bitter denunciations of Russia, reminding the people that anyone who deals with Russia always gets double-crossed and even playing up the Russian double-cross history back to 1700 as if it were hot first-page news today.

Later, I heard Marshal Pijade, considered the father of Yugoslav communism, address 50,000 people in one of the bitterest attacks I have ever heard against Russia. Pijade was jailed for 14 years by King Alexander, at which time he taught Marxism to other Yugoslav leaders but now Moscow calls him "the Hideous Hunchback of Belgrade." When I heard him he quoted Thomas Dewey, Walter Lippmann and Ernest Bevin as proof that Russia is a brutal nation and that the United States and England are vigorously supporting Yugoslavia.

Lesson for U. S.

Thirty years ago I had charge of 100 Bulgar prisoners in a diminutive Serbian village called Dobro Do, which means good valley—but the valley wasn't good, because it had been burned out by the Bulgarian army and my job was to rebuild the homes of Serbian widows, using Bulgarian prisoners for labor. We also had a transport company of 100 mules and 100 conscripted Albanian mule drivers who every night sat around campfires—the Albanians, the Bulgar prisoners and their Serbian guards discussing war and what caused war.

That was in 1919 and they recalled that in 1912 Serbia and Greece had fought Turkey, then in 1913 Bulgaria had fought Serbia and Greece, and in 1914 the World War started. Thus for six long years the Balkans were plunged in war—war which neither the Serbian guards nor their Bulgarian prisoners nor the Albanian conscripts wanted. Their hope, they said, was Woodrow Wilson—he was going to proclaim a new world in which there would be eternal peace.

Well, the years have come and gone since then. Woodrow Wilson tried and failed, and Dobro Do since then once again was ravished—this time by the Germans, later by the Italians—and then liberated by the Russians who, at times, acting more like conquerors than liberators.

This is the history of a typical Balkan village and when you look around at the poverty which always follows in the wake of war you understand why there is communism in the Balkans, for people who are poor, who are bled white, who have nothing to lose, turn in their desperation to desperate remedies.

This also may be a lesson for the United States for, if we get involved in war, its aftermath may find us nearer the communism which we are fighting so hard to avoid.

March 8, 1941 — The health board reported 11 cases of smallpox in the city.

Bernard J. Loughran, local plumber, died at the Benedictine Hospital.

The three local business organizations decided to unite in holding Spring Display Days on March 19, 20 and 21.

Mrs. Andrew J. Lord, of Park avenue, died.

George Le Fevre, of Forest Glen, died.

March 8, 1941—A heavy fall of snow blanketed the area, and the storm, reported the heaviest in years, was general over the Atlantic Seaboard.

Three troop trains en route to Florida passed through the city on the West Shore railroad.

The Kingston High School basketball team defeated Saugerties 36-31.

Residents of Saugerties voted for a Route 9W by-pass viaduct east of the village rather than a new route to the west.

Red Cross Home Service

Field directors assigned to combat units and military installations, skilled hospital workers aided by trained volunteers, chapter Home Service workers assisting the servicemen and their families in local communities, combine to maintain a network of emergency communication and help from the Red Cross to our Armed Forces. Last year Red Cross chapter and field workers gave $5,017,000 in financial aid to servicemen and their families. Help keep this work at peak efficiency by supporting the 1951 Red Cross Fund Campaign.

Irrigated Land

Approximately 17 per cent, or 26,834,000 acres, of North America's 8,685,000 square miles of surface, is under irrigation, with 19,000,000 acres of this area being in the United States.

Truman's Attitude Supports Feeling He Will Not Seek Renomination for Presidency

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 8—Maybe the labor-union leaders who have been threatening President Truman with a loss of their support in the 1952 election unless he bows to their will are wasting their threat. The general feeling here is that President Truman decided some time earlier this year that he would not be a candidate for renomination.

What a difference it does make in a president's attitude if he can tell the makers of a political threat of any kind that they can go jump in the lake!

Mr. Truman has been showing signs of independence lately which reveal him as wholly indifferent to any promises of or refusal of political support. He certainly attacked rather sweepingly the railroad-union leaders for failing to back up sincerely their signatures on the memorandum agreement they made at the White House. He has written letters to whomever he pleased and said what he wanted to say despite criticism.

Maybe the spectacle of a man in the White House who really doesn't care about political influence will be novel. There are about 20 months left in which Mr. Truman may give to the country a demonstration of what real independence can mean.

The knowledge that Mr. Truman will not be a candidate again developed several weeks ago among senators on Capitol Hill, some of whom indicated that presidential conversations of recent occurrence tended definitely that way. Then came the adoption of the 22nd amendment to the Federal Constitution, which, while technically not disqualifying Mr. Truman from another term, nevertheless does record the sentiment of the American people unmistakably in favor of a limited presidential tenure. A constitutional amendment is much more than an act of Congress. It represents not only the views of two-thirds of both houses of Congress—a substantial number from both parties—but also the will of the people as reflected in the ratification resolutions which passed both Houses of each of 36 states. This is the requisite number—three-fourths of the states of the Union.

Under such circumstances it can be said that the American people really do not want anybody to occupy the office longer than ten years—two years as a vice president who succeeds to the presidency and two terms of four years each thereafter. Mr. Truman will have served seven years and nine months when his present term expires on January 20, 1953. To add an elected term of four years to this would mean that he would be President 11 years and nine months or almost 12 years. The late President Roosevelt was elected for 16 years but served only 12 years and three months. If Mr. Truman became a candidate again and was re-elected, he would be serving within six months of the length of time that Mr. Roosevelt actually served.

In the face of the new amendment to the Constitution, Mr. Truman is too good a politician to fail to perceive what an opposition argument could be built up against him on the stump. In peacetime there would be no justification in the minds of many people for granting to Mr. Truman what the American people had given to Mr. Roosevelt in the midst of a world war.

All in all, Mr. Truman has many reasons for wanting to retire from the presidency, anyway. For one thing, he would prefer a seat in the Senate. This would keep him in Washington but give him the freedom that a senator enjoys. It would enable him to speak at length on public questions and to fight for the principles he has laid down in his administration.

Two presidents—John Quincy Adams and Andrew Johnson — served in Congress after they left the White House. At times there have been proposals made to adopt an amendment to the Constitution giving an ex-president a seat-at-large in the Senate. Certainly Mr. Truman, who already has served in the Senate from Missouri, would feel at home in such a post if he were elected by the people of his state once more.

As for a successor to Mr. Truman, at the moment it is probable that the Democrats will center on General Eisenhower or Chief Justice Vinson. Mr. Truman, of course, would feel vindicated if a Democrat were elected again. So undoubtedly his influence will be exerted in due time to assist in getting the nomination for some prominent Democrat who in his opinion would be most certain to win the election.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The decision of the veteran professional parasites on the body of American Labor to get out of the so-called defense administration is carelessly taken to mean that the people who work for wages now have nobody to speak for them. That is not true. The government represents all of us. The Messrs. Green, Murray, Lewis and all their predatory, dictatorial kind never have had the slightest authority from the working people of the United States. They have been called "labor leaders," but not one of them ever deserved this title. In the press, this was an error of carelessness and convenience in the long ago. There is now no excuse for the misrepresentation in the light of our modern knowledge of the union movement. There are no leaders of labor in the United States. These men are bosses, not leaders. Not one of them has a valid mandate from any group of workers.

Green is elected by a gang of fellow racketeers aloof from the workers. He is nvariably found on the side of the professional goon in any conflict with a rank-and-filer. The same can be said of Murray, followed by a reminder that he never has confessed his disgraceful collaboration with notorious Communists, such as Lee Pressman, who was the chief counsel of the C.I.O. Murray has indicated, but has not openly declared, that he regrets his guilty associations in the past. The rascality of Lewis's electoral system is worse, if possible, than the Kansas City process to which we are indebted for the President who touched off the war that now calls for the mobilization of national resources and the construction of underground warrens to protect a few of us from the atom bomb. Mr. Truman's own abri in back of the White House was built even before the wreckers took over that majestic heap.

It would be a boon to labor if the current sulk of the boss unionneers should become permanent and Mr. Truman should close the door on the whole gang for all time. The official conduct of these audacious predators in World War 2 was so bad that Congress should not have faltered at the 38th Parallel drawn by Taft and Hartley but should have repealed the Wagner Act absolutely and liberated bondage. These old bums had taken a pretentious public vow to prevent strikes in war industries. That promise was violated to the extent of about 5,000 strikes a year.

Thieving, organized loafing, whistle-jumping and overtime ran up the public's bill for the war by a figure that can be reckoned only in billions. Far from exerting themselves to hold down costs and stand off inflation, which would have been a real service to labor, they constantly demanded high wages in the war "projects" and finally ran these wages up so high that even Roosevelt, irresponsible and extravagant as he was, had to resort to the old-time union checkoff, under the euphemism of "withholding," to grab some of it back. It would be absurd to deny that this wild looting endeared the union bosses to the ignorant majority of their subjects.

In the present situation, Truman is revealing again that strange trait of spunky defiance so seldom exercised in the public interest and so often in the interest of rascals in his personal circle. In this rare instance, he is ignoring the rogues of the union racket in a manner which amounts to a public repudiation of the evil of unionism by a President who invoked it to get elected. Roosevelt inflated Dan Tobin's ego until that pompous old fathead became unbearable even to his own paid sycophants. He permitted Murray, Hillman, Dubinsky and Reuther to strut importantly as second-

DOMESTIC UNREST IN KREMLIN

In recent weeks we've heard from the editors of Fortune magazine that the Russian Communist government is not really a revolution at all but a counter-revolution, since it leads men away from freedom toward tyranny.

Now David Dallin, a distinguished analyst of Soviet affairs, comes along with another interesting notion about the Russians. In a book just published, entitled "The New Soviet Empire," he makes this statement:

"There can be one sound approach to what is called the Russian question, or the Russian menace, or Soviet aggression: to recognize it for what it is—the thunder of a storm that has long ago rumbled its way to oblivion, a belated heritage of a revolution which has lost all semblance of greatness and almost all its popularity."

What does he mean by this?

Basically, that the people are not with their Soviet masters, that in spite of propaganda drummed into them almost from birth they are not satisfied that they are living in the most perfect of all human societies.

Because they are not, the Kremlin resorts to force on an ever increasing scale to maintain its hold over Russian humanity. In its desperate effort to keep itself surrounded by what Dallin calls an "aura of invincibility," the Kremlin inevitably reaches out to create a world empire that will reinforce its power.

That is what Dallin has in mind when he says the menace of Soviet aggression is really the thunder of a storm that has rumbled to oblivion. Moscow's aggressive moves he sees as the strivings of men to protect themselves not against outsiders but against a crumbling of their strength at home.

He is far from being the first to talk of communism's internal weaknesses in the Soviet Union. Edmund Stevens, able correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor, wrote after leaving Russia that nearly all citizens are thoroughly disillusioned about communism by the time they're thirty-five.

Stevens said that Russians beyond that age are either cynical, resigned, or quietly rebellious. Few seem to be fooled by the Kremlin's extravagant claims and promises.

The people of course have no present means of real rebellion. All the instruments of force are in Kremlin hands. The people are not allowed even to organize for the simplest purpose, in fear such organization might form the nucleus of revolt. Socially speaking, they are a shapeless mass.

Hence it would be a mistake for us to conclude that this condition of dissatisfaction wipes out the Russian menace on the world scene. No matter what the internal weakness, there is always the danger that the Russian leaders, seeing their power and prestige on the wane, will lash out like cornered beasts and touch off a violent struggle.

But what Dallin has said is a helpful antidote to the idea that Russia is an impregnable fortress whose guardians are a great horde of men deeply devoted to communism and determined to die rather than see that regime go down. They are indeed loyal to their masters, but their loyalty is bought by fear and the use of force. Should world and internal events some day give them a real chance to act, they may cast off their oppressors.

Doctors report there is no connection between the stomach and vocal chords. We don't mean to doubt their word, but we're sure the husky one-year-olds pay little attention to it.

LEARN FIRST, THEN TALK

"Lack of information and understanding seldom prevent congressmen from forming definite views on foreign affairs and asserting them with vigor." This acid criticism by Richard P. Stebbins in his book, "The United States in World Affairs, 1949," prepared for the Council of Foreign Relations, exposes a shortcoming which unfortunately is not limited to congressmen.

Foreign affairs is not too specialized a field for average citizens to express their views. The citizen should, however, feel an obligation to try to find out something about the field. The State Department might profitably do more to educate Americans in the essentials of world problems.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE STATE OF MISSOURI

The Kefauver Committee reports:

"It was no secret in the state of Missouri . . . that the state government and its administration had narrowly escaped falling under the control of gangsters with criminal affiliations in the election of 1948."

This does not make pleasant reading about any state or city, but this is what that same report says about St. Louis:

". . . In St. Louis, Morris Shenker appeared to have a substantial portion of the legal trade involving bookmakers who had fallen into the clutches of the law. It is noteworthy that Shenker appeared before the committee as counsel for William Molasky, one of the owners of Pioneer News Service, the racing wire news distributor in that city. He also appeared as counsel for Joe Uvanni, race-track 'comeback money' agent for John Mooney, of St. Louis. According to testimony before the committee, Molasky contributed $2,000 to the gubernatorial campaign fund of Forrest Smith on condition that Smith would name Shenker to the police board (of control) of St. Louis if elected."

Again, the report states:

"There is considerable evidence in the minutes of the testimony concerning contributions to political campaigns by gamblers and gangsters. . . ."

In the new book by Jack Lait and Lee Mortimer, "Washington Confidential," appears the following paragraph:

"At the first open hearing of the (Kefauver) committee, subpoenaed gamblers were represented by Morris Shenker, St. Louis lawyer, formerly on the Missouri Democratic committee. As a result of his good work in obtaining campaign donations, Shenker was named by Bill Boyle to the Democratic finance committee. He hastily resigned after the deal was exposed. . . ."

So, we come to the curious election which is to take place in St. Louis next Friday. Congressman John Sullivan, Democrat, representing the 11th District, having died, March 9 was set for a special election. His widow, who had been the congressman's secretary, expected to be the candidate. She was rejected by the aforesaid Morris Shenker, who controls what is roughly called the democracy. Shenker thereupon nominated Harry Schendel, sales manager of an automobile agency, as his candidate. The Republicans nominated Claude I. Bakewell, a former congressman.

The real issue in this contest is the power and authority of Morris Shenke, the mouthpiece. He is said to be unusually able. His own view is that he can separate his law practice from his political activities, which would be an interesting feat, if accomplishable. In a telegram to Senator Wiley of Wisconsin, he wrote:

"I have never permitted my political activities to interfere with my practice of law, nor have I attempted to associate the two. I have never solicited or accepted a political contribution from any of my clients."

Shenker is the lawyer who raised the question of the use of television in public hearings. One of the most valid purposes of congressional hearings is that they give the people an opportunity to know of corruptions, distortions and treasonable conduct of individuals. The newspapers, radio and now television bring these hearings close to the people. In the case of James J. Carroll, who calls himself a betting commissioner, Shenker said:

"Forcing a man to give testimony before television is an invasion of his privacy. A person cannot be put in such a position that he is exposed to public ridicule. While the hearing was public, it was not contemplated that the person of the witness should be televised for everyone to see within a 75-mile radius of St. Louis."

The Kefauver report on St. Louis makes very ugly reading, particularly the tie-up between gambling, crime and politics. And it is obvious that even in this special election for a member of Congress the power of the gamblers and the criminal elements is an important consideration.

What goes on in St. Louis, it is true, goes on in many American cities where the mafia has gained an unbelievable power due to the apathy of Americans who have permitted these specialists to take over the political machinery.

The real trouble is that our people are not ashamed of the degeneration of public morals. In other periods of our history, such exposures as those of the Kefauver and Fulbright committees aroused public opinion to action. Today, we witness an appalling apathy. The word "Missouri" has become in Washington a synonym for corruption.

It is for this reason that this special election is of national importance. Will Missouri use it to protest against the libel on that state?

MOUTH AND TONGUE ULCERS

In the great majority of cases, ulcers of the tongue and mouth are caused by digestive disturbances, and will pass away in a short time if the patient cuts down on irritating foods and on strongly acid foods such as meat and eggs, and uses an alkaline purgative such as Epsom salts. However, when these ulcers of the mouth and tongue persist after ordinary home treatment, the family physician should be consulted.

Cancer of the tongue has hard raised edges. If there is any doubt about the possibility of the ulcer being cancerous, a biopsy should be performed. Biopsy is cutting out a small piece of the tissue and examining it under the microscope.

Gummatous ulcer (syphilis) occurs usually in the mid-line of the upper surface of the tongue, nearer the back than the tip of the tongue. Fortunately, syphilitic ulcers are rarely seen today.

In The Journal of Pediatrics it is stated that thrush (white spots in mouth), trench mouth (Vincent's angina), grayish white membrane on tonsils, gums, back of throat, can be successfully treated by the old remedies—borax and honey, peroxide (half strength), sodium perborate and boroglycerin; severe or stubborn cases of these mild ulcers should be treated with penicillin as relief is obtained so much more rapidly. In children penicillin may be applied direct to the ulcer in dilution of 250 units per cc., but injection into the muscles is advisable in most cases.

There are some tablets used in the treatment of simple mouth irritations that are believed to cause the little sores or ulcers commonly called fever blisters and this should be remembered by patient and physician.

When I heard him he quoted Thomas Dewey, Walter Lippmann and Ernest Bevin as proof that Russia is a brutal nation and that the United States and England are vigorously supporting Yugoslavia.

Lesson for U. S.

Thirty years ago I had charge of 100 Bulgar prisoners in a diminutive Serbian village called Dobro Do, which means good valley—but the valley wasn't good, because it had been burned out by the Bulgarian army and my job was to rebuild the homes of Serbian widows, using Bulgarian prisoners for labor. We also had a transport company of 100 mules and 100 conscripted Albanian mule drivers who every night sat around campfires—the Albanians, the Bulgar prisoners and their Serbian guards discussing war and what caused war.

That was in 1919 and they recalled that in 1912 Serbia and Greece had fought Turkey, then in 1913 Bulgaria had fought Serbia and Greece, and in 1914 the World War started. Thus for six long years the Balkans were plunged in war—war which neither the Serbian guards nor their Bulgarian prisoners nor the Albanian conscripts wanted. Their hope, they said, was Woodrow Wilson—he was going to proclaim a new world in which there would be eternal peace.

Well, the years have come and gone since then. Woodrow Wilson tried and failed, and Dobro Do since then once again was ravished—this time by the Germans, later by the Italians—and then liberated by the Russians who, at times, acting more like conquerors than liberators.

This is the history of a typical Balkan village and when you look around at the poverty which always follows in the wake of war you understand why there is communism in the Balkans, for people who are poor, who are bled white, who have nothing to lose, turn in their desperation to desperate remedies.

This also may be a lesson for the United States for, if we get involved in war, its aftermath may find us nearer the communism which we are fighting so hard to avoid.

Truman's Attitude Supports Feeling He Will Not Seek Renomination for Presidency

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 8—Maybe the labor-union leaders who have been threatening President Truman with a loss of their support in the 1952 election unless he bows to their will are wasting their threat. The general feeling here is that President Truman decided some time earlier this year that he would not be a candidate for renomination.

What a difference it does make in a president's attitude if he can tell the makers of a political threat of any kind that they can go jump in the lake!

Mr. Truman has been showing signs of independence lately which reveal him as wholly indifferent to any promises of or refusal of political support. He certainly attacked rather sweepingly the railroad-union leaders for failing to back up sincerely their signatures on the memorandum agreement they made at the White House. He has written letters to whomever he pleased and said what he wanted to say despite criticism.

Maybe the spectacle of a man in the White House who really doesn't care about political influence will be novel. There are about 20 months left in which Mr. Truman may give to the country a demonstration of what real independence can mean.

The knowledge that Mr. Truman will not be a candidate again developed several weeks ago among senators on Capitol Hill, some of whom indicated that presidential conversations of recent occurrence tended definitely that way. Then came the adoption of the 22nd amendment to the Federal Constitution, which, while technically not disqualifying Mr. Truman from another term, nevertheless does record the sentiment of the American people unmistakably in favor of a limited presidential tenure. A constitutional amendment is much more than an act of Congress. It represents not only the views of two-thirds of both houses of Congress—a substantial number from both parties—but also the will of the people as reflected in the ratification resolutions which passed both Houses of each of 36 states. This is the requisite number—three-fourths of the states of the Union.

Under such circumstances it can be said that the American people really do not want anybody to occupy the office longer than ten years—two years as a vice president who succeeds to the presidency and two terms of four years each thereafter. Mr. Truman will have served seven years and nine months when his present term expires on January 20, 1953. To add an elected term of four years to this would mean that he would be President 11 years and nine months or almost 12 years. The late President Roosevelt was elected for 16 years but served only 12 years and three months. If Mr. Truman became a candidate again and was re-elected, he would be serving within six months of the length of time that Mr. Roosevelt actually served.

In the face of the new amendment to the Constitution, Mr. Truman is too good a politician to fail to perceive what an opposition argument could be built up against him on the stump. In peacetime there would be no justification in the minds of many people for granting to Mr. Truman what the American people had given to Mr. Roosevelt in the midst of a world war.

All in all, Mr. Truman has many reasons for wanting to retire from the presidency, anyway. For one thing, he would prefer a seat in the Senate. This would keep him in Washington but give him the freedom that a senator enjoys. It would enable him to speak at length on public questions and to fight for the principles he has laid down in his administration.

Two presidents—John Quincy Adams and Andrew Johnson—served in Congress after they left the White House. At times there have been proposals made to adopt an amendment to the Constitution giving an ex-president a seat-at-large in the Senate. Certainly Mr. Truman, who already has served in the Senate from Missouri, would feel at home in such a post if he were elected by the people of his state once more.

As for a successor to Mr. Truman, at the moment it is probable that the Democrats will center on General Eisenhower or Chief Justice Vinson. Mr. Truman, of course, would feel vindicated if a Democrat were elected again. So undoubtedly his influence will be exerted in due time to assist in getting the nomination for some prominent Democrat who in his opinion would be most certain to win the election.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The decision of the veteran professional parasites on the body of American Labor to get out of the so-called defense administration is carelessly taken to mean that the people who work for wages now have nobody to speak for them. That is not true. The government represents all of us. The Messrs. Green, Murray, Lewis and all their predatory, dictatorial kind never have had the slightest authority from the working people of the United States. They have been called "labor leaders," but not one of them ever deserved this title. In the press, this was an error of carelessness and convenience in the long ago. There is now no excuse for the misrepresentation in the light of our modern knowledge of the union movement. There are no leaders of labor in the United States. These men are bosses, not leaders. Not one of them has a valid mandate from any group of workers.

Green is elected by a gang of fellow racketeers aloof from the workers. He is nvariably found on the side of the professional goon in any conflict with a rank-and-filer. The same can be said of Murray, followed by a reminder that he never has confessed his disgraceful collaboration with notorious Communists, such as Lee Pressman, who was the chief counsel of the C.I.O. Murray has indicated, but has not openly declared, that he regrets his guilty associations in the past. The rascality of Lewis's electoral system is worse, if possible, than the Kansas City process to which we are indebted for the President who touched off the war that now calls for the mobilization of national resources and the construction of underground warrens to protect a few of us from the atom bomb. Mr. Truman's own abri in back of the White House was built even before the wreckers took over that majestic heap.

It would be a boon to labor if the current sulk of the boss unioneers should become permanent and Mr. Truman should close the door on the whole gang for all time. The official conduct of these audacious predators in World War 2 was so bad that Congress should not have faltered at the 38th Parallel drawn by Taft and Hartley but should have repealed the Wagner Act absolutely and liberated bondage. These old bums had taken a pretentious public vow to prevent strikes in war industries. That promise was violated to the extent of about 5,000 strikes a year.

Thieving, organized loafing, whistle-jumping and overtime ran up the public's bill for the war by a figure that can be reckoned only in billions. Far from exerting themselves to hold down costs and stand off inflation, which would have been a real service to labor, they constantly demanded high wages in the war "projects" and finally ran these wages up so high that even Roosevelt, irresponsible and extravagant as he was, had to resort to the old-time union check-off, under the euphemism of "withholding," to grab some of it back. It would be absurd to deny that this wild looting endeared the union bosses to the ignorant majority of their subjects.

In the present situation, Truman is revealing again that strange trait of spunky defiance so seldom exercised in the public interest and so often in the interest of rascals in his personal circle. In this rare instance, he is ignoring the rogues of the union racket in a manner which amounts to a public repudiation of the evil of unionism by a President who invoked it to get elected. Roosevelt inflated Dan Tobin's ego until that pompous old fathead became unbearable even to his own paid sycophants. He permitted Murray, Hillman, Dubinsky and Reuther to strut importantly as second-

Field directors assigned to combat units and military installations, skilled hospital workers aided by trained volunteers, chapter Home Service workers assisting the servicemen and their families in local communities, combine to maintain a network of emergency communication and help from the Red Cross to our Armed Forces. Last year Red Cross chapter and field workers gave $5,017,000 in financial aid to servicemen and their families. Help keep this work at peak efficiency by supporting the 1951 Red Cross Fund Campaign.

African Phone Trouble

Operators of telephone lines in Africa have animal troubles. Elephants toss the poles about, baboons do gysnastics on them and break the wires and one giraffe ran through a telephone line and carried the wire 200 yards.

The defenders, who were experienced tournament players, saw that they had been robbed of a chance to score 600 points. It would do them little good to collect 500 from South. Hence they went out to collect 700 points.

West began by cashing the king and jack of diamonds. East discarded the deuce of clubs on the second round of diamonds. West then shifted to the queen of hearts, holding the trick. After some thought, West cashed the ace of clubs before leading the jack of hearts.

South properly played a low heart from dummy, but East saw what his partner had in mind. He overtook West's queen with the ace of hearts. He then led back a heart, and South was obliged to lose two trump tricks. If he trumped low, West would overruff, and East would still make the queen of spades. If South ruffed high, West would later make the jack of spades, and East the queen.

The defenders took a club and two tricks in each of the other suits for a total of seven defensive tricks. By setting the contract 700 points they scored a "top."

Charities Aid Society Asks Help in Placements

The assistance of a local committee has been enlisted by the New York State Charities Aid Society in finding families in this area to care for children.

Miss Lois Raynor of the state society told a group of local citizens at the Y.W.C.A. Monday night that a large number of Negro babies and older white children are awaiting placement at the present time.

She also outlines the qualifications which the agency has set up for prospective homes. The process of adoption was explained.

Miss Virginia Spiers, another staff member from the Charities Aid Society, accompanied Miss Raynor.

It was announced following the meeting that local persons interested in the program may obtain further information from Mrs. Herbert Fister, chairman, the Rev. D. L. Haynes, Mrs. C. C. Rose or the Rev. I. Gossoo.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Sacrifice Bids Can Boomerang

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

When today's hand was played in a recent tournament, South felt justified in sacrificing at four spades when his opponents bid three no-trump. He was right in supposing that East would have made three no-trump. Since that was worth 600 points, South hoped that he could get away with a loss of only 500 points at four spades.

The defenders, who were experienced tournament players, saw that they had been robbed of a chance to score 600 points. It would do them little good to collect 500 from South. Hence they went out to collect 700 points.

West began by cashing the king and jack of diamonds. East discarded the deuce of clubs on the second round of diamonds. West then shifted to the queen of hearts, holding the trick. After some thought, West cashed the ace of clubs before leading the jack of hearts.

South properly played a low heart from dummy, but East saw what his partner had in mind. He overtook West's queen with the ace of hearts. He then led back a heart, and South was obliged to lose two trump tricks. If he trumped low, West would overruff, and East would still make the queen of spades. If South ruffed high, West would later make the jack of spades, and East the queen.

The defenders took a club and two tricks in each of the other suits for a total of seven defensive tricks. By setting the contract 700 points they scored a "top."

He—What would I have to give you for just one little kiss?
She—Chloroform.

Work faithfully eight hours a day and don't worry. Then in time you may become the boss and work 12 hours a day and do all the worrying.

Man—Instead of paying you $3 a day for his job, would you do the work for a cent the first day, 2 cents the next day, 4 cents the third day, 8 cents the fourth day, and so on for thirty days, doubling the amount each day?

Other—Most certainly not. I'm not a penny-a-day man.

Man—All right. Now figure out what you would have received on the 30th day.

He did. His income on the 30th day would have been over 10 million dollars.

A stenographer was picketing outside of a downtown business office the other day. When the boss arrived, he demanded to know why she was striking.

Stenographer — I'm for better working conditions.

Boss — Better working conditions? What more do you want than you are getting.

Stenographer — It can be arranged very simply. I want to sit on your son's lap instead of yours.

The teacher was giving the class a lecture on "gravity."

Teacher—Now, children. It is the law of gravity that keeps us on this earth.

Junior — But please, teacher, how did we stick on before the law was passed?

Many a man's ambition is to be able to afford to spend what he's already spending.

Perhaps the real basis for most gripes about the younger generation is that we no longer belong to it.

The school teacher was questioning the children about their ages.

Junior—Seven, ma'am.

Teacher—And how old will you be your next birthday?

Junior—Nine, Ma'am.

Nonsense. If you were seven your last birthday, how can you be nine your next?

Junior—Well, Ma'am, you see I am eight today.

Farm Boys to Get Tractor Training

A group of 30 Ulster county farm boys will gather at Al Traver's property in Accord on Wednesday to learn the rudiments of tractor safety and maintenance.

The occasion will be the annual one-day instructional meeting of the county-wide 4-H Club tractor maintenance project. Members of the class will be aged from 10 to 18 years.

All the boys come from farms using tractors. Interest is high this year because farmers believe that it is vital that they get "better and more economical use" of their equipment, according to Edward Bower, county 4-H Club agent.

25 New Students

First-year instructions will be given 25 youngsters. Safety is the main factor stressed, and other instructions include the principles of ignition, cooling system, carburetion, air cleaning and general and engine lubrication.

Five boys who took instructions last year will receive the advanced course, which includes care of tires.

The instructor is Gerald DeWitt, older 4-H Club youth of Whitfield, who himself completed a course under Professor Carlton Edwards of the College of Agriculture, department of engineering.

The project includes "homework" assignments and filing of reports. At the county fair a contest will be held in the operation of tractors with one four-wheel farm impliment attached.

Dewey Has . . .

attack the Republican-backed McGoldrick rent control plan, which permits some increases up to 15 per cent, effective March 15.

Dewey endorsed the weight-distance truck tax Tuesday in a special message to both the Senate and Assembly.

He said the proposed tax system would require that big trucks pay a more equitable share of the cost of highway maintenance.

Trucking interests contend the tax will increase trucking costs tremendously, and might force small truckers out of business.

The tax rates would range from six-tenths of one cent per mile for a truck weighing 18,001 pounds to 2.4 cents per mile for trucks weighing more than 62,000 pounds. The tax would be computed by multiplying the rate by the miles traveled per month.

The levy would not apply to mail trucks, government owned trucks, trucks used exclusively for local deliveries, buses and farm vehicles.

The bill would approriate $2,500,000 for the first year to cover administration and construction of about 50 pit-type weighing stations at strategic highway check points.

Trading Is Begun

New York, March 8 (AP)—Futures trading will get underway at the nation's major cotton exchanges today for the first time in nearly six weeks. The exchanges closed up shop after the close of business Jan. 26, the day the Office of Price Stabilization announced its general freeze. They said they just couldn't operate until the price order was clarified. On Tuesday of this week the OPS announced amendments to the cotton order that were far from the goals of the cotton exchanges, but they at least made trading a possibility.

Senate Committees

coalition reported to have been made up of all of the Republican members of the joint group plus three Democrats.

Democrats Reported

Although Connally refused to make public the rollcall, the three Democrats were reported to have been Senators George (D.-Ga.), Byrd (D.-Va.) and Gillette (D.-Iowa).

Eleven Republican votes were registered, but Senator Vandenberg (R.-Mich.), ill and absent, was not recorded.

The proposals were written into a resolution which Connally and Senator Russell (D.-Ga.) have sponsored to put the Senate on record as favoring the administration plan to send troops to join Eisenhower's western European army.

The committees, which held lengthy hearings on the issue, approved the plan in principle yesterday.

Connally said members of the coalition served notice that while they will support the Connally-Russell resolution, they want it supplemented by an identical resolution which would require action by both Houses and have the force of law.

Washington With First Survey

George Washington was a member of the survey party which is believed to have made the first survey of Harper's Ferry, scene of John Brown's famous pre-Civil War raid and later Washington recommended the site for the nation's second arsenal, built in 1796.

Local Labor .

real backbone of our state's economy."

Mabel Fisher, business agent for Local 186, Amalgamated Clothing Workers, C.I.O., said the Hughes-Brees bill is "a threat to the well-being of the economy and to the people's jobs because it would put an additional back-breaking load of unemployment insurance taxes on the small companies of the state while allowing the largest and strongest companies to pay no taxes at all.

"Many of the small firms would have to go out of business, or move out of the state," she stressed.

President Doyle of the Trades and Labor Council, also business agent for the Iron Workers, A.F.L., gave this explanation:

"As the boys in Albany have it figured out, it's a matter of simple arithmetic. An employer who has four workers and lays off one would have 25 per cent of his work force getting unemployment benefits. Therefore his tax they say, should be high. But an employer of 1,000 workers who drops one worker would have only one tenth of one per cent of his workers receiving benefits. Therefore, they say, his tax should be low."

The A.F.L.-C.I.O. Joint Committee combatting the bill throughout the state announced in a press release that: "Tens of thousands of workers who are now entitled to benefits will lose their right to any benefits under the new scheme which they explain as follows:

"Before a worker can get any benefits—he must have 20 weeks of employment in the base period and he must have 'average weekly earnings' of $15.

"If he has 19 weeks or less he gets no benefits.

"If he gets any benefits at all, they will be based on a phony 'average' of his weekly earnings.

"Just the requirement of 20 weeks of employment will alone deprive 15 per cent or more of workers now getting benefits of their right to any benefit," the committee stressed. They pointed out also "the requirement of 'average' weekly earnings of $15 and said even more workers will be without any protection at all when they lost their jobs.

"Even if benefits are raised to $30 a week," the committee said, "this will really mean little if any improvement because the benefit rate for so many workers will be reduced way below this new maximum.

"Somcone who works occasionally and makes only $300 would get benefits. But a worker who earns $2,000 but can get only 19 weeks of employment because of bad weather or government restrictions on material or because of bad business or other causes would not get any benefits."

Pay Raise Voted

West Springfield, Mass., March 8 (AP)—The residents of this town voted to give their selectmen a raise in pay last night—because the officials didn't ask for one. A town meeting voted 85-84 for the pay hike after one resident told the townspeople the selectmen had recommended increases for other town employes but not for themselves. The chairman of the board will get an $800 raise bringing his salary to $2,000 a year, the other two will get a $900 boost to bring their salaries to $1,500.

Farm Boys to Get Tractor Training

A group of 30 Ulster county farm boys will gather at Al Traver's property in Accord on Wednesday to learn the rudiments of tractor safety and maintenance.

The occasion will be the annual one-day instructional meeting of the county-wide 4-H Club tractor maintenance project. Members of the class will be aged from 10 to 18 years.

All the boys come from farms using tractors. Interest is high this year because farmers believe that it is vital that they get "better and more economical use" of their equipment, according to Edward Bower, county 4-H Club agent.

25 New Students

First-year instructions will be given 25 youngsters. Safety is the main factor stressed, and other instructions include the principles of ignition, cooling system, carburetion, air cleaning and general and engine lubrication.

Five boys who took instructions last year will receive the advanced course, which includes care of tires.

The instructor is Gerald DeWitt, older 4-H Club youth of Whitfield, who himself completed a course under Professor Carlton Edwards of the College of Agriculture, department of engineering.

The project includes "homework" assignments and filing of reports. At the county fair a contest will be held in the operation of tractors with one four-wheel farm impliment attached.

Dewey Has . . .

attack the Republican-backed McGoldrick rent control plan, which permits some increases up to 15 per cent, effective March 15.

Dewey endorsed the weight-distance truck tax Tuesday in a special message to both the Senate and Assembly.

He said the proposed tax system would require that big trucks pay a more equitable share of the cost of highway maintenance.

Trucking interests contend the tax will increase trucking costs tremendously, and might force small truckers out of business.

The tax rates would range from six-tenths of one cent per mile for a truck weighing 18,001 pounds to 2.4 cents per mile for trucks weighing more than 62,000 pounds. The tax would be computed by multiplying the rate by the miles traveled per month.

The levy would not apply to mail trucks, government owned trucks, trucks used exclusively for local deliveries, buses and farm vehicles.

The bill would approriate $2,500,000 for the first year to cover administration and construction of about 50 pit-type weighing stations at strategic highway check points.

Trading Is Begun

New York, March 8 (AP)—Futures trading will get underway at the nation's major cotton exchanges today for the first time in nearly six weeks. The exchanges closed up shop after the close of business Jan. 26, the day the Office of Price Stabilization announced its general freeze. They said they just couldn't operate until the price order was clarified. On Tuesday of this week the OPS announced amendments to the cotton order that were far from the goals of the cotton exchanges, but they at least made trading a possibility.

Senate Committees

coalition reported to have been made up of all of the Republican members of the joint group plus three Democrats.

Democrats Reported

Although Connally refused to make public the rollcall, the three Democrats were reported to have been Senators George (D.-Ga.), Byrd (D.-Va.) and Gillette (D.-Iowa).

Eleven Republican votes were registered, but Senator Vandenberg (R.-Mich.), ill and absent, was not recorded.

The proposals were written into a resolution which Connally and Senator Russell (D.-Ga.) have sponsored to put the Senate on record as favoring the administration plan to send troops to join Eisenhower's western European army.

The committees, which held lengthy hearings on the issue, approved the plan in principle yesterday.

Connally said members of the coalition served notice that while they will support the Connally-Russell resolution, they want it supplemented by an identical resolution which would require action by both Houses and have the force of law.

Washington With First Survey

George Washington was a member of the survey party which is believed to have made the first survey of Harper's Ferry, scene of John Brown's famous pre-Civil War raid and later Washington recommended the site for the nation's second arsenal, built in 1796.

Local Labor .

real backbone of our state's economy."

Mabel Fisher, business agent for Local 186, Amalgamated Clothing Workers, C.I.O., said the Hughes-Brees bill is "a threat to the well-being of the economy and to the people's jobs because it would put an additional back-breaking load of unemployment insurance taxes on the small companies of the state while allowing the largest and strongest companies to pay no taxes at all.

"Many of the small firms would have to go out of business, or move out of the state," she stressed.

President Doyle of the Trades and Labor Council, also business agent for the Iron Workers, A.F.L., gave this explanation:

"As the boys in Albany have it figured out, it's a matter of simple arithmetic. An employer who has four workers and lays off one would have 25 per cent of his work force getting unemployment benefits. Therefore his tax they say, should be high. But an employer of 1,000 workers who drops one worker would have only one tenth of one per cent of his workers receiving benefits. Therefore, they say, his tax should be low."

The A.F.L.-C.I.O. Joint Committee combatting the bill throughout the state announced in a press release that: "Tens of thousands of workers who are now entitled to benefits will lose their right to any benefits under the new scheme which they explain as follows:

"Before a worker can get any benefits—he must have 20 weeks of employment in the base period and he must have 'average weekly earnings' of $15.

"If he has 19 weeks or less he gets no benefits.

"If he gets any benefits at all, they will be based on a phony 'average' of his weekly earnings.

"Just the requirement of 20 weeks of employment will alone deprive 15 per cent or more of workers now getting benefits of their right to any benefit," the committee stressed. They pointed out also "the requirement of 'average' weekly earnings of $15 and said even more workers will be without any protection at all when they lost their jobs.

"Even if benefits are raised to $30 a week," the committee said, "this will really mean little if any improvement because the benefit rate for so many workers will be reduced way below this new maximum.

"Someone who works occasionally and makes only $300 would get benefits. But a worker who earns $2,000 but can get only 19 weeks of employment because of bad weather or government restrictions on material or because of bad business or other causes would not get any benefits."

Pay Raise Voted

West Springfield, Mass., March 8 (AP)—The residents of this town voted to give their selectmen a raise in pay last night—because the officials didn't ask for one. A town meeting voted 85-84 for the pay hike after one resident told the townspeople the selectmen had recommended increases for other town employes but not for themselves. The chairman of the board will get an $800 raise bringing his salary to $2,000 a year, the other two will get a $900 boost to bring their salaries to $1,500.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 8 (AP)—Stock prices pushed narrowly forward in a relatively quiet market today.

Demand for some railroad, motor and airline issues helped impart a steady tone to the list. But there was little evidence of any strong upward pressure. Gains generally were under $1 a share.

Buying was inclined to be selective, with some individual situations affecting price levels.

Pacific Western Oil, whose directors approved a proposed 3-for-1 stock split, pushed ahead more than a point before giving up most of the rise. This issue climbed more than 4 yesterday.

Packard again was among the most active shares, with a small gain at times. General Motors and Chrysler also climbed in the motor section.

Missouri-Kansas-Texas Common and Preferred were among the better performers in the rails, with the Katy Preferred up as much as 2 points. Nickel Plate, Southern Railway and New York Central were others on the upside.

Ahead elsewhere were Trans World Airlines, United Air Line, du Pont (which announced record 1950 earnings), Dow Chemical, U. S. Steel, Boeing, American Woolen, American Tobacco and Air Reduction.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 8 (AP)—Stock prices pushed narrowly forward in a relatively quiet market today.

Demand for some railroad, motor and airline issues helped impart a steady tone to the list. But there was little evidence of any strong upward pressure. Gains generally were under $1 a share.

Buying was inclined to be selective, with some individual situations affecting price levels.

Pacific Western Oil, whose directors approved a proposed 3-for-1 stock split, pushed ahead more than a point before giving up most of the rise. This issue climbed more than 4 yesterday.

Packard again was among the most active shares, with a small gain at times. General Motors and Chrysler also climbed in the motor section.

Missouri-Kansas-Texas Common and Preferred were among the better performers in the rails, with the Katy Preferred up as much as 2 points. Nickel Plate, Southern Railway and New York Central were others on the upside.

Ahead elsewhere were Trans World Airlines, United Air Line, du Pont (which announced record 1950 earnings), Dow Chemical, U. S. Steel, Boeing, American Woolen, American Tobacco and Air Reduction.

Quotations by Morgan Davis & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, 60 Beaver street, New York city: branch office, 41 John street, R. B. Osterhoudt, manager.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 8 (AP)—Stock prices pushed narrowly forward in a relatively quiet market today.

Demand for some railroad, motor and airline issues helped impart a steady tone to the list. But there was little evidence of any strong upward pressure. Gains generally were under $1 a share.

Buying was inclined to be selective, with some individual situations affecting price levels.

Pacific Western Oil, whose directors approved a proposed 3-for-1 stock split, pushed ahead more than a point before giving up most of the rise. This issue climbed more than 4 yesterday.

Packard again was among the most active shares, with a small gain at times. General Motors and Chrysler also climbed in the motor section.

Missouri-Kansas-Texas Common and Preferred were among the better performers in the rails, with the Katy Preferred up as much as 2 points. Nickel Plate, Southern Railway and New York Central were others on the upside.

Ahead elsewhere were Trans World Airlines, United Air Line, du Pont (which announced record 1950 earnings), Dow Chemical, U. S. Steel, Boeing, American Woolen, American Tobacco and Air Reduction.

Do You Remember

by SOPHIE MILLER

Those who are interested in our "Ulster County Gazette," of January 4, 1800, covering the funeral of George Washington would perhaps like to learn that I just received a list of "Historical Documents" from the Library of Congress, Washington, D. C., of which they have facsimile prints. Of the 24 renown items such as "Magna Carta," in manuscript form, 60 cents; "Gettysburg Address," first draft, 80 cents; "Declaration of Independence," facsimile, 60 cents; "Bill of Rights," 60 cents; Signatures of all Presidents of the U.S.A., $1.20; "Signers of the Constitution," (picture and brief biography of each signer) 60 cents. After this follows, "Ulster County Gazette," for a black on white positive exposure of each of all four sides, at 40 cents a side, $1.60. They advise: "Facsimile prints will be made to approximate original size of the text copied, unless enlargement or reduction is specified."

I was able to obtain the magazine, "Antiques" of January 1931 through a "used magazine store." It contains a reproduction of the "Gazette" and also a detailed write up how the original, which is at present at the Congressional Library, was found. Perhaps some day the Chamber of Commerce would collect all the information known on the Gazette and put it into booklet form. Many of our local city centers, such as the library, chamber of commerce, newspapers and the court house receive inquiries on the "Gazette." Most of these letters come from far distant states. I think all these folks should be sent a historical booklet, about Kingston's history, a facsimile of the original "Gazette" and detailed information on this 1800 paper, something like Mr. R. W. G. Vail, Dir. of the New York Historical Society put out around 1931. I hope someday another original is found right here, and kept on display in our own Senate House Museum, where it belongs.

H. Bishop, of 32 Green street, sent me parts of a Frank Leslie's Illustrated Family Almanac for 1885. On the front cover is a picture called "St. Valentine's Day." A young lady in the height of fashion of the 1880's is reading a valentine, while seven various gentlemen are deep in thought around the picture composing a valentine. The various costumes of the gentlemen of various walks of life are shown all in deep romantic thought. One, the dandy, with a monocle writes with a quill pen, some are young and very dreamy, others older and sedate. It would make an interesting print any time of the year, for a wall decoration.

In the 1885 Almanac there is an article on historical cold periods, starting from their last date of 1692 when owing to the intense cold, wolves came into Vienna to attack people besause of their hunger. In 1690 Scotland was visited with a 13-day and night storm during which time nine-tenths of their sheep were frozen to death. In 1620 the sea between Constantinople and Iksador was passable on frozen ice. Going back to 860 the Mediterranean Sea was so thickly frozen that it was passable for carriage and horses, and merchandise was carried across on the ice. The sea is 1,250 miles wide and 2,400 miles long, that's a lot of ice back in 860.

Committee Approves Bill

Albany, N. Y., March 8 (AP)—A Democratic bill endorsed by Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri and authorizing New York city to boost its sales tax from two to three per cent was approved yesterday by the Senate Finance Committee. The bill was sent to the floor for expected passage by the full Senate. The measure apparently has the blessing of the Dewey administration, and is expected to pass the Assembly and be signed by the governor. Two New York city Republicans, MacNeil Mitchell of Manhattan and Seymour Halpern of Queens, voted against the bill in the Senate committee. Queens Republicans have announced they would oppose it.

Civil Service Exam

An examination for indefinite appointment to the position of engineer equipment inspector at an entrance salary of $3,875 per year was announced today by the executive secretary of the board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners for the Schenectady General Depot. Vacancies will be filled at the depot. Further information and applications may be obtained from first and second class post offices.

As Pegler Sees It

string statesmen. The only two whom he really didn't have in hand were Lewis, who had pegged him as a Fauntleroy, and Hutcheson, of the carpenters, a lifelong Republican, who gave obedience, nevertheless, in return for the same deal the others got. Truman apparently has contempt for them. He well could have.

It is reasonable, in view of the public stupidity concerning the functions and powers of unions, to inquire who would represent "labor" if the unions were taken at their word in withdrawing and were not invited back. The people of the United States have an honest, if inexcusable, superstition that unions are necessary to prevent the government and the employing corporations from taking unfair advantage of toilers. That error has been hollered up for many years by experts, including even some clergy who should know better and, in some cases, undoubtedly do. There was a time when unions were voluntary associations of genuine workers and, in that legitimate role, performed good work for their members. But nowadays it is impossible to draw a line of distinction separating "labor" or the "wage-earner" from that other element known as "the public." "Labor" and "the public" are not groups apart. "Labor" is an important portion of "the public" and is represented by the Congress. Labor deserves no special representation. To hold that "labor" will be put upon by the government and industry in the war effort which Charles E. Wilson is slowly organizing, is to believe that Wilson and the rest are crooks intent on stealing at the expense of the workers, and monsters intent on crushing some ten or twelve million of their fellow-citizens.

The union racketeer thrives on trouble and when trouble accidentally is not, he kicks up trouble so that he may seem to the workers to be fighting their battle. That only complicates the task of men who really do want to establish efficiency in the mobilization and to keep wages and the cost of everything the worker buys within a hand-span. It may be thought that, with the unions absolutely eliminated from the situation, the government will fix wages and thus become the master state. Of course, it will. The government did that in World War II. The unions made trouble constantly and ran up the cost by many billions, but actually they were only going through motions. When you came right down to it, the government made the decisions and will do it again in this war. The unions themselves are a master state, so what can be gained by all the lost motion, expense and delay of treating with them?

Do You Remember

by SOPHIE MILLER

Those who are interested in our "Ulster County Gazette," of January 4, 1800, covering the funeral of George Washington would perhaps like to learn that I just received a list of "Historical Documents" from the Library of Congress, Washington, D. C., of which they have facsimile prints. Of the 24 renown items such as "Magna Carta," in manuscript form, 60 cents; "Gettysburg Address," first draft, 80 cents; "Declaration of Independence," facsimile, 60 cents; "Bill of Rights," 60 cents; Signatures of all Presidents of the U.S.A., $1.20; "Signers of the Constitution," (picture and brief biography of each signer) 60 cents. After this follows, "Ulster County Gazette," for a black on white positive exposure of each of all four sides, at 40 cents a side, $1.60. They advise: "Facsimile prints will be made to approximate original size of the text copied, unless enlargement or reduction is specified."

I was able to obtain the magazine, "Antiques" of January 1931 through a "used magazine store." It contains a reproduction of the "Gazette" and also a detailed write up how the original, which is at present at the Congressional Library, was found. Perhaps some day the Chamber of Commerce would collect all the information known on the Gazette and put it into booklet form. Many of our local city centers, such as the library, chamber of commerce, newspapers and the court house receive inquiries on the "Gazette." Most of these letters come from far distant states. I think all these folks should be sent a historical booklet, about Kingston's history, a facsimile of the original "Gazette" and detailed information on this 1800 paper, something like Mr. R. W. G. Vail, Dir. of the New York Historical Society put out around 1931. I hope someday another original is found right here, and kept on display in our own Senate House Museum, where it belongs.

H. Bishop, of 32 Green street, sent me parts of a Frank Leslie's Illustrated Family Almanac for 1885. On the front cover is a picture called "St. Valentine's Day." A young lady in the height of fashion of the 1880's is reading a valentine, while seven various gentlemen are deep in thought around the picture composing a valentine. The various costumes of the gentlemen of various walks of life are shown all in deep romantic thought. One, the dandy, with a monocle writes with a quill pen, some are young and very dreamy, others older and sedate. It would make an interesting print any time of the year, for a wall decoration.

In the 1885 Almanac there is an article on historical cold periods, starting from their last date of 1602 when owing to the intense cold, wolves came into Vienna to attack people besause of their hunger. In 1690 Scotland was visited with a 13-day and night storm during which time nine-tenths of their sheep were frozen to death. In 1620 the sea between Constantinople and Iksador was passable on frozen ice. Going back to 860 the Mediterranean Sea was so thickly frozen that it was passable for carriage and horses, and merchandise was carried across on the ice. The sea is 1,250 miles wide and 2,400 miles long, that's a lot of ice back in 860.

Committee Approves Bill

Albany, N. Y., March 8 (AP)—A Democratic bill endorsed by Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri and authorizing New York city to boost its sales tax from two to three per cent was approved yesterday by the Senate Finance Committee. The bill was sent to the floor for expected passage by the full Senate. The measure apparently has the blessing of the Dewey administration, and is expected to pass the Assembly and be signed by the governor. Two New York city Republicans, MacNeil Mitchell of Manhattan and Seymour Halpern of Queens, voted against the bill in the Senate committee. Queens Republicans have announced they would oppose it.

Civil Service Exam

An examination for indefinite appointment to the position of engineer equipment inspector at an entrance salary of $3,875 per year was announced today by the executive secretary of the board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners for the Schenectady General Depot. Vacancies will be filled at the depot. Further information and applications may be obtained from first and second class post offices.

As Pegler Sees It

string statesmen. The only two whom he really didn't have in hand were Lewis, who had pegged him as a Fauntleroy, and Hutcheson, of the carpenters, a lifelong Republican, who gave obedience, nevertheless, in return for the same deal the others got. Truman apparently has contempt for them. He well could have.

It is reasonable, in view of the public stupidity concerning the functions and powers of unions, to inquire who would represent "labor" if the unions were taken at their word in withdrawing and were not invited back. The people of the United States have an honest, if inexcusable, superstition that unions are necessary to prevent the government and the employing corporations from taking unfair advantage of toilers. That error has been hollered up for many years by experts, including even some clergy who should know better and, in some cases, undoubtedly do. There was a time when unions were voluntary associations of genuine workers and, in that legitimate role, performed good work for their members. But nowadays it is impossible to draw a line of distinction separating "labor" or the "wage-earner" from that other element known as "the public." "Labor" and "the public" are not groups apart. "Labor" is an important portion of "the public" and is represented by the Congress. Labor deserves no special representation. To hold that "labor" will be put upon by the government and industry in the war effort which Charles E. Wilson is slowly organizing, is to believe that Wilson and the rest are crooks intent on stealing at the expense of the workers, and monsters intent on crushing some ten or twelve million of their fellow-citizens.

The union racketeer thrives on trouble and when trouble accidentally is not, he kicks up trouble so that he may seem to the workers to be fighting their battle. That only complicates the task of men who really do want to establish efficiency in the mobilization and to keep wages and the cost of everything the worker buys within a hand-span. It may be thought that, with the unions absolutely eliminated from the situation, the government will fix wages and thus become the master state. Of course, it will. The government did that in World War II. The unions made trouble constantly and ran up the cost by many billions, but actually they were only going through motions. When you came right down to it, the government made the decisions and will do it again in this war. The unions themselves are a master state, so what can be gained by all the lost motion, expense and delay of treating with them?

Weekly Food Review

(By The Associated Press)

Poultry and egg prices rose a little in many retail stores this week; meats and butter held about steady, and several fresh vegetables eased somewhat as growers' shipments picked up.

The only notable changes reported in meats appeared to be price recoveries in the higher-cost steaks and chops. These items had been marked down last week when consumer resistance slowed demand. Market analysts said retailers then kept their wholesale orders at a minimum, meat shipments shrank and as the surpluses disappeared, prices rallied.

Week-end storms in the mid-west also tended to strengthen meat prices by delaying some shipments, wholesalers said.

Chickens Are Up

Frying and broiling chickens were up two to four cents a pound in many marketing centers and seemed likely to climb a little more by the end of the week. These increases reflected good consumer demand because of poultry's favorable price comparison with red meats.

Widespread advances in eggs of from four to as much as 10 cents a dozen were attributed to stormy weather and heavier buying by the military and by commercial and storage interests during this period of seasonal high production.

In produce departments, lettuce moved higher pricewise as markets finally got rid of surpluses which accumulated when the end of the rail strike released supplies tied up en route to market. Several other vegetables were reduced in most places, however, including snap beans, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, celery, onions, peppers and spinach.

Higher Prices Foreseen

Higher prices for canned citrus juices were foreseen when the Office of Price Stabilization announced canners could add to their prices the increased cost of handling fruit damaged in the recent Texas freeze. The order said the salvaged citrus fruit could not qualify for the fresh market and canners' costs would rise because it had to be specially inspected and packed.

An OPS spokesman also told newsmen that price stabilizers were working on an order which would replace the present general freeze on canned and frozen foods by controlling wholesalers' and retailers' profit margins. This is expected to result in some price rollbacks, and probably some advances as well—in foods which now cost processors more.

Rise Is Predicted

Leaders of the frozen foods industry, in a convention at San Francisco, predicted that frozen food prices at retail would rise about 15 per cent by mid-June because growers were demanding more for their produce. Most fresh produce items still are selling below legal farm price limits.

On the other hand, John H. Davis, executive secretary of the National Council of Farmer Co-operatives, pointed out that some farm products, especially hogs and grains, have declined since the record mid-February level.

He told agricultural writers in Washington that such declines might continue if farm production continues high. He blamed much of the food price increases since the Korean war started on scarce buying and stockpiling by housewives and food distributors fearing shortages, and said there already is evidence that abnormal buying is disappearing.

Figures Are Offered

Paul S. Willis, president of Grocery Manufacturers of America, large food trade organization, offered some figures to show why prices of some products may have to be raised beyond the January freeze levels.

He said grains, a major raw material for breads, biscuits, crackers, flour breakfast cereals, spaghetti, macaroni and puddings, rose 15 to 25 per cent since June of 1950. Cottonseed oil, margarine, salad dressing and mayonnaise, rose 87 per cent. Cocoa beans, for cocoa and chocolate, rose 27 per cent. Manufacturing milk, used for evaporated milk, butter and cheese, was up 19 per cent.

Willis also said prices of tin cans and glass jars have climbed 8 to 17 per cent, folding package cartons as much as 50 per cent, paper bags like those used for family flour, 39 per cent. And labor costs in food processing plants now are up 10 per cent from the pre-Korean period, he added.

Soprano May Quit Opera

New York, March 8 (AP)—Famed soprano Kirsten Flagstad, who returned to the Metropolitan Opera this season after a 10-year absence, may not sing at the Met next year, and possibly may retire from opera. Her manager, Marks Levine, said she had instructed him not to negotiate a contract for next season. Miss Flagstad, one of the world's foremost Wagnerian sopranos who became a controversial figure in World War 2, reportedly plans to confine her work to concerts in the future. She had been criticized for returning to Norway during the war to stay with her Quisling husband, but audiences here welcomed her with thunderous applause when she came back to the Met this season.

Weekly Food Review

(By The Associated Press)

Poultry and egg prices rose a little in many retail stores this week; meats and butter held about steady, and several fresh vegetables eased somewhat as growers' shipments picked up.

The only notable changes reported in meats appeared to be price recoveries in the higher-cost steaks and chops. These items had been marked down last week when consumer resistance slowed demand. Market analysts said retailers then kept their wholesale orders at a minimum, meat shipments shrank and as the surpluses disappeared, prices rallied.

Week-end storms in the mid-west also tended to strengthen meat prices by delaying some shipments, wholesalers said.

Chickens Are Up

Frying and broiling chickens were up two to four cents a pound in many marketing centers and seemed likely to climb a little more by the end of the week. These increases reflected good consumer demand because of poultry's favorable price comparison with red meats.

Widespread advances in eggs of from four to as much as 10 cents a dozen were attributed to stormy weather and heavier buying by the military and by commercial and storage interests during this period of seasonal high production.

In produce departments, lettuce moved higher pricewise as markets finally got rid of surpluses which accumulated when the end of the rail strike released supplies tied up en route to market. Several other vegetables were reduced in most places, however, including snap beans, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, celery, onions, peppers and spinach.

Higher Prices Foreseen

Higher prices for canned citrus juices were foreseen when the Office of Price Stabilization announced canners could add to their prices the increased cost of handling fruit damaged in the recent Texas freeze. The order said the salvaged citrus fruit could not qualify for the fresh market and canners' costs would rise because it had to be specially inspected and packed.

An OPS spokesman also told newsmen that price stabilizers were working on an order which would replace the present general freeze on canned and frozen foods by controlling wholesalers' and retailers' profit margins. This is expected to result in some price rollbacks, and probably some advances as well—in foods which now cost processors more.

Rise Is Predicted

Leaders of the frozen foods industry, in a convention at San Francisco, predicted that frozen food prices at retail would rise about 15 per cent by mid-June because growers were demanding more for their produce. Most fresh produce items still are selling below legal farm price limits.

On the other hand, John H. Davis, executive secretary of the National Council of Farmer Co-operatives, pointed out that some farm products, especially hogs and grains, have declined since the record mid-February level.

He told agricultural writers in Washington that such declines might continue if farm production continues high. He blamed much of the food price increases since the Korean war started on scarce buying and stockpiling by housewives and food distributors fearing shortages, and said there already is evidence that abnormal buying is disappearing.

Figures Are Offered

Paul S. Willis, president of Grocery Manufacturers of America, large food trade organization, offered some figures to show why prices of some products may have to be raised beyond the January freeze levels.

He said grains, a major raw material for breads, biscuits, crackers, flour breakfast cereals, spaghetti, macaroni and puddings, rose 15 to 25 per cent since June of 1950. Cottonseed oil, margarine, salad dressing and mayonnaise, rose 87 per cent. Cocoa beans, for cocoa and chocolate, rose 27 per cent. Manufacturing milk, used for evaporated milk, butter and cheese, was up 19 per cent.

Willis also said prices of tin cans and glass jars have climbed 8 to 17 per cent, folding package cartons as much as 50 per cent, paper bags like those used for family flour, 39 per cent. And labor costs in food processing plants now are up 10 per cent from the pre-Korean period, he added.

Soprano May Quit Opera

New York, March 8 (AP)—Famed soprano Kirsten Flagstad, who returned to the Metropolitan Opera this season after a 10-year absence, may not sing at the Met next year, and possibly may retire from opera. Her manager, Marks Levine, said she had instructed him not to negotiate a contract for next season. Miss Flagstad, one of the world's foremost Wagnerian sopranos who became a controversial figure in World War 2, reportedly plans to confine her work to concerts in the future. She had been criticized for returning to Norway during the war to stay with her Quisling husband, but audiences here welcomed her with thunderous applause when she came back to the Met this season.

State Rent Boss Explains About Voluntary Lease Agreements

Joseph D. McGoldrick, state rent administrator, today made public a series of questions and answers concerning voluntary lease agreements, authorized by the new rent and eviction regulations which go into effect on March 15.

Because many landlords and tenants are now considering the terms of such leases McGoldrick said it would be timely for those concerned to give careful attention to the regulations before considering entering into such a lease.

McGoldrick's statement and questions and answers follow:

"Under section 33, paragraph 2 of the 1951 rent and eviction regulations landlord and tenants are permitted to enter into voluntary leases which may provide for an increase not in excess of 15 per cent in the maximum rent of a controlled housing accommodation provided the lease is for a term of at least two years. The tenant may request additional services or equipment as a condition to entering into such a lease

"The tenant, by executing such a lease, secures himself against having to pay more than the amount agreed upon in the lease no matter what the landlord's financial position may be in the operation of a property.

"As a condition for the increase in the maximum rent, the landlord must certify that he is maintaining and will continue to maintain all essential services together with any additional services which the tenant may secure in his bargaining for the lease.

"The maximum rent is automatically increased by the execution of such a voluntary lease. The tenant will continue to have substantially the same protection afforded by the present rent and eviction regulations so long as they continue in effect.

"The following questions and answers clarify these provisions:

"1. Q. A landlord requests a tenant to enter into a two year lease providing for an increase of not more than 15 per cent in the maximum rent. Must the tenant sign a lease?

"A. No. The tenant need not sign a lease unless he wishes to. The maximum rent cannot be increased merely because the tenant does not sign a lease.

"2. Q. May a tenant be evicted if he does not enter into a lease providing for some increase in the maximum rent?

"A. No. The tenant may not be evicted under the present law and regulations for refusing to enter into such a lease. The tenant has substantially the same protection under the regulations which became effective on March 15, 1951 as he had under the preceding regulations, and he will continue to have such protection while the regulations remain in force, whether he has a lease or not.

"3. Q. Is it possible for a landlord to obtain an increase in the maximum rent if the tenant does not have the protection of a lease?

"A. Yes. A landlord may be able to obtain an increase in the maximum rent if he can prove the necessary facts under certain sections of the regulations.

"4. Q. If a tenant declines to accept the landlord's terms for a lease, or does not enter into any lease, may the landlord decrease the essential services which he gave, or which he was required to give for the maximum rent?

"A. No. Should the landlord for any reason refuse to provide such services the tenant may file a complaint with the local rent administrator. If the landlord refuses to restore the services the maximum rent may be reduced.

"5. Q. What does the tenant gain by signing such a voluntary lease agreement?

"A. (1) The contractual right to remain in the leased premises, subject to the conditions in the lease and subject to the regulations, at the rent agreed upon in the lease for the duration of the lease; (2) If the landlord were eligible to obtain a greater increase in rent during the period of the proposed lease through some adjustment section of the regulations, he will not be able to do so, because he will be limited by the maximum rent established by the lease.

"6. Q. The tenant is agreeable to having a lease but he prefers a three year lease instead of a two year lease. Would this be proper under the regulations?

"A. Yes. The lease may be for as long a period as the tenant and the landlord may agree upon, provided it is for a minimum period of two years.

"7. Q. The tenant would like to have the right to cancel the lease upon thirty days notice to the landlord. Is this permissible?

"A. Yes. The lease may give the tenant the right to cancel or terminate sooner, but the landlord cannot have this right of cancellation.

"8. Q. The tenant wishes to pay only a 10 per cent increase and the landlord is willing to accept this. Is this permissible?

"A. Yes. The rent increase may be in any amount not exceeding 15 per cent.

"9. Q. The tenant is willing to sign a lease but he wishes a new stove, or a new refrigerator, or the right to put up a television antenna, or some other increase or improvement in the services. May this be part of the lease agreement?

"A. Yes. This is a matter of bargaining between land and tenant. It is important to remember that the lease should specifically include a statement of such additional services.

"10. Q. If a tenant signs a lease which provides for additional services or equipment, and the landlord fails to furnish such additional services or equipment, what may the tenant do?

"A. He may file a complaint with the local rent administrator and the new maximum rent may be reduced.

"11. Q. If a landlord enters into such a lease and his expenses afterwards are increased, may he obtain an additional increase in rent above that established in the voluntary lease agreement?

"A. No. The landlord and the tenant are both bound by the terms of the lease.

"12. Q. If a tenant signs such a lease may the landlord, or a purchaser of the property, have him evicted for personal occupancy or to subdivide the apartment during the term of the lease?

"A. No. The tenant is protected by his lease agreement.

"13. Q. Will the housing accommodations be decontrolled if the tenant signs such a lease?

"A. No. The tenant continues to receive the benefit of the regulations as well as the benefits of the lease.

"14. Q. A tenant is not agreeable to entering into a voluntary lease agreement but he does want a new refrigerator, or a new stove, or a new service. How may he obtain it?

"A. The tenant and the landlord must come to an agreement about the additional service. A form is provided on which the landlord can apply for an increase based upon this agreement. The amount of the increase of the maximum rent for the additional service will be determined by the local rent administrator.

"15. Q. If the landlord and the tenant sign such a voluntary lease agreement, what remains to be done for it to become effective?

"A. The new maximum rent takes effect automatically on its effective date. Within 15 days after the effective date of the lease the landlord must file a report of it upon prescribed forms with the local rent administrator. This must include a statement of any additional services or equipment furnished to the tenant as a consideration for the execution of the lease.

"16. Q. May those who signed voluntary lease agreements under the federal administration of rent control enter into new lease agreements under the state regulations?

"A. Yes. They may enter into voluntary lease agreements under the 1951 state regulations if they choose to do so.

"17. Q. Will the local rent administrator advise either a tenant or a landlord to execute such a lease?

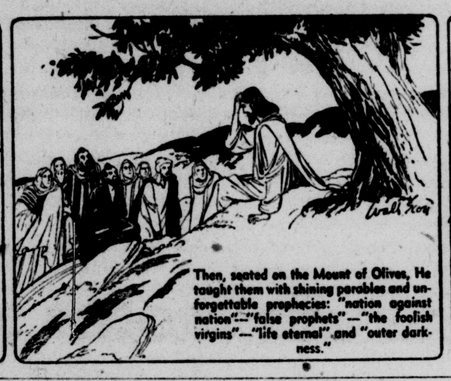
"A. No. The local rent administrator has no authority to give such advice, nor would it be proper for him to do so. It is for each tenant and each landlord, respectively, to use his own judgment and come to his own conclusion.

"18. Q. When may the landlord and the tenant enter into a voluntary lease?

"A. The landlord and the tenant may enter into and execute a voluntary lease at any time provided the increase in the maximum rent did not take effect prior to March 15, 1951."

THE WAY TO CALVARY

Some of the Savior's most treasured words were spoken shortly before His agony. Leaving the temple with His disciples, He foretold its destruction, "There shall not be left here one stone upon another."



Then, seated on the Mount of Olives, He taught them with shining parables and unforgettable prophecies: "nation against nation"—"false prophets"—"the foolish virgins"—"life eternal" and "outer darkness."

Betrayal Foretold

Finally He told them that soon He would be betrayed and crucified. To all but one of His disciples this came as a fearful shock. That one was Judas Iscariot.

Red Cross in Disasters

Last year 900 nurses were provided by the Red Cross to serve in 80 disasters, in refugee shelters, in emergency medical stations, in blood centers, in hospitals and clinics. In the worst polio epidemic in the nation's history, the Red Cross made a record of 2,330 nurse assignments in 37 states and the District of Columbia. Do your part in supporting this Red Cross service by contributing to the 1951 Fund Campaign.

State Rent Boss Explains About Voluntary Lease Agreements

Joseph D. McGoldrick, state rent administrator, today made public a series of questions and answers concerning voluntary lease agreements, authorized by the new rent and eviction regulations which go into effect on March 15.

Because many landlords and tenants are now considering the terms of such leases McGoldrick said it would be timely for those concerned to give careful attention to the regulations before considering entering into such a lease.

McGoldrick's statement and questions and answers follow:

"Under section 33, paragraph 2 of the 1951 rent and eviction regulations landlord and tenants are permitted to enter into voluntary leases which may provide for an increase not in excess of 15 per cent in the maximum rent of a controlled housing accommodation provided the lease is for a term of at least two years. The tenant may request additional services or equipment as a condition to entering into such a lease

"The tenant, by executing such a lease, secures himself against having to pay more than the amount agreed upon in the lease no matter what the landlord's financial position may be in the operation of a property.

"As a condition for the increase in the maximum rent, the landlord must certify that he is maintaining and will continue to maintain all essential services together with any additional services which the tenant may secure in his bargaining for the lease.

"The maximum rent is automatically increased by the execution of such a voluntary lease. The tenant will continue to have substantially the same protection afforded by the present rent and eviction regulations so long as they continue in effect.

"The following questions and answers clarify these provisions:

"1. Q A landlord requests a tenant to enter into a two year lease providing for an increase of not more than 15 per cent in the maximum rent. Must the tenant sign a lease?

"A. No. The tenant need not sign a lease unless he wishes to. The maximum rent cannot be increased merely because the tenant does not sign a lease.

"2. Q. May a tenant be evicted if he does not enter into a lease providing for some increase in the maximum rent?

"A. No. The tenant may not be evicted under the present law and regulations for refusing to enter into such a lease. The tenant has substantially the same protection under the regulations which became effective on March 15, 1951 as he had under the preceding regulations, and he will continue to have such protection while the regulations remain in force, whether he has a lease or not.

"3. Q Is it possible for a landlord to obtain an increase in the maximum rent if the tenant does not have the protection of a lease?

"A. Yes. A landlord may be able to obtain an increase in the maximum rent if he can prove the necessary facts under certain sections of the regulations.

"4. Q If a tenant declines to accept the landlord's terms for a lease, or does not enter into any lease, may the landlord decrease the essential services which he gave, or which he was required to give for the maximum rent?

"A. No. Should the landlord for any reason refuse to provide such services the tenant may file a complaint with the local rent administrator. If the landlord refuses to restore the services the maximum rent may be reduced.

"5. Q. What does the tenant gain by signing such a voluntary lease agreement?

"A. (1) The contractual right to remain in the leased premises, subject to the conditions in the lease and subject to the regulations, at the rent agreed upon in the lease for the duration of the lease; (2) If the landlord were eligible to obtain a greater increase in rent during the period of the proposed lease through some adjustment section of the regulations, he will not be able to do so, because he will be limited by the maximum rent established by the lease.

"6. Q The tenant is agreeable to having a lease but he prefers a three year lease instead of a two year lease. Would this be proper under the regulations?

"A. Yes. The lease may be for as long a period as the tenant and the landlord may agree upon, provided it is for a minimum period of two years.

"7. Q. The tenant would like to have the right to cancel the lease upon thirty days notice to the landlord. Is this permissible?

"A. Yes. The lease may give the tenant the right to cancel or terminate sooner, but the landlord cannot have this right of cancellation.

"8. Q. The tenant wishes to pay only a 10 per cent increase and the landlord is willing to accept this. Is this permissible?

"A. Yes. The rent increase may be in any amount not exceeding 15 per cent.

"9. Q. The tenant is willing to sign a lease but he wishes a new stove, or a new refrigerator, or the right to put up a television antenna, or some other increase or improvement in the services. May this be part of the lease agreement?

"A. Yes. This is a matter of bargaining between land and tenant. It is important to remember that the lease should specifically include a statement of such additional services.

"10. Q. If a tenant signs a lease which provides for additional services or equipment, and the landlord fails to furnish such additional services or equipment, what may the tenant do?

"A. He may file a complaint with the local rent administrator and the new maximum rent may be reduced.

"11. Q. If a landlord enters into such a lease and his expenses afterwards are increased, may he obtain an additional increase in rent above that established in the voluntary lease agreement?

"A. No. The landlord and the tenant are both bound by the terms of the lease.

"12. Q. If a tenant signs such a lease may the landlord, or a purchaser of the property, have him evicted for personal occupancy or to subdivide the apartment during the term of the lease?

"A. No. The tenant is protected by his lease agreement.

"13. Q. Will the housing accommodations be decontrolled if the tenant signs such a lease?

"A. No. The tenant continues to receive the benefit of the regulations as well as the benefits of the lease.

"14. Q. A tenant is not agreeable to entering into a voluntary lease agreement but he does want a new refrigerator, or a new stove, or a new service. How may he obtain it?

"A. The tenant and the landlord must come to an agreement about the additional service. A form is provided on which the landlord can apply for an increase based upon this agreement. The amount of the increase of the maximum rent for the additional service will be determined by the local rent administrator.

"15. Q. If the landlord and the tenant sign such a voluntary lease agreement, what remains to be done for it to become effective?

"A. The new maximum rent takes effect automatically on its effective date. Within 15 days after the effective date of the lease the landlord must file a report of it upon prescribed forms with the local rent administrator. This must include a statement of any additional services or equipment furnished to the tenant as a consideration for the execution of the lease.

"16. Q. May those who signed voluntary lease agreements under the federal administration of rent control enter into new lease agreements under the state regulations?

"A. Yes. They may enter into voluntary lease agreements under the 1951 state regulations if they choose to do so.

"17. Q. Will the local rent administrator advise either a tenant or a landlord to execute such a lease?

"A. No. The local rent administrator has no authority to give such advice, nor would it be proper for him to do so. It is for each tenant and each landlord, respectively, to use his own judgment and come to his own conclusion.

"18. Q. When may the landlord and the tenant enter into a voluntary lease?

"A. The landlord and the tenant may enter into and execute a voluntary lease at any time provided the increase in the maximum rent did not take effect prior to March 15, 1951."

State Rent Boss Explains About Voluntary Lease Agreements

Joseph D. McGoldrick, state rent administrator, today made public a series of questions and answers concerning voluntary lease agreements, authorized by the new rent and eviction regulations which go into effect on March 15.

Because many landlords and tenants are now considering the terms of such leases McGoldrick said it would be timely for those concerned to give careful attention to the regulations before considering entering into such a lease.

McGoldrick's statement and questions and answers follow:

"Under section 33, paragraph 2 of the 1951 rent and eviction regulations landlord and tenants are permitted to enter into voluntary leases which may provide for an increase not in excess of 15 per cent in the maximum rent of a controlled housing accommodation provided the lease is for a term of at least two years. The tenant may request additional services or equipment as a condition to entering into such a lease

"The tenant, by executing such a lease, secures himself against having to pay more than the amount agreed upon in the lease no matter what the landlord's financial position may be in the operation of a property.

"As a condition for the increase in the maximum rent, the landlord must certify that he is maintaining and will continue to maintain all essential services together with any additional services which the tenant may secure in his bargaining for the lease.

"The maximum rent is automatically increased by the execution of such a voluntary lease. The tenant will continue to have substantially the same protection afforded by the present rent and eviction regulations so long as they continue in effect.

"The following questions and answers clarify these provisions:

"1. Q. A landlord requests a tenant to enter into a two year lease providing for an increase of not more than 15 per cent in the maximum rent. Must the tenant sign a lease?

"A. No. The tenant need not sign a lease unless he wishes to. The maximum rent cannot be increased merely because the tenant does not sign a lease.

"2. Q. May a tenant be evicted if he does not enter into a lease providing for some increase in the maximum rent?

"A. No. The tenant may not be evicted under the present law and regulations for refusing to enter into such a lease. The tenant has substantially the same protection under the regulations which became effective on March 15, 1951 as he had under the preceding regulations, and he will continue to have such protection while the regulations remain in force, whether he has a lease or not.

"3. Q. Is it possible for a landlord to obtain an increase in the maximum rent if the tenant does not have the protection of a lease?

"A. Yes. A landlord may be able to obtain an increase in the maximum rent if he can prove the necessary facts under certain sections of the regulations.

"4. Q. If a tenant declines to accept the landlord's terms for a lease, or does not enter into any lease, may the landlord decrease the essential services which he gave, or which he was required to give for the maximum rent?

"A. No. Should the landlord for any reason refuse to provide such services the tenant may file a complaint with the local rent administrator. If the landlord refuses to restore the services the maximum rent may be reduced.

"5. Q. What does the tenant gain by signing such a voluntary lease agreement?

"A. (1) The contractual right to remain in the leased premises, subject to the conditions in the lease and subject to the regulations, at the rent agreed upon in the lease for the duration of the lease; (2) If the landlord were eligible to obtain a greater increase in rent during the period of the proposed lease through some adjustment section of the regulations, he will not be able to do so, because he will be limited by the maximum rent established by the lease.

"6. Q. The tenant is agreeable to having a lease but he prefers a three year lease instead of a two year lease. Would this be proper under the regulations?

"A. Yes. The lease may be for as long a period as the tenant and the landlord may agree upon, provided it is for a minimum period of two years.

"7. Q. The tenant would like to have the right to cancel the lease upon thirty days notice to the landlord. Is this permissible?

"A. Yes. The lease may give the tenant the right to cancel or terminate sooner, but the landlord cannot have this right of cancellation.

"8. Q. The tenant wishes to pay only a 10 per cent increase and the landlord is willing to accept this. Is this permissible?

"A. Yes. The rent increase may be in any amount not exceeding 15 per cent.

"9. Q. The tenant is willing to sign a lease but he wishes a new stove, or a new refrigerator, or the right to put up a television antenna, or some other increase or improvement in the services. May this be part of the lease agreement?

"A. Yes. This is a matter of bargaining between land and tenant. It is important to remember that the lease should specifically include a statement of such additional services.

"10. Q. If a tenant signs a lease which provides for additional services or equipment, and the landlord fails to furnish such additional services or equipment, what may the tenant do?

"A. He may file a complaint with the local rent administrator and the new maximum rent may be reduced.

"11. Q. If a landlord enters into such a lease and his expenses afterwards are increased, may he obtain an additional increase in rent above that established in the voluntary lease agreement?

"A. No. The landlord and the tenant are both bound by the terms of the lease.

"12. Q. If a tenant signs such a lease may the landlord, or a purchaser of the property, have him evicted for personal occupancy or to subdivide the apartment during the term of the lease?

"A. No. The tenant is protected by his lease agreement.

"13. Q. Will the housing accommodations be decontrolled if the tenant signs such a lease?

"A. No. The tenant continues to receive the benefit of the regulations as well as the benefits of the lease.

"14. Q. A tenant is not agreeable to entering into a voluntary lease agreement but he does want a new refrigerator, or a new stove, or a new service. How may he obtain it?

"A. The tenant and the landlord must come to an agreement about the additional service. A form is provided on which the landlord can apply for an increase based upon this agreement. The amount of the increase of the maximum rent for the additional service will be determined by the local rent administrator.

"15. Q. If the landlord and the tenant sign such a voluntary lease agreement, what remains to be done for it to become effective?

"A. The new maximum rent takes effect automatically on its effective date. Within 15 days after the effective date of the lease the landlord must file a report of it upon prescribed forms with the local rent administrator. This must include a statement of any additional services or equipment furnished to the tenant as a consideration for the execution of the lease.

"16. Q. May those who signed voluntary lease agreements under the federal administration of rent control enter into new lease agreements under the state regulations?

"A. Yes. They may enter into voluntary lease agreements under the 1951 state regulations if they choose to do so.

"17. Q. Will the local rent administrator advise either a tenant or a landlord to execute such a lease?

"A. No. The local rent administrator has no authority to give such advice, nor would it be proper for him to do so. It is for each tenant and each landlord, respectively, to use his own judgment and come to his own conclusion.

"18. Q. When may the landlord and the tenant enter into a voluntary lease?

"A. The landlord and the tenant may enter into and execute a voluntary lease at any time provided the increase in the maximum rent did not take effect prior to March 15, 1951."

Collazo Case Might

enth day of the trial. Vigorous knocking on the jury room door at 5:22 signaled a verdict had been reached.

Collazo and his wife, Rosa, heard the verdict with no apparent emotion.

Soon Collazo, handcuffed to two marshals, was led away for the trip back to the municipal jail. He whispered to his wife and smiled as he passed her. She threw him a kiss. He couldn't respond because of heavy handcuffs.

Collazo will hear his death sentence after Judge T. Alan Goldsborough who presided at the trial, has disposed of the customery motion for a new trial. The Puerto Rican's court-appointed, non-paid lawyers have five days in which to file this motion.

After that, Chief Defense Counsel Leo A. Rover said, the case will be appealed to the U. S. Court of Appeals and perhaps eventually to the Supreme Court.

The prosecutors, headed by U. S. Attorney George Morris Fay, conceded Torresola, not Collazo, fired the bullets which killed Coffelt. And they conceded Torresola wounded Downs and Birdzell.

But the law makes no distinction among partners in a felony which results in murder.

Advice for Railroaders

A representative of the Railroad Retirement Board will be at the examiner's room, second floor, New York Central Railroad station here on Wednesday, March 14, between the hours of 1 p. m. and 4 p. m. for the purpose of rendering assistance and advice to railroad workers in connection with matters concerning applications for retirement, applications for death benefits, and answering any inquiries in regard to the Railroad Retirement and Railroad Unemployment Insurance Acts.

Killed in Crash

VIRGIL CHAPMAN

Washington, March 8 (AP)—Senator Virgil Chapman (D.-Ky.) died today a few hours after he was injured in a collision of his automobile and a big truck.

He was 55 years old.

Admiral M. D. Willcutts, commanding officer of the Bethesda Naval Medical Center, said Chapman had suffered serious lung and other internal injuries.

Chapman was serving his first term in the Senate, but previously had been a member of the House for many years.

His home is at Paris, Bourbon county, Kentucky.

He was a member of the Senate Armed Services and Public Works Committees.

Senate Margin Cut

His death cuts the Democratic majority in the Senate to one, leaving a 48-47 margin.

Gov. Lawrence W. Wetherby of Kentucky is a Democrat and thus, presumably will designate another Democrat to succeed Chapman until an election is held.

The Senate arranged to recess for the day shortly after Chapman's death was announced.

Chapman died at 10:25 a. m. in the operating room.

Chapman was married in 1920 to the former Mary Adams Talbott of Paris, Ky. They had one daughter, Mrs. Francis J. Danforth, Jr., of New Canaan, Conn.

Smartest Marine Was Area Resident

A former area resident has established a U. S. Marine Corps record—He answered all questions correctly on the tough general classification test all new enlistees must take.

The Marine Corps recruiting office said the perfect test was turned in by Emery J. Kelder, formerly of Hurley and Kingston. It is the first time, as far as is known, that this has been done since the test was originated 16 months ago.

Kelder is a graduate of Kingston High School and attended George Washington University for one semester.

He gave the correct answers to the 90 questions on the test in the 45 minutes alloted.

Bad News Given Users of Cortisone

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(A.P. Science Editor)

New York, March 8 (AP)—Bad news for the myriads of sick persons who need the new hormone medicine, cortisone, appears today in some full-page advertisements by the hormone manufacturers.

Merck & Company, the great pharmaceutical firm at Rahway, N. J., which first made cortisone, reports in this ad that hundreds of thousands want cortisone, but that only enough is made for tens of thousands.

Worse still, the prospects for making enough cortisone are not even in sight because the raw material, ox bile, is limited. The silver lining is a prospect of tripling present production by something over a year from now. And the fact that other pharmaceutical houses are licensed, if they wish, to make this same drug.

But no matter if a hundred other companies make cortisone by present methods, the supply will still be short because there isn't enough bile of oxen. The Merck ad says either another source of raw material must be found or that cortisone must be synthesized. Neither is now in sight.

The ad is in answer to recent news stories charging a black market in cortisone (which Merck markets under the trade name Cortone). Merck says the records show no black market. The Merck price of $200 a gram two years ago, has been reduced to $22.40 to wholesalers. And that is supposed to make the wholesaler's price to hospitals $28 and to doctors $35. No one else can buy it.

Final Vote Sought

Washington, March 8 (AP)—Senate leaders hope to get a final vote tomorrow on the broad Universal Military Training and Service (UMTS) bill calling for a draft of 18 year olds. They had aimed for action today but the death of Senator Chapman (D.-Ky.) from traffic accident injuries brought a decision to recess the Senate in respect to his memory. An agreement to hold down debate increased the prospects that tomorrow would wind up the Senate battle over the issue.

Chapman was married in 1920 to the former Mary Adams Talbott of Paris, Ky. They had one daughter, Mrs. Francis J. Danforth, Jr., of New Canaan, Conn.

Smartest Marine Was Area Resident

A former area resident has established a U. S. Marine Corps record—He answered all questions correctly on the tough general classification test all new enlistees must take.

The Marine Corps recruiting office said the perfect test was turned in by Emery J. Kelder, formerly of Hurley and Kingston. It is the first time, as far as is known, that this has been done since the test was originated 16 months ago.

Kelder is a graduate of Kingston High School and attended George Washington University for one semester.

He gave the correct answers to the 90 questions on the test in the 45 minutes alloted.

Bad News Given Users of Cortisone

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(A.P. Science Editor)

New York, March 8 (AP)—Bad news for the myriads of sick persons who need the new hormone medicine, cortisone, appears today in some full-page advertisements by the hormone manufacturers.

Merck & Company, the great pharmaceutical firm at Rahway, N. J., which first made cortisone, reports in this ad that hundreds of thousands want cortisone, but that only enough is made for tens of thousands.

Worse still, the prospects for making enough cortisone are not even in sight because the raw material, ox bile, is limited. The silver lining is a prospect of tripling present production by something over a year from now. And the fact that other pharmaceutical houses are licensed, if they wish, to make this same drug.

But no matter if a hundred other companies make cortisone by present methods, the supply will still be short because there isn't enough bile of oxen. The Merck ad says either another source of raw material must be found or that cortisone must be synthesized. Neither is now in sight.

The ad is in answer to recent news stories charging a black market in cortisone (which Merck markets under the trade name Cortone). Merck says the records show no black market. The Merck price of $200 a gram two years ago, has been reduced to $22.40 to wholesalers. And that is supposed to make the wholesaler's price to hospitals $28 and to doctors $35. No one else can buy it.

Final Vote Sought

Washington, March 8 (AP)—Senate leaders hope to get a final vote tomorrow on the broad Universal Military Training and Service (UMTS) bill calling for a draft of 18 year olds. They had aimed for action today but the death of Senator Chapman (D.-Ky.) from traffic accident injuries brought a decision to recess the Senate in respect to his memory. An agreement to hold down debate increased the prospects that tomorrow would wind up the Senate battle over the issue.

Lifeguard Cleared By Nassau Jury

Mineola, N. Y., March 8 (AP)—A Long Beach week-end lifeguard—aided by the testimony of his five-year-old daughter—was clear of a manslaughter charge today in the death of his wife.

"Im going back to my three kids," said 33-year-old John A. Daly as he was acquitted.

Courtroom spectators applauded when an all-male Nassau county jury reported its verdict yesterday. The handsome, six-foot defendant dropped into a chair and buried his face in his hands.

Then, with tears in his eyes, he left the court room with his mother, Mrs. Mary Daly, also of Long Beach.

Daly had been charged with beating to death his 30-year-old wife, Gertrude, last July 14.

His little daughter, Norine, told the jury how her mother had taken her to a Manhattan tavern where a man "knocked mama down on the floor" on the afternoon of her death.

The child also related that her father—who called for her and her mother at the tavern—slapped the mother in a taxi on the way home, and that "mama fell against the wall of our house" after getting out of the taxi.

A doctor testified it was not likely that the woman's head wound was caused by a fist blow.

After the acquittal, Daly said he intended to devote "every hour" to making a home for his children, John, Jr., 9, Thomas, 7, and Norine.

ALBERT MERGENDAHL

This is one of the latest photographs of Corporal Albert Mergendahl, husband of Mrs. Dorothy Kain Mergendahl, 29 Franklin street, whose death in action in Korea on February 20 was reported in The Freeman Monday night.

Cpl. Mergendahl, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Mergendahl of 54 Franklin street, was a member of the 87th Airborne Diyision. He went to Korea in September 1950.

A veteran of World War 2, Cpl. Mergendahl reenlisted for army service September 1949.

SHOKAN

Shokan, March 8 — The week-end skiing traffic on the Onteora Trail was something to talk about. Devotees of the sport began coming to the mountains early Saturday morning, and their homeward procession Sunday evening was perhaps the heaviest of the season.

John Cole, Sr., Kingston real estate operator, was a caller in the village center Monday.

A small boy can catch a big fish upon occasion: George Eggleston, 9, of Tannersville caught a northern pike recently which weighed in at 13 pounds 14 ounces and went one inch beyond the yardstick. Twenty years ago, in February, Stanley Smith, 10, fishing in the Ashokan, pulled out a pickerel 25 inches long which later tipped the scales at four and one-half pounds.

Thord Fredenholm, local writer, has torn down the large sheds and hen house on his village property. A lot of good, seasoned lumber was salvaged from the old building.

Little Diane DeLong is staying with her mother, Mrs. Maynard DeLong, who has winter employment in Greene county.

The Rev. Milton Ryan will hold services in all three churches of the Ashokan Methodist Charge on Palm Sunday, March 18. Baptisms and the receiving of new members also will take place.

Events this week include the Footlighters' 2-act comedy Saturday night at Odd Fellows Hall under the auspices of the fire department auxiliary.

George Kelder, who spent much of the winter with relatives at Halcott Center, is again at his village home.

The James Stoutenburgh well drilling outfit was moved Tuesday to the Bernard Casablanca summer bungalow on the reservoir road.

Harvey Marshall has been elected captain of the Grand Gorge Hose Company.

Martha Dohler, a new resident of Shokan, has employment at Boiceville.

Edward Finn was numbered among Kingstonians calling here recently.

Bertha Greene reportedly will vacate her residence property adjoining the Baptist Church grounds in May. Miss Greene, a lifelong resident of this section, contracted for the sale of her property last year.

Mrs. Chase Davis of the west side of the reservoir suffered a bad fall at her home in February. The former Matie Crispell is in her 82nd year.

Haulenbeek 30 Years With Central Hudson

John H. Haulenbeek of 276 Washington avenue, commercial engineer of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation in Kingston, was honored Tuesday for 30 years' service to the utility company.

At a ceremony at which he presented Haulenbeek with an emblem, President Ernest R. Acker of the Central Hudson System said:

"On this anniversary it is a privilege to testify to your fine record of loyal and dependable service and to express my personal appreciation for the contribution which you have made to the successful operation of the company's commercial department.

"This contribution has been amplified by the excellent leadership which you have provided during terms of office as President of the Central Hudson Employees' Association and the Quarter Century Club. You have, through your constructive attitude and unfailing cooperation, won the respect and affection of all your associates."

Refuses to Interfere

Albany, N. Y., March 8 (AP)—The Appellate Division has refused to interfere with a Public Service Commission order affecting operation of two New York Central Railroad trains. The court held yesterday that it had no power to act on a PSC order that the Central continue operation of trains 2 and 3 on its West Shore line between Albany and the New Jersey state line. The commission claimed the public needed the train service.

Shoes Sealed in Church

Hempstead, N. Y., March 8 (AP)—A pair of square-toed, bunion-patched shoes more than a century old have been found sealed between two beams of historic Christ's First Presbyterian Church here. Workmen repairing the foundation of the church, which was built in 1846, uncovered the wooden-pegged shoes yesterday. They were in good condition, although warped with age. Apparently they were left behind by a workman when the church was built. It was believed that they were left by accident, or purposely sealed in to comply with some long forgotten superstition, similar to the old practice of putting a bough on a rooftree of a building under construction. The Rev. Frank M. Kerr, pastor, said the shoes will be preserved as a church souvenir.

Injunction Signed

New York, March 8 (AP)—Federal Judge Samuel H. Kaufman signed a temporary injunction yesterday forbidding the Yonkers Cabinet Corporation, of Yonkers, N. Y., from using defective electronic equipment in its business which interferes with radio communications of the U. S. Coast Guard. The Federal Communications Commission filed a complaint last week charging the cabinet manufacturer was using electronic equipment to glue wood together and that the radio energy emitted from the machines interferred with radio communications of the coast guard in Washington, D. C., and elsewhere.

Canadian Calls For Youth Training

Ottawa, March 8 (AP)—Gen. H. D. G. Crerar called today for immediate compulsory military training to put 60,000 to 70,000 young Canadians in uniform annually.

The World War 2 commander of the First Canadian Army, in a speech prepared for delivery to Ottawa's Canadian Club, said World War 3 already is "a tragic fact" that puts Canada in a "desperate situation" because she lacks trained military manpower.

He recommended that each conscript get six months full-time training, followed by two years of part-time reserve training.

Canada's government already has said it plans to carry out its three-year $5,000,000,000 defense program through voluntary recruitment only. The program calls for 115,000 in the army, navy and air force by 1954.

The program, said Crerar, is impressive, but Canada has no justification for believing she will have three months, let alone three years, to prepare.

Lincoln Letters Found

New York, March 8 (AP)—Six letters written by Mary Todd Lincoln to a New York friend have turned up at the National Antique Show here. About all they prove is that Mrs. Abraham Lincoln, like most people, enjoyed discussing a bit of gossip. The letters are owned by Mrs. Verner Alexanderson of Englewood, N. J., and were written to her great-grandfather, Abram Wakeman, Sr. Wakeman was a New York lawyer and the city's postmaster in 1860. He supported Lincoln's campaign for the presidency. In one letter, Mrs. Lincoln refers to a "W," later designated as "so very far beneath our thoughts," but adds: "Yet when you chance to visit 'W' it will be quite amusing to hear you account some of the ludicrous scenes you may have passed through."

Three Attend Meeting

Alexander S. Fuhrman, executive director of the Kingston Boys Club; Frederick C. Verry, Boys Clubs of America field worker, and John Warren of this city attended a luncheon meeting of the Metropolitan Boys Club Workers Association at Hotel Gramercy Park in New York on Wednesday. The speaker was Ben Solomon, editor of "Youth Leader's Digest."

Sketches of Kingston in 1875

In the year 1875 a "County Atlas of Ulster" was published by Walker & Jewett of Vesey street, New York city. In the atlas are a number of lithographic sketches of industries and residences in Kingston and other sections of Ulster county. The Freeman has in its possession some of these sketches taken from the atlas, which it will reproduce with brief descriptive cutlines.

To those readers who will recall many of the changes made down through the years, it is our hope that depicting these scenes of 76 years ago will be of interest to them. And undoubtedly the youngsters will hear again the tales of this exciting period.

Bluestone Dock in Wilbur

Vestiges of the early days of the bluestone industry in Ulster county are passing slowly into oblivion, but the stone company office on the Wilbur road still stands today. The bluestone and the schooners are no longer at this site as pictured above in 1875, but the office building attests to the ageless bluestone. When the lithograph was made it was the office and depot of S. and W. B. Fitch, wholesale dealers in North River bluestone.

The sloops and schooners of the S. and W. B. Fitch Line, some of which are shown in the above sketch, included the following:

Sloop Addison, Captains Louis Shultis, Peter Ball, Edwin Young and James Smith.
Schooner Green County Tanner, Captain Alfred Hyde.
Schooner Bride, Captain William Hyde.
Sloop William H. Bridger, Captain Robert Henry.
Sloop Thomas Coyler, Captain Philip Shultus.
Big Sloop Canal, Captains Mauric Lahey and Peter Ball.
Sloop Iowa, Captain William Hyde.
Sloop Asa Biglow, Captain Peter Bell.
Sloop Missouri, Captain Alfred Hyde.
Sloop Thomas Adams, Captain Lou Van Aken.
Sloop Othelo, Captain Aeris Johnson.

The bluestone industry in this city has been supplanted by the boat building industry. Feeney's boat yard is nearby, where steel hulls in recent years have replaced wooden construction.

From the quarries of the county, the bluestone was hauled to the water front in stone wagons drawn by horses. From here and other points it was shipped down the river by barge to New York. Once the basis of a major industry, communities grew up and thrived in the vicinity of the quarries and of the depots.

Some of this bluestone and especially the curbing is still in evidence in New York today.

There is some bluestone quarried today, being taken by truck direct from the quarry to the buyer.

Other sketches of this period will appear in subsequent issues.

Marines Meet Tonight

A meeting of Ulster Detachment, Marine Corps League, is scheduled for tonight at 7:30 in the home of Joyce-Schirick Post, 1386, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Delaware avenue. Commandant Albert J. Melville requests a full attendance of members and invites all former marines to visit the meeting. Refreshments will be served.

Truman Doesn't Intend To Become Involved

Key West, Fla., March 8 (AP)—President Truman gave every indication today that he doesn't intend to get involved in a controversial discussion of problems besetting his administration.

He cancelled his usual Thursday news conference to let events take their course in Washington.

John R. Steelman, assistant to the President, joined the presidential party at this naval submarine base, to bring the President up to date on domestic matters, including efforts to reach an agreement with organized labor on the overall mobilization program. Steelman flew in yesterday.

Harriman Is Due

W. Averell Harriman, former secretary of commerce and one-time ambassador to Moscow, is due in today for a report on international developments. Harriman is special assistant for foreign affairs.

Harriman is to be accompanied by Brig. General Wallace H. Graham, physician to the President, who recommended this Florida vacation for the President in view of the pressure under which Mr. Truman has worked since the North Korean Communists invaded South Korea last June.

Another visitor soon to join the White House party is Donald S. Dawson, Mr. Truman's administrative assistant on appointments. Dawson, under fire by a Senate subcommittee investigating alleged influence on the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in the making of loans, has already drawn expressions of support from the President at a news conference in Washington.

Steel Men Talk Over Firm Report

Boston, March 8 (AP)—Directors of the New England Council's Steel Development Corp meet today to discuss the findings of a New York engineering firm on the $250,000,000 steel mill proposed for the New London-Waterford, Conn., area.

The firm of Coverdale and Colpitts made two market reports, one last Jan. 15, and one recently.

A source close to the New England steel mill project said the second report "showed a material reduction in the market potential"—in other words, a lower estimate of the size of the market available to the New England mill.

The source, who declined to be identified by name, said he could not estimate the decline in dollars and cents or in tonnage but added "it's so great as to make the difference between a favorable and unfavorable report."

He said also "until those discrepancies are cleared up to everybody's satisfaction there is danger that New England may be sold down the river on this steel mill."

The directors' meeting will be private. The exact contents of the survey report by the New York engineering firm have been kept secret pending today's meeting.

Canadian Calls For Youth Training

Ottawa, March 8 (AP)—Gen. H. D. G. Crerar called today for immediate compulsory military training to put 60,000 to 70,000 young Canadians in uniform annually.

The World War 2 commander of the First Canadian Army, in a speech prepared for delivery to Ottawa's Canadian Club, said World War 3 already is "a tragic fact" that puts Canada in a "desperate situation" because she lacks trained military manpower.

He recommended that each conscript get six months full-time training, followed by two years of part-time reserve training.

Canada's government already has said it plans to carry out its three-year $5,000,000,000 defense program through voluntary recruitment only. The program calls for 115,000 in the army, navy and air force by 1954.

The program, said Crerar, is impressive, but Canada has no justification for believing she will have three months, let alone three years, to prepare.

Lincoln Letters Found

New York, March 8 (AP)—Six letters written by Mary Todd Lincoln to a New York friend have turned up at the National Antique Show here. About all they prove is that Mrs. Abraham Lincoln, like most people, enjoyed discussing a bit of gossip. The letters are owned by Mrs. Verner Alexanderson of Englewood, N. J., and were written to her great-grandfather, Abram Wakeman, Sr. Wakeman was a New York lawyer and the city's postmaster in 1860. He supported Lincoln's campaign for the presidency. In one letter, Mrs. Lincoln refers to a "W," later designated as "so very far beneath our thoughts," but adds: "Yet when you chance to visit 'W' it will be quite amusing to hear you account some of the ludicrous scenes you may have passed through."

Three Attend Meeting

Alexander S. Fuhrman, executive director of the Kingston Boys Club; Frederick C. Verry, Boys Clubs of America field worker, and John Warren of this city attended a luncheon meeting of the Metropolitan Boys Club Workers Association at Hotel Gramercy Park in New York on Wednesday. The speaker was Ben Solomon, editor of "Youth Leader's Digest."

Sketches of Kingston in 1875

In the year 1875 a "County Atlas of Ulster" was published by Walker & Jewett of Vesey street, New York city. In the atlas are a number of lithographic sketches of industries and residences in Kingston and other sections of Ulster county. The Freeman has in its possession some of these sketches taken from the atlas, which it will reproduce with brief descriptive cutlines.

To those readers who will recall many of the changes made down through the years, it is our hope that depicting these scenes of 76 years ago will be of interest to them. And undoubtedly the youngsters will hear again the tales of this exciting period.

Bluestone Dock in Wilbur

Vestiges of the early days of the bluestone industry in Ulster county are passing slowly into oblivion, but the stone company office on the Wilbur road still stands today. The bluestone and the schooners are no longer at this site as pictured above in 1875, but the office building attests to the ageless bluestone. When the lithograph was made it was the office and depot of S. and W. B. Fitch, wholesale dealers in North River bluestone.

The sloops and schooners of the S. and W. B. Fitch Line, some of which are shown in the above sketch, included the following:

Sloop Addison, Captains Louis Shultis, Peter Ball, Edwin Young and James Smith.
Schooner Green County Tanner, Captain Alfred Hyde.
Schooner Bride, Captain William Hyde.
Sloop William H. Bridger, Captain Robert Henry.
Sloop Thomas Coyler, Captain Philip Shultus.
Big Sloop Canal, Captains Mauric Lahey and Peter Ball.
Sloop Iowa, Captain William Hyde.
Sloop Asa Biglow, Captain Peter Bell.
Sloop Missouri, Captain Alfred Hyde.
Sloop Thomas Adams, Captain Lou Van Aken.

Cotton Futures Jump

New York, March 8 (AP)—Cotton futures jumped $5.75 to as much as $10 a bale—the daily limit—as the New York cotton exchange resumed trading today for the first time in nearly six weeks. Confusion over the government's price stabilization order had kept the exchange closed since Jan. 26. Buying orders flooded into the ring from all directions this morning well before the 10 a. m. opening.

Defense Speakers, Films on Program At New Paltz

In conjunction with the Office of Civil Defense, the New Paltz High School Adult Education Program will offer an evening devoted to explaining the operation of the Civil Defense program in this area.

Louis Rolling, director of Civil Defense for the town of New Paltz, announced that the Board of Education of New Paltz was sponsoring a meeting at 8 p. m. on March 13, Tuesday, for the purpose of answering questions and explaining the operation of the Civil Defense program.

Since New Paltz has been named a reception center for evacuees, and New Paltz High School has recently been designated as an assembly point for medical personnel in the event of an atom bomb attack, it was considered to be the logical place to hold such a meeting.

Howard C. Shurter, director of Civil Defense for Ulster county, and Colonel Allan L. Hanstein, deputy director in charge of reception centers in Ulster county, will be present to speak on the organization and operation of the Office of Civil Defense and to answer questions that may arise.

Dr. Donald Allen of the faculty of New Paltz State Teachers College will speak on the effects of radioactivity, and the precautions which should be taken in the event of an atomic attack.

Films will be shown explaining the proper procedures to follow in the event of attack by atomic bomb, and what happened in Japan when the first atomic bombs were dropped. "Tale of Two Cities" is the official army film of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, and "You Can Beat the A-Bomb" is a film on proper procedure. Both films will be shown at this meeting.

It is hoped that all those who are registered for voluntary Civil Defense work in this area will be present at this meeting, for many questions which undoubtedly have as yet been unanswered concerning their duties and responsibilities will be cleared up on Tuesday night. There will be opportunity at this meeting for those who have failed to register for this work to do so.

On Silver Standard

Mobile, Ala., March 8 (AP)—Mobile's 7 o'clock bandit—a guy who puts a ceiling on his take—went on the silver standard last night. Tuesday night he robbed Mrs. Harold Matthews of all the one dollar bills in her grocery store, but passed up the fives, tens and twenties. Police said the same man last night held up Mrs. Mary Zeloy, cashier in another grocery store, and made off with all the silver after passing up the folding money. Each holdup took place at exactly 7 o'clock.

Williams Named County Chairman Of Cancer Drive

General chairman of the 1951 cancer drive in Ulster county is Walter Williams of Rosendale, according to an announcement today by Captain Andrew S. Hickey, president of the Ulster County Branch, American Cancer Society. Chairman Williams will be assisted by more than 50 volunteer workers, who are being organized under the direction of town, city and village chairmen.

The campaign will open early in April and it is anticipated that through the generous donations in Ulster county an amount as great or even greater than last year's $20,000 will be realized.

Although cancer is the second largest killer of mankind, many people are still unaware that approximately 85 per cent of those afflicted with cancer may be completely cured provided that the patient seeks help as soon as any of the seven symptoms of cancer appear.

A list of the warning signals may be obtained by dropping a card, sending a letter or calling at the Ulster County Branch Office, 400 Broadway, where all inquiries are confidential. The telephone number is 6400. The office is an information center for the use of the public.

Chairman Williams, the first cancer drive leader from outside Kingston, will have the advantage of assistance from Mrs. Harry Van Wagenen, former state commander of the New York State Division, American Cancer Society, now executive director of the Ulster County Branch.

Libel Measure Passes in . . nate

Albany, N. Y., March 8 (AP)—Legislation to make it impossible to maintain a libel suit if the published report were "substantially fair and true" was passed by the Senate today, 41 to 11.

All negative votes were cast by Democrats.

Present law does not include the word "substantially."

A memorandum filed with the bill pointed out that the Court of Appeals had ruled that only the exact, literal truth in every detail would protect newspapers from libel actions.

The bill would make it possible for newspapers to defend themselves in libel suits so long as their report was correct in substance.

The bill also would extend such protection to cover all governmental, judicial, legislative and official proceedings, instead of just those of a "public" nature.

Senator Walter J. Mahoney and Assemblyman Justin C. Morgan, Erie county Republicans, introduced the bill.

Soap Order Prepared

Defense Speakers, Films on Program At New Paltz

In conjunction with the Office of Civil Defense, the New Paltz High School Adult Education Program will offer an evening devoted to explaining the operation of the Civil Defense program in this area.

Louis Rolling, director of Civil Defense for the town of New Paltz, announced that the Board of Education of New Paltz was sponsoring a meeting at 8 p. m. on March 13, Tuesday, for the purpose of answering questions and explaining the operation of the Civil Defense program.

Since New Paltz has been named a reception center for evacuees, and New Paltz High School has recently been designated as an assembly point for medical personnel in the event of an atom bomb attack, it was considered to be the logical place to hold such a meeting.

Howard C. Shurter, director of Civil Defense for Ulster county, and Colonel Allan L. Hanstein, deputy director in charge of reception centers in Ulster county, will be present to speak on the organization and operation of the Office of Civil Defense and to answer questions that may arise.

Dr. Donald Allen of the faculty of New Paltz State Teachers College will speak on the effects of radioactivity, and the precautions which should be taken in the event of an atomic attack.

Films will be shown explaining the proper procedures to follow in the event of attack by atomic bomb, and what happened in Japan when the first atomic bombs were dropped. "Tale of Two Cities" is the official army film of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, and "You Can Beat the A-Bomb" is a film on proper procedure. Both films will be shown at this meeting.

Search Is Resumed

Rome, March 8 (AP)—Italian ships and planes resumed their search in stormy weather today for a U. S. Navy Privateer (PB-4Y2) plane missing since yesterday with 14 persons aboard. Three U. S. Air Force rescue planes from Wiesbaden, Germany, and three from Tripoli were en route to join in the search. In addition to the navy crew, the four-engine transport carried military personnel on leave from Trieste to Rome. Coming from Athens, it had stopped at Udine, Italy, about 30 miles northwest of Trieste.

One of television's pioneers, the late C. Francis Jenkins, began his experiments as far back as 1890.

March Cold Wave Hangs On in West

(By The Associated Press)

No relief from an early March cold wave appeared in sight today for the blizzard-buffeted midwest.

The cold air extended from Montana and the northern plains eastward into the upper Mississippi valley and southward into the central plains.

Temperatures again were far below zero in Montana and the Dakotas early today—after failing to climb above zero all day yesterday.

Readings of 25 below were forecast by tonight for northwestern Minnesota, 10 to 15 below for northwestern Wisconsin and 5 to 10 below for northwest Iowa. Cold was in prospect for Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma.

The eastern and southern states were enjoying mild weather. It was 71 in Washington yesterday and in the 80's over much of Texas. The top mark at Havr, Mont., was 13 below zero.

Collection Is $2,050

The total of February collections from the city's parking meters was $2,050, the city treasurers' office announced today. This was $700 less than the January total and $384 under the 1950 February total.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, JR.

Local Artists Are Subject of Story

Woodstock, March 8—The work of three prominent Woodstock artists, Edward Millman, Edward Chavez and Fletcher Martin, was the subject of a feature story in the New York Herald Tribune Wednesday entitled "Paintings Chide 'Stinginess' in Care of Indians," following the opening of an exhibition of 30 paintings depicting the physical results of what was called the government's "penny-pinching" in Indian care. The exhibition opened Wednesday by the American Indian Affairs, Inc., at the Sherry Netherland Hotel, Fifth avenue and 58th street.

According to the paper at a preview of the exhibition Tuesday, Dr. Haven Emerson, honorary president of the association, announced formation of a national medical committee to work for improvement of Indian health conditions.

"Dr. Emerson said the death rate among Navajo Indians from tuberculosis was 10 times as great as among the general American population, and nine times as great among Indians in Montana. Infant mortality, he said, is four times as great among Indians, and the death rate from diarrhea and enteritis eight times that among the rest of the population.

"Miss Maria Tallchief, ballet dancer and member of the invitations committee of the association, presented the association's citation for distinguished public service to Dr. Ernest H. Volwiler, president of the Abbott Laboratories, North Chicago. Dr. Volwiler commissioned for four artists to make the survey in paintings of the Indians' plight.

"The artists, Edward Millman, Frede Vidar, Edward Chavez and Fletcher Martin, traveled 20,000 miles during the summer of 1949 from the Mexican border to 200 miles below the Arctic Circle in search of their material. They made more than 100 finished drawings and paintings, 70 of which were reproduced in color in the Abbott Laboratories' magazine, 'What's New,' which is circulated among 170,000 physicians and hospital staffs in the United States and Alaska.

"Thirty of the paintings are included in the exhibition which will continue at the Sherry Netherland through Thursday and will then be shown 14 days, beginning Saturday, at the American Museum of Natural History.

"The paintings shown include those made of Navajo, Hopi, Zuni, Apache, Papago, Chippewa, Sioux, Shoshone-Arapaho, Blackfeet, Makah, and Alaska Indians. They illustrate traditional Indian medical ritual, the squalor and poor health conditions on some of the reservations and the efforts of public health officials to deal with medical problems among the Indians.

"Dr. Emerson reported that 40 per cent of Indian hospital cases involved preventable or controllable diseases. He said it was a 'betrayal of our treaty obligations to the Indians that we are so stingy in the use of modern medical science to help Indian sufferers.'"

Accompanying the story was a picture of ballerina, Maria Tallchief, a descendant of the Osage tribe, presenting the scroll to Dr. Volwiler.

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, JR.

Local Artists Are Subject of Story

Woodstock, March 8—The work of three prominent Woodstock artists, Edward Millman, Edward Chavez and Fletcher Martin, was the subject of a feature story in the New York Herald Tribune Wednesday entitled "Paintings Chide 'Stinginess' in Care of Indians," following the opening of an exhibition of 30 paintings depicting the physical results of what was called the government's "penny-pinching" in Indian care. The exhibition opened Wednesday by the American Indian Affairs, Inc., at the Sherry Netherland Hotel, Fifth avenue and 58th street.

According to the paper at a preview of the exhibition Tuesday, Dr. Haven Emerson, honorary president of the association, announced formation of a national medical committee to work for improvement of Indian health conditions.

"Dr. Emerson said the death rate among Navajo Indians from tuberculosis was 10 times as great as among the general American population, and nine times as great among Indians in Montana. Infant mortality, he said, is four times as great among Indians, and the death rate from diarrhea and enteritis eight times that among the rest of the population.

"Miss Maria Tallchief, ballet dancer and member of the invitations committee of the association, presented the association's citation for distinguished public service to Dr. Ernest H. Volwiler, president of the Abbott Laboratories, North Chicago. Dr. Volwiler commissioned for four artists to make the survey in paintings of the Indians' plight.

"The artists, Edward Millman, Frede Vidar, Edward Chavez and Fletcher Martin, traveled 20,000 miles during the summer of 1949 from the Mexican border to 200 miles below the Arctic Circle in search of their material. They made more than 100 finished drawings and paintings, 70 of which were reproduced in color in the Abbott Laboratories' magazine, 'What's New,' which is circulated among 170,000 physicians and hospital staffs in the United States and Alaska.

"Thirty of the paintings are included in the exhibition which will continue at the Sherry Netherland through Thursday and will then be shown 14 days, beginning Saturday, at the American Museum of Natural History.

"The paintings shown include those made of Navajo, Hopi, Zuni, Apache, Papago, Chippewa, Sioux, Shoshone-Arapaho, Blackfeet, Makah, and Alaska Indians. They illustrate traditional Indian medical ritual, the squalor and poor health conditions on some of the reservations and the efforts of public health officials to deal with medical problems among the Indians.

"Dr. Emerson reported that 40 per cent of Indian hospital cases involved preventable or controllable diseases. He said it was a 'betrayal of our treaty obligations to the Indians that we are so stingy in the use of modern medical science to help Indian sufferers.'" the death sentence has been denied by that court.

Accompanying the story was a picture of ballerina, Maria Tallchief, a descendant of the Osage tribe, presenting the scroll to Dr. Volwiler.

Carried to Court

The case was carried to the Court of Appeals at Albany after State Supreme Court Justice J. Gordon Flannery rejected the plea yesterday at White Plains.

Previously, various appeals had been carried up through state courts, and up to the U. S. Supreme Court twice, without success.

Fernandez and Mrs. Beck were arrested in Michigan for two lonely hearts murders in that state. They were extradited to New York for trial in the Fay murder because Michigan has no capital punishment.

EVERYBODY CHARGES FOR ALTERATIONS
Methods differ - - - that's all
Obviously, when there is no charge for alterations, the cost of such service must be added to the price of the garment, or saved on the quality of the labor.
Under that kind of system, everybody pays the same alteration charge, even though everybody's alteration needs are different and even though some require no alterations at all.
If, for example, a woman has a perfect figure and can step into her regular size without one iota of adjustment, she is still paying for such service even though she does not need it.
So, too, the woman whose clothes involve only a minimum of adjustment must still pay the maximum charge.
And we are not criticizing the above practice.
We simply want to emphasize our own method of coping with this particular problem.
We believe in making alteration charges strictly on the basis of individual alteration needs.
Mrs. A. is never penalized one penny for the extra service required by Mrs. B.
And Mrs. B. is never charged one penny more than the actual cost of her personal needs.
We make no profit on garment adjustments.

BOWLING ALONG—Norma Clark, customer of a Salt Lake City, Utah, savings and loan association, uses the unique "change bowl" set up in the institution's lobby. Sign at the bowl, which contains $25 in small change, says: "Need change? For bus fare, gum, parking meter? Fish for your own change here." Bowl has done a flourishing business. A recent check on the money in it proved a tribute to Salt Lakers' honesty. The bowl contained 19 cents more than the original $25.

Good Taste Today

WIPING RESTAURANT TABLE SILVER.

A restaurant owner says: "I have a complaint: It's all I can do to keep control of myself when I see a patron of my place wipe the silverware before using it. There is absolutely no excuse for this in our class of restaurant, and I think it gives strangers the impression that it is very second class. But I suppose there's nothing I can do?"

The only suggestion I can think of is to make is that you ask with evident concern, "Is there anything wrong with the silver?' It is obvious, of course, that this habit is acquired as the result of eating in restaurants that are not first class.

Eating Appetizers

Dear Mrs. Post: Your book says that when seated at the table and served hors d'oeuvres, they are eaten with a fork. We go to a restaurant that puts a plate of canapes on the individual table set for dinner, if people order cocktails before their dinner. Should they be eaten with fork or fingers?

Answer: Canapes are eaten in the fingers. Hors d'oeuvres are served on a plate in front of you as a first course and requires a fork and, on occasion, a knife.

Exception to Conventional Rule

Dear Mrs. Post: When the two sets of parents have been friends for years and see each other constantly, then is it necessary for the man's parents to pay a special call on the girl's parents after the engagement notice appears in the newspaper?

Answer: Hardly.

Ending An Engagement

Dear Mrs. Post: After an engagement of six months we terminated it by mutual agreement. At the party given to announce the engagement our friends gave us many beautiful gifts. Should these be returned to them?

Answer: Yes, unless you are especially asked to keep them.

Committee Cuts Driscoll Budget

Trenton, N. J., March 8 (AP)—The Joint Legislative Appropriations Committee announced today it had reduced Governor Driscoll's $180,625,055 budget by almost a half-million dollars.

State Senator David Young (R.-Morris), committee chairman, said money bills to meet budget appropriations would be introduced in the Legislature next Monday.

The committee took $2,498,736 out of the budget and used all of the savings except $452,441 to meet unforeseen demands on state funds.

Arcel's Daughter Is Found Unconscious

New York, March 8 (AP)—Adele Arcel, 22, identified by police as the daughter of Ray Arcel, fight manager and trainer, was found unconscious today in her room at the Great Northern Hotel.

Police said she was suffering from an overdose of sleeping tablets. She was taken to Roosevelt Hospital, where her condition was reported as good.

A friend of Miss Arcel telephoned her and, receiving no answer, notified the hotel management. A bellboy sent to the room reported he was unable to awaken the young woman. An ambulance was called. Police said no notes were found.

No Dark Life for Kids

Washington, March 8 (AP)—Television manufacturers have assured the government their future advertising won't picture a dark life for kids who don't have television sets. The Federal Trade Commission announced yesterday it had accepted the assurances and planned no further action on widely criticized "child appeal" advertisements. The FTC said the ads, first appearing in newspapers Nov. 13, implied that a child would be humiliated and his morale and education would suffer unless he had a TV set in his home. Parents and educational groups poured in complaints against the ads to the FTC.

Demands Are Increased

Tehran, Iran, March 8 (AP)—The assassination of Premier Gen. Ali Razmara spurred new Nationalist demands today that Iran drive the giant British-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company out of the country. Moderate deputies in the Majlis (parliament) predicted that oil nationalization proposals had a much greater chance for parliamentary approval under the threat of further terrorist acts. Meanwhile, the body of Razmara, who was slain yesterday by a member of a fanatic Moslem sect, lay in state in Sepah Salar Mosque. Funeral services were to be held later today.

Book Club Ends Sachar Review

Mrs. Harry Streifer completed the review of Dr. Abram L. Sachar's "History of the Jews" when the Kingston Book Club met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Leon Greenberg, 387 Albany avenue. The first portion of Dr. Sachar's comprehensive study was reviewed at the group's previous meeting by Mrs. Alex Parnett.

The Kingston Book Club will meet again March 27 at the home of Mrs. Gerald Sumber, 2 John street, when Mrs. Leon Greenberg will review "The Disenchanted" by Budd Schulberg. "The Disenchanted" is based on the life of America's talented and tragic jazz age author, F. Scott Fitzgerald.

New York Phone Installations

Telephone installations in New York city range from 860 feet above ground on the 86th floor of the Empire State Building to 177 feet below ground in the 191st street subway station.

BOWLING ALONG—Norma Clark, customer of a Salt Lake City, Utah, savings and loan association, uses the unique "change bowl" set up in the institution's lobby. Sign at the bowl, which contains $25 in small change, says: "Need change? For bus fare, gum, parking meter? Fish for your own change here." Bowl has done a flourishing business. A recent check on the money in it proved a tribute to Salt Lakers' honesty. The bowl contained 19 cents more than the original $25.

Arcel's Daughter Is Found Unconscious

New York, March 8 (AP)—Adele Arcel, 22, identified by police as the daughter of Ray Arcel, fight manager and trainer, was found unconscious today in her room at the Great Northern Hotel.

Police said she was suffering from an overdose of sleeping tablets. She was taken to Roosevelt Hospital, where her condition was reported as good.

A friend of Miss Arcel telephoned her and, receiving no answer, notified the hotel management. A bellboy sent to the room reported he was unable to awaken the young woman. An ambulance was called. Police said no notes were found.

No Dark Life for Kids

Washington, March 8 (AP)—Television manufacturers have assured the government their future advertising won't picture a dark life for kids who don't have television sets. The Federal Trade Commission announced yesterday it had accepted the assurances and planned no further action on widely criticized "child appeal" advertisements. The FTC said the ads, first appearing in newspapers Nov. 13, implied that a child would be humiliated and his morale and education would suffer unless he had a TV set in his home. Parents and educational groups poured in complaints against the ads to the FTC.

Demands Are Increased

Tehran, Iran, March 8 (AP)—The assassination of Premier Gen. Ali Razmara spurred new Nationalist demands today that Iran drive the giant British-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company out of the country. Moderate deputies in the Majlis (parliament) predicted that oil nationalization proposals had a much greater chance for parliamentary approval under the threat of further terrorist acts. Meanwhile, the body of Razmara, who was slain yesterday by a member of a fanatic Moslem sect, lay in state in Sepah Salar Mosque. Funeral services were to be held later today.

WIPING RESTAURANT TABLE SILVER.

A restaurant owner says: "I have a complaint: It's all I can do to keep control of myself when I see a patron of my place wipe the silverware before using it. There is absolutely no excuse for this in our class of restaurant, and I think it gives strangers the impression that it is very second class. But I suppose there's nothing I can do?"

The only suggestion I can think of is to make is that you ask with evident concern, "Is there anything wrong with the silver?' It is obvious, of course, that this habit is acquired as the result of eating in restaurants that are not first class.

Eating Appetizers

Dear Mrs. Post: Your book says that when seated at the table and served hors d'oeuvres, they are eaten with a fork. We go to a restaurant that puts a plate of canapes on the individual table set for dinner, if people order cocktails before their dinner. Should they be eaten with fork or fingers?

Answer: Canapes are eaten in the fingers. Hors d'oeuvres are served on a plate in front of you as a first course and requires a fork and, on occasion, a knife.

Exception to Conventional Rule

Dear Mrs. Post: When the two sets of parents have been friends for years and see each other constantly, then is it necessary for the man's parents to pay a special call on the girl's parents after the engagement notice appears in the newspaper?

Answer: Hardly.

Ending An Engagement

Dear Mrs. Post: After an engagement of six months we terminated it by mutual agreement. At the party given to announce the engagement our friends gave us many beautiful gifts. Should these be returned to them?

Answer: Yes, unless you are especially asked to keep them.

Is it good taste to use a printed card for acknowedging a personal kindness? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her leaflet E-21, "Model Notes," will help you. GIRLS FLUNK BREAKFAST TEST

TEEN-AGE GIRLS eat a much better breakfast when someone prepares it for them.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Teen-age girls definitely flunk the breakfast test.

A survey of breakfast habits made in the Phoenix, Ariz., elementary and high schools, shows that only 17 per cent had a good breakfast.

A Minneapolis-St. Paul survey among elementary and junior and senior high school pupils showed that the poorest breakfast habits were found among junior and senior high school girls.

A West Virginia diet survey made among fifth to tenth grades showed that the breakfasts of nine out of every ten children were lacking in fruit, cereal, or milk and often all three.

A nation-wide study of teen-agers' breakfast habits made by Elmo Roper showed that 48 per cent of the older girls as compared with 24 per cent of the younger ones, either had no breakfast at all or one without such foods as breakfast cereal, eggs, meat or pancakes.

A good deal of concern about weight exists among girls. Forty-seven per cent of one group interviewed said they are now overweight. Scientific studies proved that skipping breakfast, in itself, will not lead to a loss of weight.

It's smarter to get the nutrients you need for keeping good health during this important period of growing and development. A fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter breakfast gives most people the food they need at breakfast. Teen-age boys and active men need to increase the portions of these foods, or add other foods to the basic pattern.

The following breakfast menus were planned for teen-agers in a breakfast study at Purdue University:

1. Orange slices, farina, milk, crisp bacon, raisin bread toast, butter, cocoa.
2. Fresh sugared pineapple, wheat flakes, milk, fried eggs, baking powder biscuits, marmalade, butter.
3. Sugar-broiled grapefruit, wheat and barley kernels, milk, whole wheat toast, butter, milk, with nutmeg garnish.
4. Chilled half orange, baked apple in corn flake nest, milk, soft-cooked egg, whole wheat toast, butter, jam, cocoa.
5. Pears in syrup, oatmeal, spaced sugar, milk, grilled liver with sausage links, toast, butter.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Sliced oranges, ready-to-eat cereal, upside down oat muffins, butter or fortified margarine, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Canned baked beans, brown bread, butter or fortified margarine, apple and cabbage salad, boiled dressing, chocolate brownies, tea, milk.

DINNER: Salmon loaf, savory tomato sauce, steamed rice, canned peas with white onions, whole wheat bread, butter or fortified margarine, iceberg lettuce wedges, dressing, steamed ginger pudding, foamy sauce, coffee, milk.

GIRLS FLUNK BREAKFAST TEST

TEEN-AGE GIRLS eat a much better breakfast when someone prepares it for them.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Teen-age girls definitely flunk the breakfast test.

A survey of breakfast habits made in the Phoenix, Ariz., elementary and high schools, shows that only 17 per cent had a good breakfast.

A Minneapolis-St. Paul survey among elementary and junior and senior high school pupils showed that the poorest breakfast habits were found among junior and senior high school girls.

A West Virginia diet survey made among fifth to tenth grades showed that the breakfasts of nine out of every ten children were lacking in fruit, cereal, or milk and often all three.

A nation-wide study of teen-agers' breakfast habits made by Elmo Roper showed that 48 per cent of the older girls as compared with 24 per cent of the younger ones, either had no breakfast at all or one without such foods as breakfast cereal, eggs, meat or pancakes.

A good deal of concern about weight exists among girls. Forty-seven per cent of one group interviewed said they are now overweight. Scientific studies proved that skipping breakfast, in itself, will not lead to a loss of weight.

It's smarter to get the nutrients you need for keeping good health during this important period of growing and development. A fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter breakfast gives most people the food they need at breakfast. Teen-age boys and active men need to increase the portions of these foods, or add other foods to the basic pattern.

The following breakfast menus were planned for teen-agers in a breakfast study at Purdue University:

1. Orange slices, farina, milk, crisp bacon, raisin bread toast, butter, cocoa.
2. Fresh sugared pineapple, wheat flakes, milk, fried eggs, baking powder biscuits, marmalade, butter.
3. Sugar-broiled grapefruit, wheat and barley kernels, milk, whole wheat toast, butter, milk, with nutmeg garnish.
4. Chilled half orange, baked apple in corn flake nest, milk, soft-cooked egg, whole wheat toast, butter, jam, cocoa.
5. Pears in syrup, oatmeal, spaced sugar, milk, grilled liver with sausage links, toast, butter.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Sliced oranges, ready-to-eat cereal, upside down oat muffins, butter or fortified margarine, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Canned baked beans, brown bread, butter or fortified margarine, apple and cabbage salad, boiled dressing, chocolate brownies, tea, milk.

DINNER: Salmon loaf, savory tomato sauce, steamed rice, canned peas with white onions, whole wheat bread, butter or fortified margarine, iceberg lettuce wedges, dressing, steamed ginger pudding, foamy sauce, coffee, milk.

Bodies Will Leave

Yokohama, March 8 (AP) — The bodies of Maj. Gen. Bryant E. Moore and 49 soldiers, sailors, marines and airmen will leave by ship Sunday as the U. S. starts moving war dead home from an active theatre for the first time in history. Moore was Ninth Corps commander until he died in Korea after a helicopter accident February 25. The 49 ranged from privates and seamen upwards.

About 3,000 crossties are laid into a mile of standard railroad track.

Pearl River, N. Y., March 8 (AP) —A 22-year-old hunter who shot at a crow—and blew up a fireworks plant—was fined $250 last night. The penalty was imposed on Frank Perkins, Jr., after he pleaded guilty to discharging a gun within 500 feet of a building marked "explosives." This is a violation of the state labor law. Justice of the Peace John Borger levied the fine.

Signing of Camelli Virtually Assured After Salary Talks

Two important developments concerning the progress of the formation of a Class C franchise for Kingston in the Canadian-American Baseball League were announced this morning following conferences on Wednesday.

The first bit of news concerned the complete dissolving of the former corporation, Colonial City Baseball Club, Inc., by the naming of five men to head the new group to be known as the Kingston Baseball, Inc.

Another vital off the diamond news release indicated that Hank Camelli, former National League player, is virtually assured as managing the local club providing the franchise survives.

Camelli went into a long contract session Wednesday afternoon at the Kirkland Hotel and local officials, upon completion of the negotiations, said his signing as manager of the Kingston club is practically assured.

Camelli formerly played with the Pittsburgh Pirates and Boston Braves of the National League and with the Albany Senators of the Eastern League.

Jones Heads Group

Addison Jones was named temporary chairman last night of Kingston Baseball, Inc., the organization which is replacing the former group known as Colonial City Baseball, Inc.

Others named with Jones were Clarence S. Rowland, Frederick J. Ertel, Dave Popick and Al Kurdt, executive secretary of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce.

The new committee will prepare new corporation papers and will be followed later by the selection of nine new directors. New officers will be elected after the selection of the directors, it was pointed out this morning.

New progress in the financial drive was reported at last night's meeting of the Committee of Ten at the Stuyvesant Hotel.

The group, which is being assisted by 20 other workers, pledged $7,500 by next Wednesday's session.

A thorough campaign to raise funds to assist the local ball club was promised by the committee headed by Dave Popick.

Elia, Prince Score A.A.U. Knockouts

Two amateurs representing B'nai B'rith club of Kingston won by knockouts in the semi-finals of the Adirondack District A.A.U. Golden Gloves tournament at Albany, Wednesday.

Vince Elia, a heavyweight seen in action at the municipal auditorium while the club was promoting bouts here, dropped George Dennis of Albany in 55 seconds of the first round.

Eddie Prince, the welterweight representing Kingston, knocked out Bill St. Clair of Williamston, Mass., in one minutes, 34 seconds.

Horsemen Elect Walker; Banquet Date Set April 11

At its annual meeting this week, the Kingston Horsemen's Association re-elected Harry B. Walker president and announced the date for this year's banquet as Wednesday, April 11. The dinner will be held at The Barn.

In choosing former Mayor Walker as president again, the horsemen observed their tradition that members of the original association formed in 1918 be honored with the top post.

Walker, a horse lover since boyhood, said he cherished the consideration of his fellow associates in making him president for another term because he is vitally interested in carrying on the projects of the association.

His predecessor in the office was Elmer Palen, who served for a number of years before his death. Like Walker, he was from the original association, and was one of the city's best known horsemen.

Officers elected at the meeting in Cuneo's to serve with President Walker were: A. H. Chambers, vice president; Clifford Anderson, secretary-treasurer.

Committees in charge of arrangements for the April 11th banquet are:

John H. Roosa, general chairman; A. H. Chambers, Clifford Anderson, Harry B. Walker; entertainment, James McCabe, chairman; Dr. Morton Lown, David Schenck and Ferd Gildersleeve, tickets, Isidore Epstein, chairman; Harry Beatty and Claude Markle.

The price of tickets for the steak dinner will include the organization's membership fee for the year.

Most westerly point in continental United States is Cape Alva, Wash.

To Carry 11 Hurlers

Bradenton, Fla., March 8 (AP)—Unless he changes his mind Boston Braves Manager Billy Southworth will have eleven pitchers and only two catchers on his roster after the start of the championship National League season.

That would leave Walt Linden, Ebba St. Claire and Paul Burris to battle for the number two spot behind Walker Cooper as Del Crandall is about to be drafted into the service.

Brown as Leadoff

Vero Beach, Fla., March 8 (AP)—When the Brooklyn Dodgers play the Boston Braves in their first exhibition game Saturday night in Miami, Tommy Brown, of all people, will bat in the No. 1 position for the Brooks.

Manager Chuck Dressen said so yesterday. He gave the 23-year-old youngster the nod over such competitors as Gene Hermanski, Don Thompson, George Shuba, Bill Sharman, Jim Russell and Hank Edwards.

Back in Tourney Play

Woodstocks Trip A.Z.A. Quintet, 61-48

The most spectacular shot of the game came with about two seconds left in the first half when Paul Van Wagenen, Woodstock forward, soared a three-quarter length of the court set shot through the cords.

Woodstock held a 29-25 edge at halftime.

The scores:

Horsemen Elect Walker; Banquet Date Set April 11

At its annual meeting this week, the Kingston Horsemen's Association re-elected Harry B. Walker president and announced the date for this year's banquet as Wednesday, April 11. The dinner will be held at The Barn.

In choosing former Mayor Walker as president again, the horsemen observed their tradition that members of the original association formed in 1918 be honored with the top post.

Walker, a horse lover since boyhood, said he cherished the consideration of his fellow associates in making him president for another term because he is vitally interested in carrying on the projects of the association.

His predecessor in the office was Elmer Palen, who served for a number of years before his death. Like Walker, he was from the original association, and was one of the city's best known horsemen.

Officers elected at the meeting in Cuneo's to serve with President Walker were: A. H. Chambers, vice president; Clifford Anderson, secretary-treasurer.

Committees in charge of arrangements for the April 11th banquet are:

John H. Roosa, general chairman; A. H. Chambers, Clifford Anderson, Harry B. Walker; entertainment, James McCabe, chairman; Dr. Morton Lown, David Schenck and Ferd Gildersleeve, tickets, Isidore Epstein, chairman; Harry Beatty and Claude Markle.

The price of tickets for the steak dinner will include the organization's membership fee for the year.

Most westerly point in continental United States is Cape Alva, Wash.

To Carry 11 Hurlers

Bradenton, Fla., March 8 (AP)—Unless he changes his mind Boston Braves Manager Billy Southworth will have eleven pitchers and only two catchers on his roster after the start of the championship National League season.

That would leave Walt Linden, Ebba St. Claire and Paul Burris to battle for the number two spot behind Walker Cooper as Del Crandall is about to be drafted into the service.

Buenos Aires, March 8 (AP)—On the competitive side, the first Pan American games end tonight with a blazing basketball game between the United States and Argentina. This is the one championship the Argentine fans would rather win than all the others. As far as the overall domination of the games goes, Argentina has it sewed up with 1,071½ unofficial points to 724¼ for the United States. But national honor will be at stake when the U. S. and Argentina take the court about 9:30-10 p. m. (E.S.T.) in jampacked Luna Park, which seats at least 20,000.

Sportsmen to Meet

The regular meeting of the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster county will be held Wednesday night, March 14, at the clubhouse of the Wittenberg Sportsmen's Club. Delegates to the New York State Conservation Council meeting on February 26 will make their reports. A representative of the New Rochelle club will be on hand to give members more details about his club's application for membership. A full attendance is anticipated.

Rookie Stops Greenberg

Tucson, Ariz., March 8 (AP)—Irritated because Cuban Rookie Orestes Minoso was six days late, Cleveland General Manager Hank Greenberg asked him: "What would you say to me if I were that late?" Minnie scowled, then grinned and replied: "I'd say you're a good fellow. Let's forget the whole thing." Greenberg gave up and decided to forget it. Minnie hit .339 for San Diego last season.

Will Be Sidelined At Least Two Months

The 29-year old titleholder's ear was puffed up in his successful 15-round defense against 37-year old Jersey Joe Walcott last night. His personal physician ordered Ezzard to stay out of action for at least two months.

Charles, who was almost toppled from his throne in the fourth round by a crashing right to the jaw, had the swelling drained down from the ear at a hospital early this morning.

Co-Manager Tom Tannas said "the champ is okay but he'll have to give the ear a chance to heal before he does anything else. However Charles is willing to meet anybody the International Boxing Club offers. And that includes Louis, as soon as Ez is ready."

Louis, who received a thunderous ovation from the 13,852 fans ($75,502 gross gate) at Olympia Stadium, left shortly after the unanimous decision was announced. He didn't receive the disappointing news until today.

Shock to Louis

It came as a great shock to the Brown Bomber. Louis has had four fights, has trimmed down to 207 pounds, and he feels he is ready right now. He doesn't want to waste any time. His 37 birthday comes up this May.

Walcott's 37 years didn't seem to hang heavy on him in several spots last night, notably in the fourth and 15th rounds when the 5 to 1 underdog had Charles in trouble.

In the fourth a right to the chin staggered the champion and one more might have sent him to the floor for keeps. But Charles clung to Walcott for sixty long seconds and the challenger couldn't shake him off. By the end of the round, Charles had recovered and he danced to his corner.

Thus another championship bubble burst for Walcott. He came close to the crown in his first fight with Louis and he wasn't too far away in his first bout with Charles for the NBA diadem in Chicago 20 months ago.

Walcott Hits Canvas

After the fourth round Charles got cagy and in the ninth he rocked Walcott to the canvas for a nine-count with a powerful right to the head and a terrific left hook to the jaw. That was the only knockdown of the fight although Charles came close again in the 14th. A right to the jaw sent Walcott back to the ropes and rubbery legs but the bell soon came to his rescue.

In the 15th, Walcott, out for a desperate, last gasp knockout, belted Charles with a couple of corkers. Most of the steam had gone from his blows by then, however, and Charles took them and kept coming. The champ, too, was trying for a kayo, and the round had the fans roaring to the final bell.

The champ scored effectively at close range with short punches, blows that might not have been seen by most of the gallery and the millions of television viewers around the country. Charles weighed 186 and Walcott 193.

Robinson Gets British Okay

London, March 8 (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson was recognized officially today as a double world champion—welterweight and middleweight—by the British Boxing Board of Control.

Both the National Boxing Association and the New York State Athletic Commission stripped Sugar of his welter crown the night he took the middleweight title from Jake LaMotta.

The British board is the first official body to confirm Robinson's own opinion that he is champion of both divisions.

Two Phils Sidelined

Clearwater, Fla., March 8 (AP)—Dick Sisler, hard-hitting outfielder, and rookie infielder Buddy Hicks will not be very active for a few days. Both left the Philadelphia Phillies' intra-squad game yesterday with pulled leg muscles. Eddie Waitkus was the hitting star and made the fielding gem of the day as the team headed by Coach Benny Bengough defeated Dusty Cooke's outfit 13-3. Waitkus connected with three hits, drove in the same number of runs and made a great stop of Gran Hamner's hurried throw to retire Del Wilber.

Giants Sign Kramer

Bucs Try Negro Star

San Bernardino, Calif., March 8 (AP)—Ed Morris, 25-year-old right handed pitcher formerly with the Kansas City Monarchs, may become the first Negro player in the Pittsburgh Pirates organization. Branch Rickey, Jr., has arranged for Morris to work out with the Bucs today, under the tutelage of George Sisler. Sisler said Morris' age "may make it tough for him" to make the grade, since the Pirates wouldn't want to farm him out to one of the low minor league clubs.

The 29-year old titleholder's ear was puffed up in his successful 15-round defense against 37-year old Jersey Joe Walcott last night. His personal physician ordered Ezzard to stay out of action for at least two months.

Charles, who was almost toppled from his throne in the fourth round by a crashing right to the jaw, had the swelling drained down from the ear at a hospital early this morning.

Co-Manager Tom Tannas said "the champ is okay but he'll have to give the ear a chance to heal before he does anything else. However Charles is willing to meet anybody the International Boxing Club offers. And that includes Louis, as soon as Ez is ready."

Louis, who received a thunderous ovation from the 13,852 fans ($75,502 gross gate) at Olympia Stadium, left shortly after the unanimous decision was announced. He didn't receive the disappointing news until today.

Shock to Louis

It came as a great shock to the Brown Bomber. Louis has had four fights, has trimmed down to 207 pounds, and he feels he is ready right now. He doesn't want to waste any time. His 37 birthday comes up this May.

Walcott's 37 years didn't seem to hang heavy on him in several spots last night, notably in the fourth and 15th rounds when the 5 to 1 underdog had Charles in trouble.

In the fourth a right to the chin staggered the champion and one more might have sent him to the floor for keeps. But Charles clung to Walcott for sixty long seconds and the challenger couldn't shake him off. By the end of the round, Charles had recovered and he danced to his corner.

Thus another championship bubble burst for Walcott. He came close to the crown in his first fight with Louis and he wasn't too far away in his first bout with Charles for the NBA diadem in Chicago 20 months ago.

Walcott Hits Canvas

After the fourth round Charles got cagy and in the ninth he rocked Walcott to the canvas for a nine-count with a powerful right to the head and a terrific left hook to the jaw. That was the only knockdown of the fight although Charles came close again in the 14th. A right to the jaw sent Walcott back to the ropes and rubbery legs but the bell soon came to his rescue.

In the 15th, Walcott, out for a desperate, last gasp knockout, belted Charles with a couple of corkers. Most of the steam had gone from his blows by then, however, and Charles took them and kept coming. The champ, too, was trying for a kayo, and the round had the fans roaring to the final bell.

The champ scored effectively at close range with short punches, blows that might not have been seen by most of the gallery and the millions of television viewers around the country. Charles weighed 186 and Walcott 193.

Robinson Gets British Okay

London, March 8 (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson was recognized officially today as a double world champion—welterweight and middleweight—by the British Boxing Board of Control.

Both the National Boxing Association and the New York State Athletic Commission stripped Sugar of his welter crown the night he took the middleweight title from Jake LaMotta.

The British board is the first official body to confirm Robinson's own opinion that he is champion of both divisions.

Two Phils Sidelined

Clearwater, Fla., March 8 (AP)—Dick Sisler, hard-hitting outfielder, and rookie infielder Buddy Hicks will not be very active for a few days. Both left the Philadelphia Phillies' intra-squad game yesterday with pulled leg muscles. Eddie Waitkus was the hitting star and made the fielding gem of the day as the team headed by Coach Benny Bengough defeated Dusty Cooke's outfit 13-3. Waitkus connected with three hits, drove in the same number of runs and made a great stop of Gran Hamner's hurried throw to retire Del Wilber.

Giants Sign Kramer

Bucs Try Negro Star

San Bernardino, Calif., March 8 (AP)—Ed Morris, 25-year-old right handed pitcher formerly with the Kansas City Monarchs, may become the first Negro player in the Pittsburgh Pirates organization. Branch Rickey, Jr., has arranged for Morris to work out with the Bucs today, under the tutelage of George Sisler. Sisler said Morris' age "may make it tough for him" to make the grade, since the Pirates wouldn't want to farm him out to one of the low minor league clubs.

Ear Injury Shelves Charles After 15-Round Win Over Joe Walcott

Will Be Sidelined At Least Two Months

Detroit, March 8 (AP)—An injured left ear today sidelined Ezzard Charles for two months, dashing Joe Louis' hopes for a crack at the heavyweight champion this April.

The 29-year old titleholder's ear was puffed up in his successful 15-round defense against 37-year old Jersey Joe Walcott last night. His personal physician ordered Ezzard to stay out of action for at least two months.

Charles, who was almost toppled from his throne in the fourth round by a crashing right to the jaw, had the swelling drained down from the ear at a hospital early this morning.

Co-Manager Tom Tannas said "the champ is okay but he'll have to give the ear a chance to heal before he does anything else. However Charles is willing to meet anybody the International Boxing Club offers. And that includes Louis, as soon as Ez is ready."

Louis, who received a thunderous ovation from the 13,852 fans ($75,502 gross gate) at Olympia Stadium, left shortly after the unanimous decision was announced. He didn't receive the disappointing news until today.

Cagers End Games

Buenos Aires, March 8 (AP)—On the competitive side, the first Pan American games end tonight with a blazing basketball game between the United States and Argentina. This is the one championship the Argentine fans would rather win than all the others. As far as the overall domination of the games goes, Argentina has it sewed up with 1,071½ unofficial points to 724¼ for the United States. But national honor will be at stake when the U. S. and Argentina take the court about 9:30-10 p. m. (E.S.T.) in jampacked Luna Park, which seats at least 20,000.

Racing Bodies Help Defense Effort

New York, March 8 (AP)—Five New York state racing associations have laid $50,000 on the line with the State Civil Defense Commission to aid its work.

The money was given to the commission for the purchase of cots, blankets and foodstuffs to be stored at their four tracks as emergency supplies to serve in the event of enemy attack.

The commission also announced yesterday that the associations have set aside the four tracks as emergency welfare centers for use in time of attack. The tracks are Saratoga in upstate New York, and Belmont Park, Aqueduct and Jamaica, all in metropolitan New York.

Col. Lawrence Wilkinson, acting chairman of the commission, said: "The facilities offered . . . for feeding, temporary housing, parking, assembly of vehicles, and care of persons made temporarily homeless by a disaster, will enable city and county civil defense officials to care for thousands of persons."

Migrations Misunderstood

Because bird migrations were not fully understood, the belief that many birds hibernated in winter persisted well into the 19th Century.

Schaff Admits Accepting Bribe In Cornell Game

New York, March 8 (AP)—Authorities say Connie Schaff, New York University basketball ace, has admitted accepting a $1,900 bribe to fix a game last New Year's Day between NYU and Cornell.

The new charge against Schaff, already under arrest for a purported attempt to bribe a teammate, was made by Assistant District Attorney Vincent A. G. O'Connor.

Schaff is one of 13 players or former players, involved in college basketball's blackest scandal, accused of rigging results of at least 16 games at Madison Square Garden during the past three seasons.

O'Connor said Schaff admitted he talked with two fixers before the Cornell game at the Garden and agreed to try to line up another NYU player for the fix.

The bribe payers and the other player, who turned down the bribe offer, were not named by O'Connor.

Assuming that Schaff had a partner in the scheme, the promised payoff was $3,000, O'Connor said.

Gave Him $1,900

After the game—won by Cornell 69 to 56 in an upset—Schaff was quoted as saying the money men gave him $1,900 and told him:

"We can't give you any more because it was an afternoon game and we couldn't get down many bets and didn't make much money."

O'Connor said the fixers thought the money was a payoff to two players, and that Schaff remained silent about failing to line up a teammate.

Schaff still tried to get the whole $3,000, O'Connor said, and was told:

"Never mind, you'll be taken care of—there are other games coming and we'll take care of you later."

Schaff played about three-quarters of the NYU-Cornell contest.

At Ithaca, Cornell Coach R. C. Greene said he was certain his players were not involved in any bribes. Greene refused comment on both Schaff and NYU.

The current scandal—involving players of NYU, City College of New York, and Long Island University—rebounded into the Manhattan College basketball fix expose of two months ago.

Arrested yesterday and charged with conspiracy and bribery was Soll Leon Rappaport, 25, a Brooklyn button manufacturer.

Rappaport had been hunted since last Jan. 16 after an alleged attempt to fix the Manhattan-De Paul of Chicago game at the Garden.

Called the "Mysterious Stanley" of the Manhattan case, Rappaport is the fifth alleged fixer in both scandals to be accused of bribing college court stars so gamblers could clean up on game results.

Another one of those heavy scoring sessions featured the pin-busting business at the Central Rec drives Wednesday night when eight members of the Centarl Rec Major wheel wound up with 600 blasts.

Topping the list was Cliff Quick who fired a sizzling series of 200-238-225 for a hat trick triple of 663.

A couple of 600s back to back by Don Weeks and H. Pine featured the tenpin action in the Federation American League at the Y lanes Wednesday night.

The Ruzzo Bowlatorium will conduct a series of weekly week-end singles sweepstakes starting Friday night. The play will continue every week-end from Friday night to Sunday.

Three games will be rolled across six alleys, with 70 per cent handicap off a 200 scratch, with entrants using their highest league average. Unlimited re-entries are permitted and the $2 entry fee includes bowling charges.

Sandwiching in a 202 single around scores of 183 and 192, D. Clausi paced the C.Y.O. trundlers this week at the Bowlodrome with a 577 three-timer.

George Kearney shot 211-564; Ed Auclair 206-561; George Smith 554; Johnny Zeeh 554; Jim Noble 551; Joe Watzka 201-549; Joe Mahar 213-547; Pete Nagy 201-545; and C. Maurer 204-544.

The No. 2 keglerette was Kay Roosa with 471. A. Kirn posted 466, T. Habsrouck 465.

Racing Bodies Help Defense Effort

New York, March 8 (AP)—Five New York state racing associations have laid $50,000 on the line with the State Civil Defense Commission to aid its work.

The money was given to the commission for the purchase of cots, blankets and foodstuffs to be stored at their four tracks as emergency supplies to serve in the event of enemy attack.

The commission also announced yesterday that the associations have set aside the four tracks as emergency welfare centers for use in time of attack. The tracks are Saratoga in upstate New York, and Belmont Park, Aqueduct and Jamaica, all in metropolitan New York.

Col. Lawrence Wilkinson, acting chairman of the commission, said: "The facilities offered . . . for feeding, temporary housing, parking, assembly of vehicles, and care of persons made temporarily homeless by a disaster, will enable city and county civil defense officials to care for thousands of persons."

Migrations Misunderstood

Because bird migrations were not fully understood, the belief that many birds hibernated in winter persisted well into the 19th Century.

Schaff Admits Accepting Bribe In Cornell Game

New York, March 8 (AP)—Authorities say Connie Schaff, New York University basketball ace, has admitted accepting a $1,900 bribe to fix a game last New Year's Day between NYU and Cornell.

The new charge against Schaff, already under arrest for a purported attempt to bribe a teammate, was made by Assistant District Attorney Vincent A. G. O'Connor.

O'Connor said last night that Schaff several days ago told of taking fix money for the NYU-Cornell game and trying to get another player to do likewise.

Schaff is one of 13 players or former players, involved in college basketball's blackest scandal, accused of rigging results of at least 16 games at Madison Square Garden during the past three seasons.

O'Connor said Schaff admitted he talked with two fixers before the Cornell game at the Garden and agreed to try to line up another NYU player for the fix.

The bribe payers and the other player, who turned down the bribe offer, were not named by O'Connor.

Assuming that Schaff had a partner in the scheme, the promised payoff was $3,000, O'Connor said.

Gave Him $1,900

After the game—won by Cornell 69 to 56 in an upset—Schaff was quoted as saying the money men gave him $1,900 and told him:

"We can't give you any more because it was an afternoon game and we couldn't get down many bets and didn't make much money."

O'Connor said the fixers thought the money was a payoff to two players, and that Schaff remained silent about failing to line up a teammate.

Schaff still tried to get the whole $3,000, O'Connor said, and was told:

"Never mind, you'll be taken care of—there are other games coming and we'll take care of you later."

Schaff played about three-quarters of the NYU-Cornell contest.

At Ithaca, Cornell Coach R. C. Greene said he was certain his players were not involved in any bribes. Greene refused comment on both Schaff and NYU.

The current scandal—involving players of NYU, City College of New York, and Long Island University—rebounded into the Manhattan College basketball fix expose of two months ago.

Arrested yesterday and charged with conspiracy and bribery was Soll Leon Rappaport, 25, a Brooklyn button manufacturer.

Rappaport had been hunted since last Jan. 16 after an alleged attempt to fix the Manhattan-De Paul of Chicago game at the Garden.

Called the "Mysterious Stanley" of the Manhattan case, Rappaport is the fifth alleged fixer in both scandals to be accused of bribing college court stars so gamblers could clean up on game results.

The golden plover when it migrates south in winter often flies over the Atlantic from Nova Scotia to Argentina non-stop.

Schaff is one of 13 players or former players, involved in college basketball's blackest scandal, accused of rigging results of at least 16 games at Madison Square Garden during the past three seasons.

O'Connor said Schaff admitted he talked with two fixers before the Cornell game at the Garden and agreed to try to line up another NYU player for the fix.

The bribe payers and the other player, who turned down the bribe offer, were not named by O'Connor.

Assuming that Schaff had a partner in the scheme, the promised payoff was $3,000, O'Connor said.

Gave Him $1,900

After the game—won by Cornell 69 to 56 in an upset—Schaff was quoted as saying the money men gave him $1,900 and told him:

"We can't give you any more because it was an afternoon game and we couldn't get down many bets and didn't make much money."

O'Connor said the fixers thought the money was a payoff to two players, and that Schaff remained silent about failing to line up a teammate.

Schaff still tried to get the whole $3,000, O'Connor said, and was told:

"Never mind, you'll be taken care of—there are other games coming and we'll take care of you later."

Schaff played about three-quarters of the NYU-Cornell contest.

At Ithaca, Cornell Coach R. C. Greene said he was certain his players were not involved in any bribes. Greene refused comment on both Schaff and NYU.

The current scandal—involving players of NYU, City College of New York, and Long Island University—rebounded into the Manhattan College basketball fix expose of two months ago.

Arrested yesterday and charged with conspiracy and bribery was Soll Leon Rappaport, 25, a Brooklyn button manufacturer.

Rappaport had been hunted since last Jan. 16 after an alleged attempt to fix the Manhattan-De Paul of Chicago game at the Garden.

Called the "Mysterious Stanley" of the Manhattan case, Rappaport is the fifth alleged fixer in both scandals to be accused of bribing college court stars so gamblers could clean up on game results.

The golden plover when it migrates south in winter often flies over the Atlantic from Nova Scotia to Argentina non-stop.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. FIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

The city tenpin hotshots and a few lesser lights have piled up "700" triples with such frequency this season that the once sacred "Big Seven" has become almost commonplace.

With at least six weeks of league play still remaining, city association keglers have accounted for a total of fourteen "700" blasts, a new all-time seasonal record by a wide margin.

Johnny Ferraro, who has rolled more "700" triples than any bowler in the Hudson Valley area, leads the parade with four—721, 714, 733 (highest for the season to date) and 701.

Young Phil Corrado parlayed a new grip and determination into a pair of seven-hundred blasts—716 and 708. Established veterans like John MacLellan (714), Ken Williams (708), Bill Kuehn (704), Harold Broskie (717) and Larry Weishaupt (728) accounted for several others.

Then you get into the surprise department. There is Big Joe Mahar, a 165-170 average kegler, taking the Bowlodrome lanes apart with 717. Frank Grimaldi, in the 170-average bracket, cracked 732 on alleys 7 and 8 at the Central Recs, just one pin shy of Ferraro's seasonal high. Then Tom Carlino comes along and blasts 705 in the City League.

Carlino's "700" triple could not be classified as unexpected or surprising. The baseball star had flirted with it a couple of times earlier in the season. The 732 blast by Grimaldi and Mahar's 717, however, were like lightning bolts out of a clear sky. They were the surprise shockeroos of the season, but pleasant ones, of course.

The chronology of "700" bowling dates as of the start of calendar year, August 1, 1950, follows:

August 8	John MacLellan	714	Ferraro Classic
October 1	John Ferraro	721	Hudson Valley League
October 30	John Ferraro	714	City League
November 7	Ken Williams	708	Central Rec Major
November 16	William Kuehn	704	Ferraro Major
November 20	John Ferraro	733	City League
December 12	John Ferraro	701	Ferraro Major
December 15	Harold Broskie	717	Ferraro Classic
January 15	Phil Corrado	716	City League
January 22	Joe Mahar	717	City Minor League
February 21	Larry Weishaupt	728	Central Rec Major
February 26	Phil Corrado	708	City League
February 27	Frank Grimaldi	732	Central Rec League
March 5	Tom Carlino	705	City League

• Splits and Misses:

The 48th annual American Bowling Congress championship tournament which opens on April 7 in St. Paul has attracted 5,194 teams, the seventh largest ABC tournament in history. In the regular division there will be 2,856 teams rolling for top honors. The booster section (teams with averages under 850) will have 2,338 teams. There are also 9,656 doubles, 19,334 singles and 14,241 in all-events. Eight of the nation's best bowlers will be featured in a clinic starting May 28. They will appear nightly in a half hour of instruction and trick shot performances. The stars chosen for this event include Andy Varipapa, Joe Wilman, Junie McMahon, Buddy Bomar, Ned Day, Ed Easter, Dick Hoover and Lee Jouglard. Ann Sabolowski Noga, who is well known in Kingston, pounded 725 in a Queens mixed league a few nights ago. Steve Nagy, Cleveland's famed hotshot, recently set a national scoring record with an 830 three-game set in the Ohio State team match series between Akron and Cleveland. He shot scores of 268, 286 and 277. In the first 12-game block of the series on strange alleys, Nagy averaged 250-5 with series of 750, 737, 687, and 831.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. FIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

The city tenpin hotshots and a few lesser lights have piled up "700" triples with such frequency this season that the once sacred "Big Seven" has become almost commonplace.

With at least six weeks of league play still remaining, city association keglers have accounted for a total of fourteen "709" blasts, a new all-time seasonal record by a wide margin.

Johnny Ferraro, who has rolled more "700" triples than any bowler in the Hudson Valley area, leads the parade with four—721, 714, 733 (highest for the season to date) and 701.

Young Phil Corrado parlayed a new grip and determination into a pair of seven-hundred blasts—716 and 708. Established veterans like John MacLellan (714), Ken Williams (708), Bill Kuehn (704), Harold Broskie (717) and Larry Weishaupt (728) accounted for several others.

Then you get into the surprise department. There is Big Joe Mahar, a 165-170 average kegler, taking the Bowlodrome lanes apart with 717. Frank Grimaldi, in the 170-average bracket, cracked 732 on alleys 7 and 8 at the Central Rec, just one pin shy of Ferraro's seasonal high. Then Tom Carlino comes along and blasts 705 in the City League.

Carlino's "700" triple could not be classified as unexpected or surprising. The baseball star had flirted with it a couple of times earlier in the season. The 732 blast by Grimaldi and Mahar's 717, however, were like lightning bolts out of a clear sky. They were the surprise shockeroos of the season, but pleasant ones, of course.

The chronology of "700" bowling dates as of the start of calendar year, August 1, 1950, follows:

August 8	John MacLellan	714	Ferraro Classic
October 1	John Ferraro	721	Hudson Valley League
October 30	John Ferraro	714	City League
November 7	Ken Williams	708	Central Rec Major
November 16	William Kuehn	704	Ferraro Major
November 20	John Ferraro	733	City League
December 12	John Ferraro	701	Ferraro Major
December 15	Harold Broskie	717	Ferraro Classic
January 15	Phil Corrado	716	City League
January 22	Joe Mahar	717	City Minor League
February 21	Larry Weishaupt	728	Central Rec Major
February 26	Phil Corrado	708	City League
February 27	Frank Grimaldi	732	Central Rec League
March 5	Tom Carlino	705	City League

• Splits and Misses:

The 48th annual American Bowling Congress championship tournament which opens on April 7 in St. Paul has attracted 5,194 teams, the seventh largest ABC tournament in history. In the regular division there will be 2,856 teams rolling for top honors. The booster section (teams with averages under 850) will have 2,338 teams. There are also 9,656 doubles, 19,334 singles and 14,241 in all-events. Eight of the nation's best bowlers will be featured in a clinic starting May 28. They will appear nightly in a half hour of instruction and trick shot performances. The stars chosen for this event include Andy Varipapa, Joe Wilman, Junie McMahon, Buddy Bomar, Ned Day, Ed Easter, Dick Hoover and Lee Jouglard. Ann Sabolowski Noga, who is well known in Kingston, pounded 725 in a Queens mixed league a few nights ago. Steve Nagy, Cleveland's famed hotshot, recently set a national scoring record with an 830 three-game set in the Ohio State team match series between Akron and Cleveland. He shot scores of 268, 286 and 277. In the first 12-game block of the series on strange alleys, Nagy averaged 250-5 with series of 750, 737, 687, and 831.

Whatever became of Ernie Magnusson, the erstwhile "Terrible Swede" of bowling?

By CHARLES J. FIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

The city tenpin hotshots and a few lesser lights have piled up "700" triples with such frequency this season that the once sacred "Big Seven" has become almost commonplace.

With at least six weeks of league play still remaining, city association keglers have accounted for a total of fourteen "700" blasts, a new all-time seasonal record by a wide margin.

Johnny Ferraro, who has rolled more "700" triples than any bowler in the Hudson Valley area, leads the parade with four—721, 714, 733 (highest for the season to date) and 701.

Young Phil Corrado parlayed a new grip and determination into a pair of seven-hundred blasts—716 and 708. Established veterans like John MacLellan (714), Ken Williams (708), Bill Kuehn (704), Harold Broskie (717) and Larry Weishaupt (728) accounted for several others.

Then you get into the surprise department. There is Big Joe Mahar, a 165-170 average kegler, taking the Bowlodrome lanes apart with 717, Frank Grimaldi, in the 170-average bracket, cracked 732 on alleys 7 and 8 at the Central Rees, just one pin shy of Ferraro's seasonal high. Then Tom Carlino comes along and blasts 705 in the City League.

Carlino's "700" triple could not be classified as unexpected or surprising. The baseball star had flirted with it a couple of times earlier in the season. The 732 blast by Grimaldi and Mahar's 717, however, were like lightning bolts out of a clear sky. They were the surprise shockeroos of the season, but pleasant ones, of course.

The chronology of "700" bowling dates as of the start of calendar year, August 1, 1950, follows:

August 8	John MacLellan	714	Ferraro Classic
October 1	John Ferraro	721	Hudson Valley League
October 30	John Ferraro	714	City League
November 7	Ken Williams	708	Central Rec Major
November 16	William Kuehn	704	Ferraro Major
November 20	John Ferraro	733	City League
Necember 12	John Ferraro	701	Ferraro Major
December 15	Harold Broskie	717	Ferraro Classic
January 15	Phil Corrado	716	City League
January 22	Joe Mahar	717	City Minor League
February 21	Larry Weishaupt	728	Central Rec Major
February 26	Phil Corrado	708	City League
February 27	Frank Grimaldi	732	Central Rec League
March 5	Tom Carlino	705	City League

• Splits and Misses:

The 48th annual American Bowling Congress championship tournament which opens on April 7 in St. Paul has attracted 5,194 teams, the seventh largest ABC tournament in history. In the regular division there will be 2,856 teams rolling for top honors. The booster section (teams with averages under 850) will have 2,338 teams. There are also 9,656 doubles, 19,334 singles and 14,241 in all-events. Eight of the nation's best bowlers will be featured in a clinic starting May 28. They will appear nightly in a half hour of instruction and trick shot performances. The stars chosen for this event include Andy Varipapa, Joe Wilman, Junie McMahon, Buddy Bomar, Ned Day, Ed Easter, Dick Hoover and Lee Jouglard. Ann Sabolowski Noga, who is well known in Kingston, pounded 725 in a Queens mixed league a few nights ago. Steve Nagy, Cleveland's famed hotshot, recently set a national scoring record with an 830 three-game set in the Ohio State team match series between Akron and Cleveland. He shot scores of 268, 286 and 277. In the first 12-game block of the series on strange alleys, Nagy averaged 250-5 with series of 750, 737, 687, and 831.

Republicans Show Truman Absences

Washington, March 8 (AP)—The Republican National Committee today circulated without comment a "record of the absences" from Washington of President Truman since Jan. 1, 1950.

It showed Mr. Truman was away 66 days, exclusive of his current 23-day trip to Key West, Fla., on various business, speaking and other journeys, and another 26 days on cruises in nearby waters, mostly week-end outings.

The 66 days included what the committee called the President's "vacation" at Key West a year ago which lasted 29 days. The White House insists the President also puts in a lot of work in Florida besides relaxing in the sun.

The committee said the record was prepared by its research division at the request of Senator Watkins (R.-Utah). It distributed it also for the "information of correspondents."

Survey of Auto Trips

Surveys in U. S. city areas show that 52 per cent of all auto trips are made for purposes of making a living, 13 per cent for shopping, 16 per cent for recreation and 19 per cent for miscellaneous purposes like going to the doctor or dentist or taking children to school.

Sheriff Is Indicted

Tampa, Fla., March 8 (AP)—Sheriff Hugh Culbreath was indicted by a Hillsborough county grand jury last night on charges of taking protection money from a Bolita gambler. Circuit Judge Henry C. Tillman, before whom the jury returned indictments, said papers would be served on the sheriff this morning and he would be required to post bond.
